Relief to Chambersburg. We again call the attention of our community to the suffering inhabitants of Chambersburg who, although our State has shown itself both prompt and bountiful in tendering them the ne- 153 SMITHFIELD, AND 442 PEAN St. cessary assistance, are still laboring under the effects of their manifold wants. We are glad to state that our city was not tardy in affording be2 succor to their fellow-citizens, but concurred M. J. CONNWELL.... with a good and generous will to relieve them CORNWELL & KERR, in the hour of need. However, we must demore. As yet we have displayed no remarkable generosity in our contributions. Harrisburg. Philadelphia and all the other cities contributed likewise, and displayed a charitable emulation worthy of being imitated. But we are under a special obligation to the inhabitants of Cham-Saddlery & Carriage Hardware, sentiment of gratitude which has such a large claim on the hearts of our citizens, requires of us that we should return, and return with interest to the now suffering citizens of Chambers-burg what they so willingly contributed in our relief when we were placed in the same desti-tute circumstances in which they unfortunately find themselves at present. The number of our citizens who do not camember the many sufferings we underwent when the fatal fire of April 10th, 1845, reduced to ashes such a large part of our city, that a number of our citizens were left destitute and homeless to depend on the charity of the world for raiment and clothing. If we had not received succor immediately the consequences might have been fatal. All Pennsylvania showed itself prompt and generous in our rosity and let us repay it with interest, and let us not have them say that they surpassed us in a noble sentiment of generosity and obristian charity.

Departure of the Twilight —The Twilight and crew left this city on Sunday, en route to Poughkeepsie, in order to prepare themselves and hold themselves in readiness for the two grand boat races which are to come off on the listh and listh of this month. The men were all in fine condition and they were all anxious for the contest. Their plack is remarkable, as they are going all that distance to dontend with two gallant crews on their own waters, and that in two successive bourses with only one intervening day to refresh themselves after the great exercises and fatigue, they will have to undeare.

[From the Shoe and Leather Reporter.]
There has been but little change during they are the past week. Trade continues very quiet with the jobbers; they are daily receiving additions to their stock, both from Eastern and city manufacturers, and the fall trade will open with good assortments on hand. Trade from the southwest is looked for now daily by the jobberts, and it will not be long before we will have a more active trade to report. Manufacturers still continue to move somewhat cautiously. With manufacturer of army work, things have become more stirring the past week. Several who have had contracts before from government, have received contracts again from proposals made unfire 28th ult. Those who were about through with former contracts, and had discharged many of their men, are now looking them up preparatory to setting them to work again.
