Among those engaged in the late skirmishing, an account of which will be found in our telegraphic columns, are the 199th, com ed by Col. Collier, the 102d, Col. Patferson, the 93d and 98th, all belonging to Gen. Getty's Division. These regiments have all proved themselves to be made up of the bravest material, and as the battle will without doubt be a bloody one, there will be great anxiety to learn the particulars. All honor to the brave Sixth Corps, and may it be first in the fight.

WASHINGTON, May 8.-An army corespondent writing from headquarters. at. Wilderness tavern, on Friday evening, gives the following intelligence of the great battle on Friday: The day has closed upon a terribly hard-fought field, and the Army of the Potomac has added another to its list of murderous conflicts. Gen. Lee's tactics, so energetically employed at Chancel lorsville and Gettysburg of throwing his whole army, first on one wing, then upon another, has again been brought to bear upon the Army of the Potomac. which has repulsed the tremendous on slaught of the enemy, and stands tonight with solidity in the position it assumed this morning.

The first attempt was made upon Hancock, and upon the right so weakened in numbers by the battle of yesterday, but the old-iron Second Corps nobly stood its ground. Then the enemy hurled his battalions upon Sedgwick, and once or twice gained a temporary advantage, but the old veterans of that Corps nobly rallied, and repulsed the rebels with fearful slaughter.

About half-past four p. m. Lee made feint upon the whole line, and then sud lenly fell with his whole force upon Sedgwick, driving him back temporarily, but the advantage was soon regain-

It is believed at headquarters, at this hour, that Lee has thickly wooded as to render movements all but impossible, and to conceal entirely the operations of the enemy, yet he has been signally repulsed in all his attacks, and nothing but the nature of the battlefield has prevented it from being a crushing defeat.

An Exciting Race for the Capital. Little Rock Saved from Marmaduke

ST. Louis, May 9.—The Democrat, of this morning, publishes the following: The expedition of Gen. Steele towards Shreveport, has ended with his return under rather exciting circumstances to Little Rock. A gentleman, conversant with the facts, arrived here and commu-nicates a statement to the following pur-

General Steele left little Rock with some twelve thousand infantry and three thousand cavalry, the latter under General Carr. Arkadelphia was captured with-out difficulty, and the force moved for-ward to Camden. A subsistence train of one hundred was cut off and captured by the enemy, together with the escort of four hundred and eighty men, who suddenly found themselves in the hands of a superior force, and made but little resistance.

At Camden, General Steele soon found the rebels, about eight thousand strong, of cavalry, in his rear. Two hundred and forty wagons, dispatched from Camden toward Pine Bluff for stores, with an escort of sixteen hundred men, were captured by the enemy. The steamer Palamo with 20 tons of ammunition for Steele and his army, was sunk 40 miles below Little Rock, by coming in calli-sion with another steamer. The pilot who had charge of the boat was put under arrest on suspicion of treachery, but was subsequently released.

Gen. Steele found no stores to subsist his troops, and had to reduce their allowance to quarter rations. As his movement was to be co-operative with the main one of Banks, which had fatted, there remained no course but to return to Litle Rock.

Gen. Price undertook to retard Steele's retreat from Camden, while Gen. Mar-macuke with a strong force set off for Little Rock. General Steele, to act for the safety of the Arkansas capital, with its Union population and millions of dollars worth of federal stores and for the residual within ten miles of Richmond. cue of his army, broke through Price's lines, and set out to get to Little Rock in time to save it from General Marmaduke. He also was making every exertion to reach and bag the proposed game at Sabine Fork, and it became necessary to give Gen. Price battle, which was handsomely done.

The rebels were well mounted, in fine withdrawn from our front. Although the nature of the ground has been of a terrible character, most of it being so enemy, leaving General Steele to resume his exciting race with Marmaduke. Lee's report of the battle of Thursday last, published in the Richmond papers has been telegraphed to this city by Gen. Butler. Lee says that Gen. Grant attacked him, which contradicts the re-port received here that Lee made the at tack upon our army. Lee employs this language "Thank God we have repulsed the attacks of the enemy." He states that Longstreet is badly rounded. Lee says nothing in his report about the fight of Friday. Dispatches show that Gen. Butler is still nolding the line of Railroad between Petersburg and Richmond, preventing

Beauregard from reinforcing Lee. OLD WILDERNESS TAVERN, May 6, 9.
P. M.—Our correspondent with the army sends the following.

The most terrific battle yet fought closed to-day. Lee's entire army has made repeated and furious assaults upon our repeated and furious assautts apon our right and left wings, commanded by Hn ncock and Sedgwick, with temporary success, but has been driven back with great slaughter. An attack was made about 4 o'clock this p. m. simultaneously upon our whole line, which was gallantly repulsed. Towards dark the enemy concentrated upon our extreme right and fell suddenly upon Gen. Sedgwick crushing in a portion of his line. Sedgwick, crushing in a portion of his line Gen. Sedgwick succeeded in reforming his line and securing it against further disaster, and the enemy withdrew from his front under cover of the darkness. Our losses have been heavy. Our army to-day has certainly achieved decided success; it has baffied all offensive efsuccess; it has bailed all oriensive; efforts of the enemy; the almost impenetrable woods with which the battle ground is covered, saved the rebels from a crushing defeat, as it enabled them to conceal their movement almost per-
