PILES OF

TWENTY YEARS STANDING

CURED.

Below will be found a certificate from one of the most respectable citizens of Wilkins township in regard to Dr. Keyser's Lindsay' Blood Searcher. The Doctor's certificates are within reach, and no one need be deceived in regard to his preparations.

DR. GEO. H. KEYSER:—I became afflicted with Piles about twenty years ago, and every year they were growing worse, so as to trouble me very much, so much so at times as to unfit me or work. Sometimes I was so bad that I could not do anything on account of them, they came out on me as large as a hickory nut. I had tried a great deal of medicine for them. I used to buy, and take whatever I could hear of, or read of in circulars and pamphlets that fell in my way, but I could not get cured, sometimes they would do me some good for a little while, but afterwards they would return again as bad as ever. I also applied to two Doctors who visited me at my house and gave me some medicine but it would not help it, could not get well. Over a year ago got an advertisement of your Lindsay's Blood-Searcher, made by yourself—when you sold it to me you told me one bottle would not cure me, and that my whole system would have to be renewed by the medicine before I got well. I bought one bottle and took it home with me and used it according to your directions. I then called to see you again, when you said I could no expect much benefit from one bottle. I bought it on, one bottle at a time, until I had used five bottles. After this quantity had been used, I was entirely well of the Piles, which had tortured me for twenty years. In other respects my health is improved, and I am as well as could be expected for one of my age, being sixty years past. I have been well now for six months, and there is noappearance of a return of the disease; I can do any kind of farming work now without the Piles coming down and hurting me. I can pitch hay, chop wood, lift, or do any kind of work which before used to hurt me. When I found out your Blood-Searcher I kept on taking it until I got entirely well. I consider it my duty to make my case known to the country for the benefit of others who may be suffering as I was and do not know the value of your medicine. You may publish this if you like—I live in Wilkins Township, and will be pleased to satisfy any one of the truth of this certificate if they wish to call

December 25th, 1863.

☞Look out for the name of DR. GEORGE H. KEYSER on the cover of the bottle and pasted over the cork also for his stamp on the United States stamp on the top of the bottle to prevent being imposed upon by counterfeits which exist in the market.

NOTICE TO ALL CONCERNED.—Among a certain class of self-important people there is a peculiar feeling of contempt attached to all physicians that advertise and treat the diseases named in this card, (PRIVATE DISEASES,) why this should be, they nor no one else can tell. Are they not aware that all physicians treat diseases of every denomination, in fact solicit just the very diseases that are so obnoxious to these very refined parties. I suppose they would not let one of their family go to a party that has devoted years (or their benefit, because he advertises the itch and all their family pb) sician says he is a humbug on he can get the fleas. Often he has almost deprived the party of his life. He comes at last to the physician that advertises—how else are they to know? And we say to you that Sir Astley Cooper, Sir Benjamin Brodie, Sir Charles Ball and M. Paul Ricord devoted years in the treatment of these diseases? These men are held up as shining lights in the medical world; I don't assert that all men are worthy that publish, still there are a great number of them that are. I have devoted myself to the study and treatment of PRIVATE DISEASES upwards of 40 years, and without egotism can say I have saved hundreds from years of misery and untimely death. My treatment is confined to the vegetable altogether, as I think it is the best and most certain. It is in my power to bring hundreds of certificates if I thought it necessary to certify to my general success: but my long residence in this city is sufficient proof without adding more. Spermatorrhea and all diseases arising from it are cured in a much shorter time than heretofore. It behoves every young man and woman to be careful in selecting a physician. The different advertisements that are seen in our papers are of no worth, and no benefit will arise from answers than only loss of health and money. Hundreds are cured annually by my new remedies. A MIDNIGHT ADVENTURE.

Females often possess presence of mind, and the power of self-control under circumstances of imminent peril, which seem almost foreign to their nature, and beyond the endurance of delicate organization. A striking instance of self command, by a lady whose fears must have been powerfully excited, and whose life of affluence had probably never before given her nerves any severer test than is incident to the vexations of domestic cares, is given in a late number of Chamber's Journal. We copy the adventure, premising by way of explanation, that the lady was the daughter of a rector residing in a quiet English country village, and was upon the eve of marriage.

The wedding day was to be on the morrow of that on which our adventure happened. Grand preparations were made for the wedding; and the rector's fine old plate, and the costly gifts of the bride, were discussed with pride and pleasure at the Hare and Hounds, in the presence of some strangers who had come down to a prize fight which had taken place in the neighborhood.

That night, Adelade, who occupied a separate room from her sister, sat up late—long after all the household had retired to rest. She had a long interview with her father, and had been reading a chapter to which he had directed her attention, and since had packed up her jewels, &c. She was, consequently, still dressed when the church clock tolled midnight. As it ceased, she fancied she heard a low noise like that of a file; she listened, but could distinguish nothing clearly. It might have been made by some of the servants still about, or perhaps it was only the creaking of the old trees. She heard nothing but the sighing of the old winter winds for many minutes afterwards. Housebreakers were mere myths in primitive Thydon, and the bride elect, without a thought of fear, resumed her occupation. She was gazing on a glittering set of diamonds, destined to be worn at the wedding, when her bedroom door softly opened. She turned, looked up, and beheld a man with a black mask, holding a pistol in his hand, standing before her.

She did not scream, for her first thought was for her father, who slept in the next room, and to whom any sudden alarm might be death, for he was old and feeble and suffering from heart complaint. She confronted the robber boldly, and addressed him in a whisper. 'You are come,' she said, 'to rob us. Spare your soul the awful guilt of murder. My father sleeps next to my room, and to be startled from his sleep would kill him. Make no noise I beg of you.'

The fellow was astonished and cowed. 'We won't make no noise,' he replied, 'if you give us everything quietly.'

Adelaide drew back and let him take her jewels—not without a pang, for they were precious love gifts, remarking at the same time, that two more masked ruffians stood at the half-opened door. As he took the jewel case and watch from the table, and demanded her purse, she asked him if he intended to go into her father's room. She received a surly affirmative; he 'wasn't agoing to run all risk and leave half the tin behind!' She proposed instantly that she would go herself saying: 'I will bring you whatever you wish, and you may guard me thither and kill me if I play false to you.' The fellow consulted his comrades, and after a short parley they agreed to the proposal; and with a pistol pointed at her head, the dauntless girl crossed the passage and entered the old rector's room. Very gently she stole across the chamber, and removing his purse, watch, keys, and desk, she gave them up to the robbers who stood at the door. The old man slept peacefully and calmley, thus guarded by his child, who softly shut the door, and demanded if the robbers were yet satisfied.

The leader replied that they should be when they had got the show plate spread out below, and that they couldn't let her out of sight, and that she must go with them. In compliance with this mandate, she followed them down stairs to the dining-room, where a splendid wedding breakfast had been laid to save trouble and hurry on the morrow. To her surprise, the fellows—eight in number which assembled—seated themselves and prepared to make a good meal. They ordered her to get them out wine, and to cut her own wedding cake for them; and then seated at the head of the table, she was compelled to preside at this extraordinary revel.

They ate, drank, laughed and joked; and Adelaide, quick of ear and eye, had thus time to study, in her quiet way, the figures and voices of the whole set.

When the repast was ended, and the plate transferred to a sack, they prepared to depart, whispering together and glancing at the young lady. For the first time Adelaide's courage gave way, and she trembled; but it was not a consultation against her, as it proved. The leader, approaching her told her that they did not wish to harm her—that she was a jolly wench, regular game, and that they wouldn't hurt her, but that she must swear not to give the alarm till nine or ten o'clock the next day, when they should be off all safe. To this, of course, she was obliged to assent, and then they all insisted on shaking hands with her. She noticed, during this parting ceremony, that one of the ruffians had only three fingers on the left hand.

Alone, and in the despoiled room, Adelaide, faint and exhausted, awaited the first gleam of daylight; then as the robbers did not return, she stole up to her room, undressed, and fell into a disturbed slumber. The consternation of the family next morning may be imagined, and Adelaide's story was still more astounding than the fact of the robbery itself. Police were sent for from London, and they, guided by Adelaide's lucid discription of the midnight guests, actually succeeded in capturing every one of the gang, whom the young lady had no difficulty in indentifying and swearing to—the 'three fingered Jack' being the guiding clue to the discovery. The stolen property was nearly all recovered, and the old rector is always declared—and with truth—that he owed his life to the self possession and judgment of his only daughter.

The only ill effect of the great trial to her nerves was a disposition on the part of the young heroine, to listen for midnight sounds, and start uneasily from troubled dreams, but time and change of residences soon effected its cure.

STARTLING PROPOSITION.

"Day of Prayer."

"On motion of Mr. Harlan, the following joint resolution was adopted:

"Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States in Congress assembled, That the President of the United States be requested to appoint a day for humiliation and prayer by the people of the United States, that he request his constitutional advisers, at the head of the Executive Departments, to unite with him, as the Chief Magistrate of the nation, at the City of Washington, and the members of Congress, and all magistrates, all civil, military, and naval officers, all soldiers, sailors, and marines, with all loyal and law abiding people, to convene at their usual places of worship, or wherever they may be, to confess and to repent of their manifold sins, to implore the compassion and forgiveness of the Almighty, that if consistent with His will the existing rebellion may be speedily suppressed, and the supremacy of the Constitution and laws of the United States may be established throughout all the States; to implore Him, as the Supreme Ruler, not to destroy us as a people, nor to suffer us to be destroyed by the hostility or connivance of other nations, or by obstinate adhesion to our own counsels, which may be in conflict with His eternal purposes; and to implore Him to enlighten the mind of the nation to know and do His will, humbly believing that it is in accordance with His will that our place should be maintained as a united people among the family of nations; to implore Him to grant to our armed defenders and the masses of the people that courage, power of resistance and endurance necessary to secure that result; to implore Him, in His infinite goodness, to soften the hearts, enlighten the minds, and quicken the consciences of those in rebellion, that they may lay down their arms and speedily return to the allegiance of the United States, that they may not be utterly destroyed, that the effusion of blood may be stayed, and that unity and fraternity may be restored, and peace established throughout all our borders."

The above resolution passed both Houses of Congress. It is as startling as the forged Proclamation, over which so much excitement was produced. It develops a state of feeling at Washington not communicated to the public by telegraph, and leads to the supposition that there is disastrous news at Washington not known to the people generally. We must confess that its peculiar wording has cast a feeling over us, such as we have not experienced before. What does the expression mean, "the hostility and connivance of other nations?" What news have they got at Washington from abroad? What, we say, does all this mean? Why this changed tone towards the people of the South, "to soften the hearts, to enlighten the minds, and quicken the consciences by those in rebellion?" This is certainly something new, and more extraordinary than new, to come from such a quarter. This is what we have prayed for, begged for, that the hearts of both North and South might be softened, that cruelty might be avoided, that passion and prejudice might cease, that the innocent and unprotected might not suffer; but to do these things and to pray for such results was the height of treason, the wickedest disloyalty and shameless "sympathy for the enemy." God grant that these prayers may be heard, now that they are loyal. Heaven listen to all good intentions, and palsy the tongue that, hereafter shall teach persecution, practice slander, and work in the cause of vengeance. We have no words to express our astonishment at some of the expressions in the above resolution, we candidly admit. What next?

The Income Tax.

It has been discovered that the passing of the special income tax, authorized to be levied during the last hours of Congress, is collectable upon all incomes received during the year ending December, 1863; thence lapping over into 1864. The exact language of the joint resolution is, that the tax shall be levied upon incomes for the year ending December 31, preceding the time when the tax is collectable, which time is October, 1864, thus making that tax collectable from December, 1862, to December, 1863. This was not, it is well known, the intention of the framers of the law, and it will be difficult to collect the tax from Government employees and navel and army officers, who have paid their regular 5 per cent. ever since the old law went into effect, but who will not be able to pay to the Government the additional 5 per cent, for the simple reason that they will not have, in many instances, any income now, being pensioners, without employment, or without any fixed income. Government employees have had the usual 5 per cent. deducted from their salaries heretofore, though the income tax is not collectable from citizens generally until September, 1864.
