LOCAL INTELLIGENCE. The Sanitary vs. the Christain Comon foot here, by certain parties of the Christian mission, the purport of which is the transfer of a portion of the proceeds arising from the Sanitary Fair to the purposes of the Christain Commission. We are opposed to this entirely, and we think the majority of our citizens, when they properly understand the question, will bear us out in opposition to it.

bear us out in opposition to it.

The Sanitary Commission was established for a specific object, and that was the relief of sick, wounded, and suffering soldiers. No other object was contemplated within he scope of their action, nor none other is understood among the friends of the soldiers and the people at large. In all sections of the North, in response to the repeated calls of the Sanitary Department, the people have responded nobly, generously, and continuously with money and everything that could be of service in the relief of suffering, always understanding the object to thing that could be of service in the relief of spifering, always understanding the object to be as above stated. The physical wants of the soldier have thus been attended to as the speci-ality of the Sanitary Commission, and the re-ceipte therefor have been great in proportion to the strictness with which it has adhered to ceipts therefor have been great in proportion to he strictness with which it has adhered to its original purposes. All classes, conditions and sects, have united and continue to work upon this common ground harmoniously and efficiently.

On the other hand, the Christian Commission has undertaken the task of supplying the spiritual wants of the soldiers, its object is praise worthy enough; no one can, will, or does object to that Commission doing all they can in the speciality they have undertaken, but they should operate independently, and not attempt to divert from that object the means contributed for another purpose. There are those who have not such unbounded faith in the propriety of the motives and operations of the Christian Commission, as to be willing to adopt the sectarian views of its managers and aid in the spread of schismatic dogmas. Nor are they at the same time, willing to assist certain individuals and various denominational publishing houses to the erection of immense private fortunes at the expense of public charity. To illustrate at once our meaning and the objects of the Commission, we take the following tabulor statement of operations for 1883 from the lately issued report of the Commission:

Hymn and Psaim Books distributed Hym and Pasim Books distributed. I Knapasek Books distributed. I Library Books distributed. Magazines and Pamphlets distributed Religious Newspapers distributed. Pages of Tracts distributed. It Silent Comforters, &c., distributed. Boxes shipped to the field or at home publications, expenses of delegates, ac, out the amount spent for stores is not stated separately. Glancing, then, at the array of bibles, newspapers, tracts, "comforters," &c., it will strike the reader that by the time they were all paid for, dittle could remain for "stores" out of the sum of $286,211,28 expended. No doubt they had enough, without purchasing, in the private donations of goods, amounting in value to $385,829,07, and more, really, than could be managed with the book concern, as they could not well turn stores into tracts—which latter, as before stated, is the speciality of that Commission. The contributors to this fund of course relied upon the Commission to expend the funds in such manner as their judgment dictated, but many of those contributors, if left to choose between spiritual and bodily relief for the soldiers, would have chosen the latter. The necessity is therefore apparent that this Commission should confine its operations to its speciality and leave the rest to the Sanitary Commissions, which has ample scope and means to accomplish more fully and eaerystically the relief of bodily suffering among the soldiers than they have had or can have. People will then know exactly for what purpose their money is given and where and how it is applied.

It is wrong entirely to blace funds in the hands of the send and search the control of the send the part that the part had controlled to the send to the sen or can have. People will then know exactly for what purpose their money is given and where and how it is applied.

It is wrong entirely to place funds in the hands of persons devoted to one idea in the hope that another idea will be ministered to. It is wrong, therefore, to give money to the Christian Commission, hoping thereby that some pain-racked soldier will be supplied with medicines and the comforts and delicacies necessary to bring back health to his feeble frame. Proselyting seems to be one of the chief objects of the Christian Commission, as well as the support of particular houses, denominations and individuals, and it is therefore proper that the Sanitary Commission abould not be taxed for its support. The Christian Commission takes no thought of soldiers' widows, soldiers' orphans, and the thousands of cases of destitution and profligacy at home, for the reason, no doubt, that real charity is not at the bottom, but merely selfish aggrandizement and sectatian progress.

The success of our Sanitary Fair will depend very much upon the disposition of the funds. If a large, or any portion, is to go to assist in the distribution of tracts and "comforters" to soldiers,—who more frequently need medicines and physical comforts,—in order to make religious converts of them, then let the management be held to account before the public for failure. If such should result. Let the religious denominations support their tract peddling arrangement smong sick and wounded soldiers, to the neglect of their wives, and of widows and orphans; but, also, let the public alone in their efforts at pure benevolence. Each can be supported by their separate votaries and either need not trench on the other's speciality.

Penna. Railroad Depot.-Through the the new Penna Railroad Depot, we have been to that stupendous structure. Mr. W. H. Windram is the architect of the builling and Mr. Thomas Arnold, slater, has charge of the roofing, each of whom have been very obliging in sary to a description of the building.

The lot which the Rairond company had so much difficulty in procuring, and which was lately covered with dwellings that had to be removed, is seven hundred feet long, facing Liberty street, and one hundred and filty-nine feet wide, fronting Elm street. On the central part of the West end of this lot, the company is streeting a Hotel, two hundred feet long, and eighty-four feet wide, for the purpose of accommodating through passengers, and is not designed as a place for transient accommodation, or for visitors to this city. The basement of this hotel it, about fifteen feet high, the front of which will be occupied and used to Restaurants, the middle part for an apparatus to heat the entire building by stram, and the balance for a laundry and other similar purposes. On each side of this building there will be side sheds for passenger ears. Fronting Liberty steet there will be two tracks laid under these sheds, for the accommodation of the Fort Wayne & Uhicago Hallicoad. These sheds will be supported by metal columns, twenty-one feet high, and twenty feet apart, extending the entire length of the lot, seven hundred feet. A similar side sar-shed will be erected in the reat of the huilding, facing Quarry street, for the accommodation of the Steubenville connection. This will also extend a distance of seven-hundred feet, or the length of the lot.

The story immediately opposite the basement will be used for conductors rooms, ticket officer, baggage rooms, telegraph office, and other conveniences for persons immediately connected with the railroad. From each of the sheds an iron salling stairway will connect with the second story of the Hotel, on which there will be a dining room of large dimensions, a watting room, sixty feet by forty, together with closets, washrooms, and other private apartments. The basement and dining room will be connected by means of dumb waiters, and will be located in the front portion of the building, facing Liberty street. The length will be certical furnishing us with such statistics as are neces sary to a description of the building.

Great as this building is we predict that be-fore two years it will be entirely too small to accommodate either the city of the railroad. The Smoky City is yet in its infancy, but is destined to become a great business metropolis. Subsistence Committee, The Solder Subsistence Committee of this city, estr in 1861, have furnished rooms at 847 Liberty Subassence Committee of this city, established in 1881, have furnished rooms at $47. Interty street, just opposite the Mansion House, for the entertainment of soldiers passing through this place, who may be sick or temporarily detained. The second story of the building contains a dining room, and the rear of this room is a baggage room, and in the rear of this room is a baggage room, and in the rear of this the cooking apartments. On the third story is a zoom about one hundred feet iong furnished with forty beds and a book case and fibrary. The Committee have furnished a small room for the purpose of accommodating sick soldiers. This room will afford comforts for about ten or twelve invalid soldiers. This suite of rooms is well carpeted and papered, with every possible convenience. Medical attendance is also furnished for the sick. Any soldier in want will be accommodated hereuntil he can be removed to proper Government quarters. There is much wisdom in this arrangement, and the giver of money in this way, has the gratification of knowing that the soldier receives the benefit of the donation. We esamot speak too highly in praise of the efforts of this old association. The Committee number only about forty persons and yet they are doing more practical good than many larger associations. Soldiers are often thrown upon the cold carities of the world, by a failure of the railroad trains to make a connection, or on account of temporary sickness. There is an asylum open for such in the vicinity of the Depot where all may be nursed and fed. An entertainment will be given at these rooms on Thursday, evening next, for which see programme.

United States District Court.-In this court this morning, which is the beginning of the regular term, but eight grand jurors were present, consequently no charge was delivered to them. The traverse jurors for the October term were summoned to serve. The case of Dr. King, which was to have been taken up Dr. King, which was to have been taken up was postponed on account of the absence of an important witness. According to the Act of Coursess approved July 7, 1859, the Inspector of hulls, and boilers submitted a report to: the Court, which was filed. They state thist during the time, intervening between October 31st, 1863, and the lat of May, 1864, they have inspected fifty-four hulls, and the boilers of sixty-three steamers. They siso advised the making of repairs on several vossels, which were complied with. There were no accidents from explosions or from the injurious escape of steam. There was but one accident by collision, that of the "Hawk Eye" and "Dick Fulton," in which the latter was sunk, The accident occurred at the junction of the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers, and is now undergoing investigation before the Court.

McCiellan's Sword .- A few patriotic inlviduals—the ardent admirers of Maj. General McClellan, have got up a dollar subscription for the purpose of purchasing a sword, to be presented to that distinguished officer. We are much pleased with this movement. There is not a commander in the army of the United States, more justly entitled to a present of this kind than the hero of Antietam. He is the soldiers' friend and the peoplos' idid, and had justice been done he would have received the sword bought by the funds of his admirers at the New York Sanitary Fair. It is but just, therefore, that he should have a sword in the place of the one he should have a sword in the place of the one he should have received upon that occasion, and he will have a better and costlier one before one month transpires, bought with the free-will offerings of a party who have not yet learned the slight-of-hand management in secret ballotings—men who are able and willing to do justice, to all our worthy Generals without fear, favor, affection, or distinction of party. McClellan, have got up a dollar subscription for

More Water -- According to the report of the Superintendent of the Water Works, there is not sufficient capacity in these Works to furis not sufficient capacity in these Works to furnish a sufficient supply of water, in case of accident to any one of the engines: If one engine is idle, the remaining one could not possibly force up a sufficient quantity of water to supply the demands of the city. The present consumption of water in the city during the last year was about nine hundred and forty-one millions of cubic feet. One engine cannot throw up this quantity in less than twenty-eight hours, so that an enlargement of the Works seems to be an imperative necessity. The prospective growth of this city also imperatively demands their enlargement.
