LOCAL INTELLIGENCE. TUESDAY MORNING, JULY 26, 1864.

The Markets .- Notwithstanding the large quantity of lands appropriated to the cultivation of vegetables, our market is but scantily supplied. Either the drought has affected thei growth, or else the consumption is much greater than it ever was before. There is a great inducement now held out for the land owners in nedlate vicinily to turn their attention particularly to the production of vegetables in view of supplying the wants of the market here. When notatoes sell at three dollars and twenty cents a bushel, or eighty cents a peck, and every other vegetable in proportion, we think the farmer could not do a wiser act than to plant largely of every article in the catalogue vegetable names, corn and beans, cabbage and peas, beets, carrots and paranips; indeed all that gardens ordinarily produce find a ready market at a fair price. If prices keep up durign the winter, the poor will have a hard time of it before spring, for not only vegetables but every necessity of the table is equally high. Butter and eggr, beet and mutton, apples and are almost airaid to give a statement of the prices market articles sell for, least a panic may be raised and men who really have no conscience have to sell. Our citizens know too well what they have to pay to be told through the medium of a newspaper. Those who have money can take a pocketful and go to market, for it taken a pocket full; but sias, what will those do who ing more severe every day, and unless some vidential circumstance produces a change soon the poor and helpless must suffer.

Yesterday's Rain.—The rain that began to | JOSEPH MEYER. fall yesterday morning, and continued through-out the day was the very rain we needed. It began to fall as fine as a mist, and at no time uid it be called a heavy rain. The parched earth drank in all the moisture as it fell, and the ground and vegetables derived much more benefit from it than if it had been a heavy, rain that was needed to lay the dust, and to cool the streets. without flooding the water courses. Such a rain is worth more to our farmers than all the plunder taken from Maryland is to the rebels. It is worth millions of dollars to Pennsylvania alone, and worth hun-dreds of millions to the Northern States. It is not too late yet for the corn and potato crop to revive. All the vegetable tribe will derive imnense benefit from this rain. Beans and peas, abbage and cucumbers, beets and carrots. grapes and apples, every thing that is of a vegetable nature will again begin to "grow as the corn and revive as the vine." The pasture fields will recruit wonderfully, and the clover fields will send forth a second shoot that will astonish even the farmer. The dried up stream will again swell, and the tamishing fish will now breathe freer. In short, this is a timely and on that account stop the sooner, and thus prov less injurious to the grain that is now being harvested.

A New Tax .- We learn that an order he Revenue, to tax the salary of all governmen officials five per cent.
