GLAD NEWS FOR THE UNFORTUNATE!
THE LONG SOUGHT FOR DISCOVERED AT LAST.

CHEROKEE REMEDY,
AND
CHEROKEE INJECTION
Compounded from Roots, Barks and Leaves.

CHEROKEE REMEDY, the great Indian Diuretic, cures all diseases of the urinary organs, such as Incontinence of the Urine, Inflammation of the Bladder, Stricture, Gravel, Gleet, Gonorrhœa, and is especially recommended in those cases of Fluor Albus (or Whites in Females) where all the old nostrums have failed.

☞It is prepared in a highly concentrated form, the dose only being from one to two teaspoonfuls three times a day.

☞It is diuretic and alternative in its action; purifying and cleansing the blood, restoring it to flow in all its original purity and vigor; thus removing from the system all pernicious causes which have induced disease.

CHEROKEE INJECTION is intended as an ally or assistant to the Cherokee Remedy, and should be used in conjunction with it, as medicine in all cases of Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Fluor Albus or Whites. Its effects are healing, soothing and detergent, removing all scalding, heat, chordee and pain in passing of the urine, and almost immediate pain that is experienced by the use of other injections.

☞By the use of the Cherokee Remedy and Cherokee Injection the two medicines at the same time all impurities or discharges are removed, and the weakened organs are speedily restored to full vigor and strength.

☞For full particulars get our pamphlet from any druggist in the country, or write to us and we will mail free to any address, a full treatise.

☞Price Cherokee Remedy, $2 per bottle; three bottles for $5.

☞Price Cherokee Injection, $2 per bottle, or three bottles for $5.

☞Sent by Express to any address on receipt of price.

NOTICE TO ALL CONCERNED.—Among a certain class of self-important people there is a peculiar feeling of contempt attached to all physicians that advertise and treat the diseases named in this card, (PRIVATE DISEASES,) why this should be, they nor no one else can tell. Are they not aware that all physicians treat diseases of every denomination, in fact solicit just the very diseases that are so obnoxious to these very refined parties. I suppose they would not let one of their family go to a party that has devoted years for their benefit, because he advertises the fact, and their family physician says he is a humbug so he can get the case. Often he has almost deprived the party of his life. He comes at last to the physician that advertises—how else are they to know? Are they not aware that Sir Astley Cooper, Sir Benjamin Brodie, Sir Charles Ball and M. Paul Ricord devoted years in the treatment of these diseases? These men are held up as shining lights in the medical world; I don't assert that all men are worthy that publish, still there are a great number of them that are. I have devoted myself to the study and treatment of PRIVATE DISEASES upwards of 40 years, and without egotism can say I have saved hundreds from years of misery and untimely death. My treatment is confined to the vegetable altogether, and think it is the best and most certain. It is in my power to bring hundreds of certificates if I thought it necessary to certify to my general success; but my long residence in this city is sufficient proof without adding more. Spermatorrhœa and all diseases arising from it are cured in much shorter time than heretofore. It behooves every young man and woman to be careful in selecting a physician. The different advertisements that are seen in our papers are of no worth, and no benefit will arise from answers than only loss of health and money. Hundreds are cured annually by my new remedies. "TIME ENOUGH."

We published a day or two ago General McClellan's letter of instructions to General Banks in regard to the fortifications and other preparations necessary to prevent rebel raids down the Shenandoah valley. These orders were issued in the spring of 1862, but they were never carried out by the War Department, or by those to whom the President assigned the command in that section which he had withdrawn from General McClellan, immediately on the departure for the peninsular campaign.

The disasters of General Pope's campaign were principally caused by the peremptory withdrawal of the Army of the Potomac from the peninsula, but they were doubtless intensified by the failure of General Halleck and Secretary Stanton to carry out the instructions sent to General Banks. And the three raids which have since made the valley of the Shenandoah the valley of our national humiliation are a still more striking commentary on the criminal and open neglect or heedlessness of those who are still kept high in military command.

We would call attention now to another letter on the same subject addressed by General McClellan to General Halleck in the fall of the same year and to the reply of the latter officer; and we ask every reader to peruse them both, in connection with the news of the new raid which we publish to-day.

They are to be found in General McClellan's report, and their date, observe, is the latter part of October nearly two years ago, since when we have had an annual raid, and still these prophetic warnings remain unheeded.

General McClellan to General Halleck

HD'QRS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
October 25, 1862—10:45 P. M.

Major-General Halleck, General-in-Chief, Washington:

As the moment is at hand for the advance of the army, a question arises for the decision of the General-in-Chief, which, although perhaps implicitly decided by the President in his letter of the 13th, should be clearly presented by me, as I do not regard it as in my province to determine it. This question is the extent to which the line of the Potomac should be guarded, after the army leaves, in order to cover Maryland and Pennsylvania from invasion by large or small parties of the enemy. It will always be somewhat difficult to guard the immediate line of the river, owing to its great extent and the numerous passages which exist. It has long appeared to me that the best way of covering this line would be by occupying Front Royal, Strasburg, Wardensville, and Morefield, at the debouches of the several valleys in which they are situated. These points, or suitable places in their vicinity, should be strongly intrenched and permanently held, and great advantage of this arrangement would be the covering of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and an essential part of the system would be the construction of the line of railway from Winchester to Strasburg, and the rebuilding of the Manassas Gap Railway bridge over the Shenandoah.

The intrenchment of Manassas Junction would complete the system for the defense of the approaches to Washington and the Upper Potomac. Many months ago I recommended this arrangement—in fact, gave orders for it to be carried into effect. I still regard it as essential under all circumstances.

The views of the chief engineer of this army in regard to the defenses and garrison of Harper's Ferry and its dependencies are in your possession.

The only troops under my command outside of the organization of the Army of the Potomac, are the Maryland brigade, under General Kenly; the Sixty-fourth Pennsylvania, Colonel Voss; Twelfth Illinois Cavalry, and Colonel Davis's Eighth New York Cavalry, total, 2,894 infantry, one battery, and about 900 cavalry men. There are also two of my regiments of cavalry (about 650 men) guarding the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, between Hancock and Cumberland.

As I have no department, and command simply an active army in the field, my responsibility for the safety of the line of the Potomac and the states north of it, must terminate the moment I advance so far beyond that line as to adopt another for my base of operation. The question for the general-in-chief to decide, and which I regard as beyond my province, is this:

First. Shall the safety of Harper's Ferry, and the line of the Potomac, be regarded as assured by the advance of the army south of the Blue Ridge and the line left to take care of itself?

Second. If it is deemed necessary to hold the line or that here in before indicated in advance of it, how many troops shall be placed there, at what points, and in what numbers, and of what composition at each, and whence shall they be supplied, i. e. from this army or from other sources?

Omitting the detached troops mentioned above, and the small garrisons of Boonsboro and Frederick, the last returns show the strength of this army for duty to be about one hundred and sixteen thousand officers and men. This includes the divisions of Stoneman and Whipple, but does not include Heintzelman, Sigel, and Bayard.

At Harper's Ferry and the river above are rendered fully secure, it is possible that the active army, if it supplies the garrisons, may be reduced so much as to the trade-state of the purposes contemplated. If it is preserved in fact Maryland land, Pennsylvania, and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad may be unduly exposed.

I leave the decision of these grave questions to the general-in-chief. I know nothing of the number of troops in Baltimore, &c., to

An important element in the solution of this problem is the fact that a great portion of Bragg's army is probably at liberty to unite itself with Lee's command.

I commence crossing the river at Berlin in the morning, and must ask a prompt decision of the questions proposed herein.

G. B. McCLELLAN,
Major General Commanding.

To which I received the following reply:

WASHINGTON, October 26, 1862—9 P. M.

Major General G. B. McClellan:

In addition to the command which you had when I came here, you also have the greater part of that of Major General Pope. Moreover, you have been authorized to use any troops within your reach in General Wool's department, and in Western Virginia. General Banks's command is also under your direction, with the single restriction that he is not to remove troops from Washington until he has notified me of his orders. Since you left Washington I have advised all suggested in relation to your movements, but I have given you no orders. I do not give you any now. The government has intrusted you with defeating and driving back the rebel army in your front. It shall not attempt to control your movements unless you may adopt for that purpose, you are informed of my views, but the President has left you at liberty to adopt them or not, as you may deem best. You will also exercise your own discretion in regard to what points on the Potomac, and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, are to be occupied or fortified. I will only add that there is no appropriation for permanent intrenchments on that line. Moreover, I think it will be time enough to decide upon fortifying Front Royal, Strasburg, Wardensville and Morefield, when the enemy is driven south of them, and they come into our possession. I do not think that we need have any immediate fear of Bragg's army. You are within twenty miles of Lee's, while Bragg is a distant about four hundred miles.

H. W. HALLECK, General-in-Chief.

Does General Halleck still think there is "time enough" to stop this raiding, and will he tell us whether he is ready to act on Congress to reimburse the losers of the millions of property destroyed?—World.
