treason known since creation began. This child's play was laughed at by the rebels, who made it serve to more thoroughly unite their followers in hatred of the Union cause. But now, that Abolition ingenuity and malice have exhausted themselves in inventing paper edicts, the big stubborn fact is acknowledged, that nothing but blows can bring the rebellion into subjection. The interesting question then arises, how is this to be accomplished? The Gazette has a plan, which we should like to see adopted, if we had the remotest confidence in its success. It says:

This war would have been ended long ago if all our leaders, military and civil, had as thoroughly tices !" hated the rebels as Ben Butler has hated them.

The extent of BUTLER's hatred of the rebels was, and is, unmistakable; according to public and private report his hatred of them, while in New Orleans, was so intense as to induce him to appropriate their property to his own use, to the amount of about a million and a half. But we do not see how this kind of hatred, practiced in particular localities, is going to put down the rebel armies, anymore than proclamations have performed that desirable achievement. It hatred, and cursing and savage resolutions would accomplish the suppression of the rebellion, it ought to have collapsed long ago. Like the disappointed they are beginning to talk about fight the existing evils. ing, instead of cursing, and in order to be successful they desire leaders like bune thus settles the matter of our im-BUT BUTLER. We are agreed to our poits and the method of paying for armies being led by such as he, provided we are now so largely importing other. the rank and file are composed of simi-lar material. Let those then who wish debt, which we have to sell at sixty or armies led to slaughter by mere seventy cents on the dollar. In other fanatics, like BUTLER, fill up the ranks borting one hundred and fity millions isnatica, like BUTLER, nil up the ranks and hasten to the field. A single cam-worth more of foreign products in 1864 paignt will convince them that, mere than we can send abroad products other "hatred," fike pëoclamations, is not than specie to pay for; and we are likely antificient to cope with skillful and cauanthetient to cope with skillful and cau-tious generalship, commanding cool and experienced soldiers. So, our Abolition which we shall sell for seventy million "haters" may make up their minds that or less. We prefer to sell such the decisive victories signed for, and ties to foreigners at such rates."
