LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

The Miners' Friendly Association.

Duly authorized Delegates from some fourteen different associations, convened at the Red Lion Hotel, on Saturday, for the purpose of furthering the cause of the association. Four thousand miners were represented by these delegates all residents of Western Pennsylvania.

The meeting was organized by electing Mr. David Bordan, of Sawmill run Chairman, and appointing Wm. B. McClay Sec'y. One of the principal objects of the meeting was to extend the State Association so as to connect with other State organizations and thus form a kind of National League, for the purpose of defending and protecting the interests of miners in the United States. From the Statistics in their possession, it appears that miners are employed in the most dangerous work about manufacturing establishments, while their wages are often below the standard of employees usually engaged in such places. Their work is as hard (if not harder) as that of any operatives about manufacturing establishments, they are more exposed to danger and dampness, and yet they are not remunerated for their labor in proportion to their dangers and hardships. By associating together they expect in time to have their grievances redressed.

Another object of the Association is to devise some plan for securing to each member of the Society the credit that is due to them for donations for charitable, benevolent and patriotic purposes. It often happens that they are taxed one, two or three days labor, for some charitable object and the proprietors of the works take all the credit of the donation. They seem willing to give to every public purpose a share of their wages, but they claim the right of an individual and personal credit for such donations.

Another object in assembling is to raise a sufficient amount of money to start a Miner's Journal, or at least to purchase such interest in some paper as will secure to them a fair and respectful consideration among their fellow citizens. There is a Journal of the kind published in Bellville, Illinois, called the "Weekly Miner," but it does not seem to have a very extended circulation. We express no opinion in regard to the merits of the Association, except to say that the delegates present were a very respectable body of men, and that the business before them was conducted in true parliamentary style.

The Oil Business.—There are about ten thousand barrels of oil now lying along the Allegheny river, extending from near the point, the distance of perhaps half a mile up the river, and from reports given by intelligent and reliable men from Oil City, there are at least ten thousand more barrels on the way from the wells to this place, and perhaps as many barrels filled and ready for shipment. Notwithstanding this the market does not seem to be affected, but drays are busy in taking it to the cars for the Eastern market.

The most important question with the citizens of Pittsburgh is how to get rid of this dangerous and inflammable liquid, now lying in such abundance in the heart of the city. Would it not be advisable to purchase grounds, on the river, beyond the Cemetery, and establish an oil Depot, at a safe distance from town? Such ground would cost money, but the expense incurred in this would be trifling compared with the loss that might be sustained in one night from fire, originating in the vicinity of the Allegheny wharf. If that oil should once take fire all the water in the river would not quench it. Then the drippings of the oil and its offensive smell are nuisances which should be speedily removed. We do not believe that the oil dealers themselves would have, or could have, any reasonable objection to such a measure. They are as subject to loss by fire now as persons who own houses and do business in the city. The oil is in more danger of taking fire here than out a few miles in the country, and not less subject to damage by water. A Depot a few miles out, connected with the Allegheny Valley Railroad, by a short branch, would make transportation as easy and the market as convenient. Would it not therefore be advisable to move in this matter at once, as the oil trade will be more likely to increase than diminish from year to year.

The Pittsburgh Fair and the Chicago Board of Trade.—The Board of Trade Friday morning took the following action in reference to the Pittsburgh fair:

Whereas, This community feel under a debt of gratitude to the generous people of Pittsburgh, Pa., who so nobly aided the Sanitary Fair held in this city last fall, and the managers of the Chicago Fair having requested the President and Directors of this Board to appoint a committee to solicit, from our citizens and business men, subscriptions of money, or of useful and fancy articles for the benefit of the Sanitary Fair to be held at Pittsburgh during the coming month; therefore, be it

Resolved, That this Board heartily concur in this movement, and would request the following named gentlemen to act as a committee to obtain subscriptions and donations for the benefit of said Fair:

Ira Y. Munn, chairman; Chauncey T. Bowen and Potter Palmer for the Dry Goods merchants; S. C. Griggs and W. B. Keen for the booksellers; James H. Hoes, for the jewelers; U. H. Crosby, for the distillers; Wesley Munger, for the elevators; Charles M. Culbertson and Andrew Brown, for the packers and provision dealers; Ely Bates and Nelson Lundington for the lumber dealers; H. W. Raymond at large; H. H. Hinsdale, and C. G. Wisher, for the grocers; Murray Nelson in behalf of the Board of Trade.

Contributions will also be received by John F. Beaty, Secretary of the Board of Trade.

No Locals.—The scarcity of locals is complained of in this manner by a contemporary:

"It was hard enough for the Israelites to make brick without straw, but that was nothing to writing locals where there is nothing interesting to write about." We feel the force of this reasoning just now, yet cannot help congratulating the citizens of the place that it is so. The less crime there is committed, the less local will there be to write, not that all local is a narrative of crime, but because disorderly and vicious conduct increases the quantum of local. In a city containing about one hundred and sixty thousand persons, it is to their praise to say that but one or two cases of disorderly conduct happen each day upon an average. It is indeed wonderful that so many persons can associate together on every street and in every place of business, amid the bustle of cars, drays, wagons, carriages, bales, barrels and boxes, during the day, and every day, and every hour of the day, with so few collisions and accidents. A hundred thousand people swarming like bees, "athwart, multiform and mix," for an entire day, without one accident, or one complaint is indeed a wonderful affair. Especially in a manufacturing city like this, where there is so much heavy hauling, loading and unloading, of every variety of machinery, it is remarkable that there are so few misunderstandings, accidents and injuries.

CAMP OF THE 61ST REGT. PA. VOLS., NEAR BRANDY STATION, VA., April 26, 1864.

"MR. BARR: Sir:—The Abolition presses and LINCOLN loving politicians of the North are trying at the present time to make the people believe that there are no Democrats, or what we call McCLELLAN men, in the army. Now, that is not the case, and in this we wish to prove to you and the community at large that McCLELLAN is thought more of by the soldiers of this army than any other public man in the United States, and if he is nominated for President and the army gets a vote, the people will then see he is yet the pride of the Army of the Potomac."

This letter is signed by some forty McClellan men and only one Lincoln man. We are sorry we have not room for the publication of the names entire. The letter and signatures speak well for Gen. McClellan.

Another Riot.—About seven o'clock on Sunday evening, a row occurred at the corner of Webster and High streets, in the Third ward, between a number of persons who have been in the habit of associating together. There were several knock downs, and for an hour or two great danger was apprehended. The fight, however, seemed to be a set-to among themselves, and after satisfying their curiosity and feeling each others heads, they dispersed. In the mean time a police officer, Mr. John Thornburg, arrested one of the parties at the risk of his life and placed him in the lands for a hearing before the acting Mayor, Alderman Butler, this morning. It is probable two or three more will be arrested before morning. The Third ward is becoming somewhat notorious for riots.

Tableaux Vivants.—These performances were repeated on Saturday evening to a crowded house. Some of the scenes were indeed transcendantly beautiful and imposing. The gorgeous drapery, the rich costume, the correctness of representation, and the pantomic character of the scenes, make the performance charming and captivating beyond description. Apart from the very laudable objects of the exhibition, which is for the benefit of the Subsistence and Sanitary Committee, there is an influence imparted, of a refining and elevating nature, which should not be overlooked. What a grand school for the young the tableaux are sufficiently calculated to appreciate the ability of the performers, and to realize the most important historical teachings the lessons they are given!

Robberies.—There have been two or three cases of bold and daring robbery in the city during the last few days. A man who lives in Zanesville, Ohio, named Potwin, had his pocket picked at the Railroad Depot, which relieved him of two hundred dollars. One of our Aldermen, named George Dobbs, lost, or was robbed of three thousand dollars at the close of last week. Persons should be careful when stashing about the city, not to take out or exhibit their money or their books. Money is much easier lost carried just now, as regular accomplished thieves [illegible] every day.

Mr. Tetedoux' Concert is to take place tomorrow. We need but announce it to predict one of those large and fashionable audiences which have always been drawn by his concerts. This occasion will have an additional interest from the fact that some of his most promising pupils are to make their debut. The programme is well selected, and the well-known ability of Mr. T. as a teacher is sufficient guarantee that it will be well performed. Secured seats are for sale at C. C. Mellor's music store, 81 Wood street.

Disorderly Conduct.—There was a case up before Alderman Donaldson, of the Fourth ward, on Saturday, for supposed disorderly conduct. But the case assumed larger proportions, and, if the facts are true as the affidavit made, set forth the Alderman would have no jurisdiction. At least he appeared to think so. The decision will be given this morning. As the case may assume a different aspect before another tribunal we forbear to mention names.

May Day.—The first day of May passed off very quietly, being Sunday. There were no parties out that we know of, but no doubt there are arrangements made for parties to-day. The next time the first day of May comes, it had better come on a clear warm sunshinny Saturday, and thus give the young folks a chance for a spell of fun.

Another Riot.—Officers Lessner, Willison, Culp and Kemp arrested eight persons on Wood, near Water street, about nine o'clock last night, who were acting in a very riotous manner and disturbing the peace. They were furnished with comfortable quarters in the Mayor's apartments, under lock and key till morning, when they will have a further hearing.

Commitments.—The Mayor's police arrested some thirty persons during yesterday for disorderly conduct, drunkenness and vagrancy. One whole family was arrested on Millenberger's alley, and fined from three to five dollars a piece for assault and battery. Yesterday was quite a harvest for the police.

Another Victim.—The Chicago Post has published the story of the Salt Petre Cave, but has omitted a part of it. That paper says, "A man was found in the cave." He must have grown rapidly, as he was only a helpless, little fellow a few days ago. Truly wonders never cease.

The Octoroon.—The Theatre was full on Saturday evening, and the performance was excellent. Each actor played his part to perfection, and elicited frequent bursts of applause. The representations were natural, the chairacters appropriate and the performance a complete success.

Mr. A. A. Barker, of Ebensburg Cambria County, is appointed on the Republican State Central Committee. Mr. Barker was a Delegate to the Chicago Convention that nominated the Rail-splitter. He has great luck to empty honors.

Cattle Exhibition.—We understand that the lot of ground just west of and adjoining the new Allegheny city Hall, will be used temporarily, by the managers of the Sanitary Fair, as a place to exhibit such cattle as may be brought to the Fair.

New Steamers.—There are eleven new steam boats now lying at the Monongahela wharf, approaching completion. They are very handsomely modeled and, when painted, will make a very fine appearance.

The Richmond Campaign.

All Quiet as yet in the Army of the Potomac.

Rebel View of the Situation.

No Battle to be Fought on the Rapidan.

From the World's Correspondent.

BALTIMORE, April 28.

Southern View of the Military Situation in Virginia.

The following is the southern view of the present military situation in Virginia. I mean it is the view that comes here from southern authority; and I state this with particularity, because not a single item of the following information comes from Union sources. What is said about the strength and movements of the Union forces may or may not be true, but it is what is believed to be true at Richmond, and the rebel movements are based upon it.

Longstreet's whole corps has joined General Lee on the Rapidan, and Gen. Lee's army is now nearer one hundred thousand than eighty thousand strong. His main body is on the Rapidan, near Mine run, with Longstreet on the extreme left, and Ewel's corps on the right. The old corps of A. P. Hill holds the centre.

General Lee Designs to Throw his Main Body Between Grant and Washington.

In a word, depending on the vast advantage which his army enjoys in position; on the various defensive lines to which they can successfully fall back; and above all, on the impregnability of the defences of Richmond, it is General Lee's designs, after the Union army has crossed the Rapidan to move with the main body of his army northward; and either to throw himself in Meade's rear and endeavor to defeat the Union army first, or else to make a bold and rapid push toward either Washington or Pennsylvania.

The Battle Must be a Ground of Lee's Choosing.

And to whichever of these positions the enemy retires here General Grant will have to follow. It must not be forgotten that in this or land campaign, as in all that have preceded it, the battle, when it takes plad, will have to be fought at the time that Gen. Lee chooses, and on ground that he has selected for that purpose. It may be in Gen. Grant's power to defeat the rebel army after the battle has been joined. But it is not in his power to compl Gen. Lee to fight until he wishes to or in any other position than that which he himself has chosen. This is a disagreeable fact. But it is a fact nevertheless, and it may be well to reme ber it.

The Strong Position of the Rebels cannot be Turned.

General Lee knows, too, and his calculations are based upon this fact, that although General Grant's objective point is Richmond, yet till he will have to attack and defeat the confederate army before he can go there, and General Grant himself, of course, is fully aware of this fact. May people of the North who remember the great strength of the rebel position at the run, as demonstrated by General Lee in November or December of last year, and the terrible slaughter of our troops under Burnside in the attempt to take Fredericksburg in December of the year before, no doubt fancy that General Grant, in his advance, will try rather to turn any such strong position as he may encounter, and push on to Richmond, passing to one side of them. But this cannot be done. To do so would be to leave the rebel army in his rear, and its to gain precisely that position for the main body of his army, in other words, to get between General Grant and Washington, that General Lee's maneuvers will be directed.

Gen. Lee's Estimate of Gen. Grant.

General Lee is playing a very deep strategic game. Whatever may be the estimation in which General Grant is held by the masses at Richmond, Gen. Lee is too good a tidier to despise him. He is aware of the exact number of troops under Gen. Grant's orders, and he knows he will be to fight with a much larger army than he has before encountered. All his movements, as well as the preparations have been made with a view of deceiving General Grant in regard to his real intentions, and of leading the latter to believe that his object is the very reverse of what it really is. All of the maneuvers during the last six or seven days give color to the impression that he is massing the whole of his available strength on the south side of the Rapidan; that he has selected that as the battle-ground, and that it is there the battle to be fought there will also decide the fate of Richmond.

LATEST BY TELEGRAPH,

FOR THE POST.

FROM WASHINGTON.

All Quiet at the Front.

Special to the Post:

WASHINGTON, April 30.—There is nothing new from the Army of the Potomac. The rebel army is quiet. There is no probability that the War Department will grant the request of the Pennsylvania Legislature to muster out reserves for that State in May. It is expected that the Senate bill raising the pay of colored soldiers, will pass the House today.

From the Potomac Army.

The Enemy Hard at Work Fortifying the Fords.

Rebel Force in the Shenandoah Valley.

NEW YORK, April 30.—A special to the Times says: Officers from the front to-night profess to believe that active operations will not be commenced just now. The enemy are again busily engaged in throwing up more earthworks, and digging rifle-pits covering the various fords along the line of the Rapidan. Their pickets have been strengthened along the whole front, and extended further down the river towards our left. Picket firing is again resumed, and small skirmishes take place almost daily on our outposts.

There is no truth in the reported concentration of a large rebel force in the Shanandoah Valley, near Front Royal. The rebel force in the valley is Early's division of Ewell's corps, which our troops there outnumber two to one. Early's forces, augmented by irregular cavalry of Imboden, White, Mosby and Gilmore, do not in all amount to six thousand. Something important is expected before long from Gen. Averill.

General Burnside visited Generals Grant to-day on business connected with his department. The rumors that General Hooker has come on from the West, and is at Harper's Ferry, are utterly unfounded.

The Pennsylvania Reserves

Great Dissatisfaction Among the Men.

A Resolution Adopted for their Discharge in May.

HARRISBURG, April 29.—In the House of Representatives this evening, Mr. Barger made an important statement relative to the fifteen regiments of Pennsylvania Reserves. He stated that they entered the service of Pennsylvania three years ago, but were not mustered into the national service for two months afterwards. They are now greatly dissatisfied, so much so that many of them are under arrest, the men claiming that the time of service expired in May, and the National Government contending that it extended until July.

Mr. Barger read extracts of a letter from Col. McCandless, commanding the division, relative to the dissatisfaction, and fearing the men will refuse to serve after May.

Governor Curtin had urged some action on the part of the Legislature, to induce the Government to comply with the demands of the Reserves, and in accordance with the Governor's request, Mr. Barger offered a resolution urgently requesting the President to discharge the Reserves. The resolution was unanimously adopted.

Simon Cameron has been chosen Chairman of the State Central Committee.

From New York.

Extra Duty of 50 per Cent. on Imported Goods.

NEW YORK, April 30.—The new 50 per cent. extra duty on imported goods went into operation at 1 o'clock this afternoon. Merchants who had come forward in extraordinary numbers with their gold and invoices after the new tariff bill was introduced into Congress, were from the hour mentioned, quite indifferent as to the withdrawal of their goods, and the press of business has come to a close. The receipts at the Custom house for duties have reached during the present week the immense figures of nearly $5,000,000, almost exclusive of coin.

A Bill Relative to Abandoned Property.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—The Secretary has communicated to Mr. Washburne, of Ill., Chairman of the Committee on Commerce, the draft of a bill relative to the abandoned property with various suggestions concerning the necessary legislation upon the subject. The first section sanctions the sales of live stock, planting implements and machinery at the points where collected, instead of sending them to some place in the loyal States as required by the present law. The 2d section connects the case of abandoned plantations, with the general care of the freedmen whose support must be derived from cultivation of these lands, unless they are to become a burden on the Treasury. The 3d section provides that fees be charged for persons graduated according to the magnitude of transaction, and that they be paid into the Treasury after deducting attendant expenses, also the monies arising from leases of abandoned lands. The 4th section meets the cases of persons residing within the lines in insurrectionary States who claims to conduct transports supplies therein without being subject to the prohibitions and penalties applying to persons from other States. The 5th section is intended to sanction restricting supplies to the rebels. The fifth sections upon trade in loyal States even for the purpose of prevention repeals the existing distribution of one-half the proceeds from abandoned property to informers and custom officers and leaves the whole matter with the Court decreeing the forfeiture.

Stampede Among the Rebels.

NEW YORK, April 30.—The Newbern Times of the 27th says: On Friday last a large rebel force appeared in front of Little Washington, but their lines were soon destroyed and it is said a stampede [illegible]

Congressional Proceedings.

Increase of Soldiers Pay to $20 per Month.

THE APPROPRIATION BILLS.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—SENATE.—The House bill for the relief of settlers on land claims in California, was on motion of Mr. Harding, taken up and passed. The Senate bill granting lands for railroad purposes in Minnesota, as amended by the House, was passed. The Senate then resumed the National Bank bill and the amendment of the Finance Committee taxing Banks, was adopted. The currency bill reported to the Senate and its further consideration was deferred until Monday. Senate then adjourned.

HOUSE—Mr. Stevens reported from the committee on Ways and Means the Senate amendments to the army appropriation bill. Among the amendments was one which was adopted, appropriating $45,000 for the purchase of artificial limbs for soldiers and sailors.

The Senate amendments was read, in which the Committee on Ways and Means recommended a concurrence as follows: That colored persons mustered into the military service shall receive medical, hospital attendance and emoluments as white soldiers, from and after the first of June, 1864, and any person of color hereafter mustered into the service shall receive a bounty not exceeding $100.

Mr. Holman offered an a amendment to increase the pay of soldiers to $20 per month after January 1st, 1864, with a corresponding increase of pay to non-commissioned officers.

From New Orleans.

Rumors of General Steele at Shreveport.

ARRIVAL OF REFUGEES.

CAIRO, April 29.—The steamer Mississippi from New Orleans on the 23d via Memphis on the 27th has arrived; news meagre. The steamer Empire from Red river brought down Gen. Lee and Capt. Nuss on business connected with the organization of their commands. Maj. Connell, 1st N. H. cavalry was badly injured by kick from a horse but will recover. Lieut. W. Snow who was reported killed, is alive but a prisoner.

The Era publishes a rumor that Gen. Steel has taken possession of Shreveport and thrown up fortifications.

Nearly 300 refugees from Arkansas, Georgia and Alabama arrived here and present a most pitiable appearance.

From Washington.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—It is probable that a vote will be taken in the House on Wednesday on the House bill to provide Republican government for those of States overthrown or usurped by rebellion. A number of prepared speeches are yet to be delivered upon the subject.

The President has approved of the joint resolution, temporarily increasing the duty on imports 50 per cent. It is therefore a law.
