MEDICAL.

GLAD NEWS FOR THE UNFORTUNATE!
THE LONG SOUGHT FOR DISCOVERED AT LAST.

CHEROKEE REMEDY,
AND
CHEROKEE INJECTION
Compounded from Roots, Barks and Leaves.

CHEROKEE REMEDY, the great Indian Diuretic, cures all disease of the urinary organs, such as Incontinence of the Urine, Inflammation of the Bladder, Inflammation of the Kidneys, Stone in the Bladder, Stricture, Gravel, Gleet, Gonorrhœa, and is especially recommended in those cases of Fluor Albus (or Whites in females) where all the old nauseous medicines have failed.

☞It is prepared in a highly concentrated form, the dose only being from one to two teaspoonfuls three times a day.

☞It is diuretic and alternative in its action; purifying and cleansing the blood, causing it to flow in all its original purity and vigor; thus removing from the system all pernicious causes which have induced disease.

CHEROKEE INJECTION is intended as an ally or assistant to the Cherokee Remedy, and should be used in conjunction with that medicine in all cases of Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Fluor Albus or Whites. Its effects are healing, soothing and demulcent; removing all scalding, heat, chordee and pain, instead of the burning and almost unendurable pain that is experienced with nearly all the cheap quack injections.

☞By the use of the Cherokee Remedy and Cherokee Injection—the two medicines at the same time—all improper discharges are removed, and the weakened organs are speedily restored to full vigor and strength.

☞For full particulars get our pamphlet from any drug store in the country, or write to us and we will mail free to any address, a full treatise.

☞Price Cherokee Remedy, $2 per bottle or 7 three bottles for $5.

☞Price Cherokee Injection, $2 per bottle, or three bottles for $5.

☞Sent by Express to any address on receipt of price.

☞Sold by all druggists everywhere.

☞This medicine is a simple vegetable extract, and one on which all can rely, as it has been used in our practice for many years, and with thousands treated, it has not failed in a single instance. Its curative powers have been sufficient to gain victory over the most stubborn case.

☞To those who have trifled with their condition, until they think themselves beyond the reach of medical aid, we would say, Despair not—the CHEROKEE CURE will restore you to health and vigor, and after all quack doctors have failed.

☞For full particulars get a circular from any drug store in the country, or write the Proprietors, who will mail free to any one desiring the same, a full treatise in pamphlet form.

The Pills are perfectly harmless on the constitution, and may be taken by the most delicate females without causing distress at the same time

THEY ACT AS A CHARM,
By strengthening, invigorating, and restoring the system to a healthy condition, and by bringing on the monthly period with regularity. No matter from what cause the obstruction may arise. They should, however, NOT be taken the first three or four months of pregnancy, though safe at any other time, as miscarriage would be the result.

NOTICE TO ALL CONCERNED.—Among a certain class of self-important people there is a peculiar feeling of contempt attached to all physicians that advertise and treat the diseases named in this card, (PRIVATE diseases,) why this should be, they nor no one else can tell. Are they not aware that all physicians treat diseases of every denomination, in fact collect just the very diseases that are so obnoxious to these very refined parties. I suppose they would not let one of their family go to a party that has devoted years for their benefit, because he advertises the fact, and their family physician says he is a humbug so he can get the case. Often he has almost deprived the party of his life. He comes at last to the physician that advertises—how else are they to know? Are they not aware that Sir Astley Cooper, Sir Benjamin Brodie, Sir Charles Ball and M. Paul Ricord devoted much time in the treatment of these diseases? These men are held up as shining lights in the medical world; I don't assert that all men are worthy that publish, still there are a great number of them that are. I have devoted myself to the study and treatment of PRIVATE DISEASES upwards of 40 years, and without egotism can say I have saved hundreds from years of misery and untimely death. My treatment is confined to the vegetable altogether, as I think it is the best and most certain. It is in my power to bring hundreds of certificates if I thought it necessary to certify to my general success; but my long residence in this city is sufficient proof without adding more. Spermatorrhœa and all diseases arising from it are cured in a much shorter time than heretofore. It behooves every young man and woman to be careful in selecting a physician. The different advertisements that are seen in our papers are of no worth, and no benefit will arise from answers—than only loss of health and money. Hundreds are cured annually by my new remedies. Landing of Maximilion in Mexico.
From the World.

By the British mail packet Clyde, from Havana, we learn of the arrival, at Vera Cruz, of the Emperor Maximilian, of his landing amid salvos of artillery echoed back from the famous castle San Juan d'Ulloa to the French fleet baying, like deep-mouthed hounds, in the harbor. His approach to his new dominions was signalized by such acts of clemency as befit royalty on a day it wishes to mark as festal, and as are equally dictated by policy when an alien monarch wishes to conciliate a distrustful people. Maximilian, on landing at Vera Cruz, set out immediately for the interior, and, when last heard from, he had arrived at Orizaba! The haste with which he pursues his journey to the capital needs only a reversal of its direction to resemble a flight. At least, it is not an ovation. When he left behind him the gay pennons and streamers that fluttered from the French shipping in the harbor of Vera Cruz, and the flags that dangled by the agency of French hands from the Castle of San Juan d'Ulloa, his eyes seem to have been greeted by no tokens of welcome, and the only festive sounds that smiled his ears were the explosion of French gunpowder in French cannon. Nothing could less resemble a royal progress among a welcoming people. The people of Mexico stand aloof; they look on the intruder with the sullen silence of smothered hatred and wounded patriotism. They offer no pageant; they burn no incense, but they devoutly pray in their hearts for the day when the altar and the god, the throne and the monarch, may be trampled in the dust together.

But although loyalty comes to its possessions in Mexico without any of the brilliant éclat usage, any of the animated popular demonstrations with which it loves to be greeted when it moves among the people, the accession of Maximilian is, nevertheless, one of the most remarkable episodes in the history of this continent. It carries us back to the days, which live in the picturesque pages of Prescott, when the monarchy of the old world considered America as their heritage, and sought glory and riches in sending forth colonies and planting governments in the new world. Since the famous declaration of President Monroe against the designs of the Holy Alliance (profanely so called) to restore the revolted colonies to Spain, we have supposed the revival of such designs to be as chimerical as an attempt to revive the Ptolemaic astronomy. But we see the thing done before our eyes; and what is amazing, done without the faintest breath of protest from President Monroe's degenerate successor. Forty years ago when our population was but ten million, our Government defied the allied potentates of Europe; now, when, excluding the rebellious South, we have more than twenty millions, a feeble President cowers before a single monarch. This is equally disgraceful to the courage of the Administration and to its diplomacy. What a field was here for an able diplomatist! Every power to the south of us, on this continent—with the single exception of Brazil—has a common interest in repelling this kind of interference on the American continent. It only needed the talents of a statesman, at the head of our foreign department to combine all these governments into an alliance, that would not be misnamed if called holy, for the mutual protection of national independence on the American continent. In Europe, it is well known that Louis Napoleon is an object of constant jealousy, suspicion and dread. A skillful diplomatist would easily have found the means to play off these feelings against his designs. A golden opportunity was offered when England and Spain broke up the alliance, and deserted Napoleon in an early stage of the Mexican invasion. The moral sense of those nations, and of the world, was shocked by the disclosure of his design against the independence of Mexico; and if Mr. Seward had, at that time, possessed any weight in the councils of statesmen, this atrocious breach of international morality would have been made to recoil with terrible force against its author. Our diplomacy could then have reinforced itself by the public conscience of the civilized world, as it might have been supported by the instinct and interest of Mexico herself, and of nearly every Spanish-American State to the south of her.

But, alas! of what avail is the bow of Achilles in hands too feeble to bend it? Never was there a more splendid field for the display of diplomatic abilities, and never did a great occasion overtake a man so unequal to its demands. The country suffers in its prestige, in its pride, in its interests and its conscious weight among the nations, by the misfortune of having a man who knew next to nothing of foreign politics at the head of the State Department. How should Mr. Seward have any attainments for such a position? The only two things he ever cultivated with any assiduity were an innate and turgid rhetoric, and domestic politics. To be sure, he was a lawyer, but no competent judge considered him either an able or a learned one. As for being profoundly versed in the polity or acquainted with the passions, prejudices and avenues of approach to the leading minds of the old world and the new, he had no such qualifications for his position, and he set, instead of marshaling other states into interested cooperation with his views, he has not even enabled this country to exert a fraction of its separate weight in defense of its time-honored continental policy.

The establishment of this new empire opens a field of most interesting speculation, for which the American journalist will have opportunities, as it will be his duty to again and again refer to it. It introduces a new element into our politics, suggests new possibilities for commerce, entangles our affairs with those of Europe, and affords a probable refuge for the most active and energetic part of the rebel population of the South, which they give over their independence as hopeless. They may yet be the dominant race in Mexico, and the main support of the new throne, if it should be stable. They would, doubtless, be welcome colonists, and their extraordinary talents for political and military life would not fail to give them influence. From the same way in which the Mexican throne is maintained, it is possible that Louis Napoleon is preparing a victim where he intends a god. But the balance of probabilities is, nevertheless, favorable to the success of the new empire, and any indignation against this recreant administration should be all the deeper from the fact that, according to present appearances, the misery is unavoidable.

Major-General Butler.

Somewhere about the month of October, 1859—less than five years ago—there was a political meeting held at Charlestown, Massachusetts. It was a Democratic meeting, and possibly an Breckinridge Democratic meeting. At it a speech was made by Mr. Benjamin F. Butler, from which we make the following extract, begging our readers to understand that the orator is Major General B. F. Butler, of the Federal army now besieged at Bermuda Hundred. The speech will be found in The Patriot and Union of the 14th November, 1859:

Mr. B. F. Butler said he was sorry to [illegible] Let us look at something by which I propose to show that while our Republican friends have been so busily thinking after the interests of the negro that they have neglected the interests of the white man. I pray you listen to me a moment. The subject to which I would now call attention has been already alluded to by the chairman, [illegible] and I only ask you if it is not time we ceased to look after the mowings of the negro at the South, and look a little after the people at home? But if any Know-Nothing friend of mine will say this is of no consequence, that these people, or the largest portion of them, were merely Irish paupers, to him I answer that the great majority were native born citizens of Massachusetts, entitled to every protection that Massachusetts gives to any other citizens. (applause,) and the very largest proportion of them were born on this continent. If I am told that "you, then were the old, the infirm and the poor," I have to say that out of these 681 [illegible] more than half were under five years of age. Immortal souls, brought into this world, and placed in the care of Massachusetts charity. Massachusetts philanthropy; and they have gone to God who gave them, and it is for us to render an account, not for them.
