Democrats and Conservatives of the 23d Congressional District OF PENNSYLVANIA.

FELLOW-CITIZENS:-Having been te dered a nomination for Congress by the Democrats of Armstrong, Butler and (a part of) Allegheny Counties, comprised in the 23d District, I deem it decorous thus formally to accept the honor and thankfully to promise my best en-deavors to bring the contest to a sucessful issue. If the boastful confidence of our opponents could discourage me, I should conclude that your preference is but a barren distinction and that as far as I through the holiday manurers of a campaign, and to fight a sham battle in your behalf and my own. But I am not by any means certain that we shall be defeated, and as I sincerely believe that I would have received the nomination if the Democratic majority is supposed to be, I shall make no pusillanimous surrender of the field in which I am called to be your leader—but I will deliver the hardest blows in ny power, and leave the result to the irreat Arbiter of all disputes. I will go low my with my colors fiving as all it. my power, and leave the result to said Great Arbiter of all disputes. I will go down with my colors flying, as did the gallant "Cumberland," under the as- atively a trifling matter, But, chiefly through his influence, the stocks for through his influence, the stocks for enemy may sink me, but they shall not seize the good old flag of Democracy and Union which you have so generously confided to my hands. My opponent is Thomas WILLIAMS, esq., Attorney-at-Law, -but a briefless attorney, as I am given to understand, since he beguiled the people of these counties to attempt the repudiation of the railroad bonds and to employ him as their legal adviser in that miserable business—a business which femilted to the great disgrace of those who planned it, and to the abundant profit of the rest less agitator, now my opponent for Con-We offer the above and many other articles gress. But the villainous treason utterly failed, and the plotters and abettors of it fled in mortal terror before the incensed electors—my courageous opponent making a timely but very has ty exodus from the window of the Sen-ate Chamber. This, I submit, was a bad beginning for the career of a public character,—for their breathes not in Penn sylvania to-day, a man of sound mind and memory, I care not what his prejudices of his party attachments may be, who does not denounce the "Buckshot War" as a cowardly and a traitorous attempt to defeat the people's will by force, after fraud had wholly failed. And this is Mr. WILLIAMS, first outrage upon popular rights,—his first appearance in the character of an ungovernable agitator and a rebellious assailant of law and order. You shall see that time

And for all this, remember tax payers of Allegheny County, Mr. I have been struck with the singular reduotations, in lauguages living and dead, which compliation is much used by gentlemen who claim chasical learning, to adorn and bespangle their compositions. But I scorn to practice any such devices. I do not wish to parade in borrowed plumage. My mode of proceeding may not be so cloquent, nor so nicely logical, nor may hap so torturous as that of a man trained to make the worse appear the better reason, but it has the rare merit of being honest, and honesty is the badge of those with whom I serve.

I wish to demonstrate then, that Thomas Williams has never been and never can be a proper representative of the prople. He is not of them and cares not tor them. He entered public life as a State Senator in 1830, and before he gave a vote he was engaged in a most unhallowed effort to defeat the will of the cleators just declared in the elevation to David R.
