FRIDAY MORNING, JUNE 3, 1864. The First Day of the Fair. We took a stroll through the different depart ments of the Fair yesterday, and were much pleased with the improved appearance of the various Halls compared with what they were the day before. The Dining Hall has not many attractions about it except for those who are hungry or thirsty. There is a Booth, however, in the centre of this Hail, called the Pagoda, which deserves notice. It is designed as a confection stand and is rarely decorated and richly

BAZAAR HALL comes next in order. We have read columns of description in regard to this Hall, but really nothing that can give a person at a distance any adequate idea of the scenery ere represented. We will content ourselve by saying that there are about forty or fifty booths in this apartment alone, and that there is some peculiarity about each one. They are all finished in the most superb manner, decorated, wreathed and festooned, covered with flags, and ribbons, variegated with difand sho of silver and gold. These booths are of all shapes and sizes and within them are displayed all sorts of fancy articles imaginable. Here and there are jets and fountains of water sparkling like gems in the evening light. There are also miniature houses, and skating ponds and indeed everything that can charm or fascinate. Here is also a Postoffice, where, for ten cents can get a letter from any body you please. There are also refreshments to be had here although it is not a Dining Hatt. There as the gallery here for musicians, from which a Brass Wm Weisgarver Jas Southrew. this Bnzaar, at the East Liberty Booth, hangs the sword given by Judge Wilkins to the Sanitary Fair, to be subscribed for and presented to Major General Meade. It is a handsome and an appropriate present. Gen. Meade is a native of Pennsylvania, distinguished himself at Get-

Grant on his way to Richmond. FLORAL HALL is one vast scene of beauty and grandeur. For real grotesqueness it cannot be excelled. The grotts, the mountain scene, the en, the Bower of Rest, the Swiss Cottage, the Booth of Boquets, are all grand and gorgeous in the extreme. Then the music coming down from the summit of a mountain, reverrating in a thousand echos adds additional charms to this enchanted Hall. Here, too, are jets of water, cooling the atmosphere, already moistened by the immense groves of pine, and endless wreathes of spruce. Floral Hall is decidedly the coolest apartment of the Fair. Let those who visit the grounds be sure to call here. If they do not they will miss the best treat, a Daniel Bennett. well as the best retreat in or about the entire Fair grounds.

OLD TAVERN CHURCH, VA., Monday dan, with Generals Torbett and Gregg's divisions of cavalry marched all night. and on Thursday morning the fords on the Pamunkey were in our possession. At Dabney's Ferry, Baker's North Carolina brigade opposed our advance, and made some resistance when we laid our pontoon bridge. Custer's and Devins' brigades drove them off to Hanover Court House, killing many, and capturing a large number of prisoners. The 5th Corps was soon at our heels; then General Lee was doomed to disappoint ment. His elaborate fortifications would not close here. Grant was on his right flank, and Lee must go to Richmond. On Saturday morning Gregg's division was fired into near Hawes' Shop. Davies' Brigade was in the advance. The woods seemed alive with rebels, and they soon began to resound with the sharp volleys of our carbines. In a Sixth corps set out to occupy it. PENNA. CENTRAL STOCK YARDS The market during the week was somewhat unsettled; the extravagant prices that ruled in the eastern marget caused drovers to forward their supplies east in preference to parting with them here. The sales were larger than the pre-vious week at full rates. The castern markets for the past two weeks have been ruled entirely by speculators who have purchased up pretty much all the stock that was offered before they reached the regular market yards. The cattle we noticed at our last visit was, generally we noticed at our last visit was generally speaking, of the best description.

Hoss-Were plenty and commanded good round figures. For particular, we function that report the receipt of this report.

SHEEP Was plenty They were generally sent east. The following are the official accounts of the receipt, for the past weer.

CATTLE, 3050 head; Hogg, 5150 head; Sheep 1818 head; Horse, 24; Mutes, 60; CATTLE The sales were not large. The make the however, ruled very firm. Anitgood seeks of the following are forwarded East by rain route large.
