THURSDAY MORNING, AUGUST 25, 1864. Unpardonable Negligence,—We remember having read a Western story concerning a certain philosophical individual of the stoic type, who alleged as a reason for not repairing the roof of his house during wet westher, that it rained too hard, but when asked why he did not do it before the rain began to fall, stated that then his house was as dry as that of any other man. However ridiculous these reasons may appear to the present enlightened age, we greatest sang froid conceivable. This may appear incredible to some of our readers, but truly such is the case, and you will find it so, if some of the city authorities. Upwards of two up by the sewer caving in, entirely choking up the passage and rendering the sewer perfectly worthless and unmanageable. Neither the proprietor of the premises, nor the city authorities had the horse removed, because, of course, as no rain fell and the quantity of water to be general welfare of the community. taken off by the sewer was not great, it answered the purpose for the time being as well concerned can be excused for having performed has been done, and everything remains in the same condition as the storm left it, the street fallen in, and the water still pouring out of the sewer. The only difference that a casual observer may discern, is that the houses which were mostly damaged have since been abandoned by the tenants, but nothing more. The next fall of rain will tear up the street, and may be knock down the houses which are already in a tottering condition. Now we ask any candid reader, if this fact does not manifest an indifference by far outstripping that of the Weste n stoic! It was imprudent from the first to cover up such a sewer as this is, without arches strong enough to support even the earth that was laid over it. This is the most important of any in the ctty, as we understand, nearly all the others empty into it. It should be secured by strong walls and arches, of good sound brick and mortar, in order that it might be capable of resist ing the full force of the water which is continually flowing into it from all parts of the city.
As this has not been done so far, we hope that he proper authorities will direct their atten tion to it, and make reparation for the past.

Found Dead .- Yesterday morning at as early hour, a man named John Graham, was found dead in the watch-house, by the watchman who went around to wake the prisoners. From the statements of the witnesses, we learn the following circumstances. On Tuesday evening about half past eight o'clock, the deceased called at the Mayor's office, with the intention of making a deposition against some parties, who, he alleged, had assaulted him a short time previous to his appearance, but was advised by one of the officers to return home, and make his deposition on the following morning e would be in a fitter condition to do so, than he was at that time. On this, Graham walked off, with the apparent intention of following the officer's advice, but about haif an afterwards, a gentleman called at the Mayor's office to have a man removed who was lying in a state of intoxication on Smithfield street, between Fourth and Diamond streets. He was found to be the same one as had called a short time before at the office, and was accord-unusual occurred during the night, and a prisoner who was placed in the same cell with the dcceased, stated that he had heard him breathe after his entrance into the cell. In the morning, he was found dead with his head, face and neck badly swollen, and a small ficah wound in the back of the neck. It is stated that he was struck by a man in the mouth, causing a swelling on the upper lip, and throwing him back, his head striking against a curb-stone, as he fell. But the injuries received by this accident were so slight, that death could not have possibly resulted from them. On examination, it was discovered that the brain was filled with thick black blood, and that the cerebral veins were awollen to their utmost extension. One of he blood-vessels had bursted through the fearful flux of blood towards the head. Coroner McClung held an inquest on the body, and the jury returned a verdict of death by apoplexy, caused by intoxication. The deceased was a man of about twenty-five years of age, and was a resident of this city. He is represented as having been a disorderly character and frequent. ly under the influence of l.quor. His mother resides in Allegheny.

Our Prospects .- The prospect brightens, and we are sure to complete our quotas ere the 5th of September. Yesterday the city was crowded with men from nearly all the surround. ing districts; who came into this city for the purpose of volunteering, which, they say is the only means through which they can avoid the draft. They inform us that the ply reason why they do not prefer to volunteer in their own districts is that in these such a fearful indifference is manifested as regards filling the quota that it is next to impossible for any man to avoid the drait. No bounty funds are raised, and consequently volunteers are scarce. In the meantime all the enrolled men repair to this city to enlist, and secure the bounty which we offer, as they eve in the theory of making a virtue of necessity and of making the "best of a bad job" they prefer to be soldiers with a little money to spend or to relieve their families with, than togo thout a 'red' with nothing but small pay and hard tack to depend upon. These men will be all accredited to our city and will contribute immensely to fill the vacuum of the city. mensely to fill the vacuum of the city quota. mensely to fill the vacation of the city quota.

Some of the wards have availed themselves of this timely occurrence, and turned it to the best advantage. As things stand at present, those wards will fill their quota, the special when the special wards will fill their quota, the special wards will fill their quota. wards will fill their quots the soonest whose bounty fund will be the last in exhausting. The men are plenty, and if the citizens will be a little prudent, they can ill the quota, live in security, written on the outside wrapper of each botand bid defiance to the draft wherever it makes Exempts .- The enrollment lists contain the names of persons who are by law exempt, and it is desirable that these rolls shall be corrected, so as to purge them of such names. All persons exempt should call at the office of the provost marshal of their district and see that their names are stricken off before drafting begins. They escape any further trouble themselves and diminish the city quota by every name stricken from the rolls. The following persons are exempted by law: All aliens, persons under twenty or over forty-five years of age, persons who have been employed two years in the military or naval service of the United States and been honorably discharged, persons in the military or naval service whenever a draft shall be made, also, all who are incapable from physical or mental disqualifications. Any person who knows a name is wrongfully upon the list can have it stricken off.

The Freshet in the Allegheny.-On Thursday last, the river began to swell at Oil City, and so sudden was the rise that some damage resulted from it. Ballard & Co., lost a raft of some 1,500 new barrels, but it is thought they will recover most of them. Some boats were broken loose from the wharves, but they will likewise be recovered. A quantity of lumber was swept away, which will prove nearly a to. tal loss. This rise will enable quite a large amount of oil to be sent forward by the river.

LATEST FROM GEN'L. SHERMAN.

Washington, Aug. 24.-Advices w-day from the Army of the Potomac, state that Gen. Warren is missing. We made-a reconnoisance yesterday towards Petersburg, and ascertained that the rebels had fallen back to their works at that place, thus abandoning the Weldon Railroad to its fate. The expedition sent down the road yesterday pulled up rails and destroyed oridges to the extent of 30 or 40 miles. LATER. - Our forces have advanced on the Weldon road to within two miles of Petersburg, without opposition. The repels have retired within their earthworks, and no longer dispute our possession of the Weldon line.

The Danville road is naturally next n order, and will receive Geu. Warren's respects. Indeed, it is rumored this morning, that a cavalry dash has already been made in that direction.

The news received here to-day from Sherman's department is exceedingly satisfactory. The character of his plans for the reduction of Atlanta, are said to be working to the best advantage, and there is abundant evidence of a considerable degree of demoralization among the rebel troops. It is asserted here this morning, with
