crowled, and they were all engaged either in providing substitutes for themselves or on the lookout for the best opportunity to enlist. But now, although some of the streets are filled, gers could easily be noticed even bef

Charged with Larcemy -Yesterday in formation was made at the Mayor's office against a doctor named Lynch for larceny, which, if it proves true, will considerably damage his reputation, and, among other things, will also reduce the number of his patients at least in this community. It appears that the Doctor sold a watch to a party who, on failing out of funds or for, some other reason, pawned it at Cimiotti's, on Smithfield street. The latter subsequently had occasion to sell it to a man named J. W. Johnston, who soon af terwards made the unpleasant discovery that it had been stolen. He accordingly called on Cimiotti with a desire, probably, of restoring falling out of funds or for some other reason, pawned it at Cimiotti's, on Smithfield street. had been stolen. He accordingly called on Cimiotti with a desire, probably, of restoring to him the watch, and this gentleman made a similar call on the person who had pawned the watch, and the three gentlemen "putting their heads together," discovered that the Doctor had come by the article in a way which indicated that there was theft somewhere. A warrant was issued for the apprehension of the Doctor, when it was found that his place of business

Body Found.-On Monday while one of the hands on a steamboat lying at the foot of Ferry street was cleaning away some drift-wood that had collected about the wharf, he discovered the body of a man. Information was sent to Aiderman Donaldson, who is acting during

Strangers in the City.—A few days ago a casual observer could perceive that large num-bers of men from the rural districts were in our city. The principal thoroughfares were utterty mone but residents in the city with a few exceptions re to be found. This is no doubt owing to the draft, which as soon as these country-men found it was to be enforced, they struck their tents, and directed their course homeward to their own habitations. The decrease of strandraft was actually enforced, and to the fact we may attribute the many difficulties the Fifth and Ninth wards encountered in their efforts to fill their quotas. Here we offered large bounties, and consequently those who could not enrtain much hope of filling their quotas flocked to the city where they could secure the largest amount of hard cash, and enlisted to our credit. To this fortunate occurrence, for in no ether light can it be regarded by us, may be ascribed the unexpected success with which our labors were attended in raising the necessary number of volunteers to fill the city quotas.

the absence of Coroner McClurg, and he proceeded to hold an inquest on the remains. The body had apparently been in the water for some time as the flesh was so decomposed that risognition was impossible. The deceased was of stout build, and was dressed in dark pants and a light jacket, and had on a pair of new shoes From a recent found on this parsh of the deceased, it is supposed his name was Barry Cowell, or Connell The jury returned a vardiet of found drowned.
