The Election.—The election came off yesterday, and although a large amount of excitement prevailed throughout the entire day, still everything passed off quietly. The Democrats were very well pleased with their large gains in every part of the State, and augured more brilliant prospects for the future. We have not as yet received the full returns from the different parts of the county, but the following votes for Congress and Senate will give a good idea of how the election proceeded in this county:

Man Shot.—On Monday night about twelve o'clock an alternation took place in a drinking house on Fulton street between a party of men who had been drinking there during the evening and the proprietor. It appears that the by-keeper informed them that it was time to close up the house and desired them to leave. This, it seems, created some difficulty between the parties and an alteration ensued, during which some one drew a pistol and fired, striking a man named Adam Handell in the mouth and inflicting a severe wound. The party were finally ejected from the house, against which they proceeded to throw stones and other missiles, when the night watch was called and one of the men arrested. Two others were arrested on the following morning and confined in the lock-up to answer the charge of assault and battery with intent to kill and riotous conduct.

Body Found.—Yesterday morning the body of an infant was discovered in an alley off Fourth street, near the Mayor's office. It is supposed that it died from strangulation, but no clue has yet been found to the discovery of the person who perpetrated the inhuman deed. The body was taken to Devore's undertaker's establishment for the purpose of holding an inquest.

Musical.—We have just received from Charlotte Blume the following exquisite musical compositions: The Dream, Write a Letter to my Mother. The first is a beautiful waltz, composed by Julius Moore and is Dedicated to the ladies of Pittsburgh. This together with the other excellent piece should be in the possession of all young ladies.

Godey's Lady's Book.—Godey's Lady's Book and Magazine for November has just been published and contains some unusually interesting matter for the young ladies. The fashions are beautifully illustrated, and the entertaining story of "Taking boarders for company" is continued in this volume. All the ladies should have a copy.

FROM OUR FIRST EDITION.

The Skirmishes of Friday Last.

NEW YORK, October 11.—In all the rebel accounts of the affairs on Friday, they make out that the severest fighting was done in the attack on Kautz,s cavalry, while our accounts represent the heaviest part of the engagement to have taken place after the rout of Kautz. The fact may be that the rebels may have been made to pay very dearly for their victory over Kautz, as they were armed with repeating rifles, and it was in this attack that the rebels lost General Gregg and several other officers.

The correspondent of the Times sums up the affair as follows: We lost eight guns. As a set off, however, we captured seventeen last Thursday. We slaughtered and wounded at least one thousand, of the enemy in front of the infantry, exclusive of the injury inflicted on them by General Kautz, besides taking one hundred prisoners. The greater portion of the enemy's killed and wounded were left on the field. Considering their losses in men, they bought their guns dearly, although we must give them the credit of killing, disabling and capturing, at an outside estimate, four hundred men, in addition to the guns.

Looking at the matter from all points of view, we claim a very decisive victory. We can afford to lose guns, but the rebels cannot afford to lose the large numbers of men they lost to-day in capturing them. They signally failed in their object of flanking us, and will scarcely be likely to resume the experiment, at least for some time. They also suffered as severely as we in the loss of artillery horses. One of their batteries was drawn off the field by hand.

Gen. Grant Severe on Guerrillas

NEW YORK, October 11.—A special to the Tribune, dated Washington, 10th, says: We learn from the front that a movement commenced on Saturday, though its object was not stated. It is said that an order will at once be issued by Gen. Grant directing the shooting of every guerrilla, the burning of every house and the driving out of men, women and children from the Shenandoah Valley and the guerrilla-infested region between Washington and the Potomac.

By direction of the Secretary of War all stoppages against the pay of officers of the army, at the request of the Ordnance Officer, for non-rendition of ordnance returns for the years 1861 and 1862, will be removed, except against such regiments as have been mustered out of service and these that are to be so mustered out during the present quarter.

The total amount of National Bank currency issued to October 1st, 1864, was $1,740, 550. The amount issued during the week ending October 8th, 1864, was 1,774, 880.

Gen. Butler's Position Impregnable.

NEW YORK, October 11.—The Herald's correspondent at General Butler's headquarters, writing on the 9th, says that he has been throughout the lines of the army of the James, and believes that several large armies united with the object of dislodging this army would not only suffer immensely, but would seriously risk a defeat. Their works and their maintainance are a necessity to the taking of Richmond. The country may congratulate itself that the army of the James has won the position. On the 8th, 750 Union exchanged prisoners were brought down from Richmond in addition to those the day before. Rebel prisoners and deserters continue to come in daily.

Narrow Escape of Gen. Kautz.

NEW YORK, October 11.—Rebel papers announce the capture of Gen. Kautz's Adjutant. How nearly the General came to sharing the same fate is told by the correspondent of the Times as follows: When Gen. Kautz was returning in the rear of his column with a few of his staff officers and orderlies, he came upon an entire rebel regiment at least one mile from the road where the attack commenced. This regiment had some of his men prisoners. At the sight of their general the men called out to him dash back, which he did, and escaped by a by-path. His Adjutant General, Capt. Nash, was with him at the time, but is now missing.

ELECTION RETURNS

From Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana.

LARGE DEMOCRATIC GAINS.

From the Shenandoah Valley

The Rebel Iron-Clad Fleet.

Special dispatch to the Pittsburgh Post.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 11.—Six of the city wards give a Democratic majority of 240, a Democratic gain of 151 over Curtin's vote.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—The Richmond Examiner of Saturday, says, some excitement prevailed at Gordonsville night before last, from the rumored approach of a raiding party. It was deemed prudent to remove the government stores and railroad stock from that place, and accordingly was brought down the road.

The comments of the Southern press on Jeff. Davis' speeches show that they are not generally relished. The Montgomery Mail says: The speech of the President at Macon was not such as the public had a right to expect at this critical juncture in our affairs. The least he says about the campaign in Georgia the better. He has shocked the country and army already enough by what has transpired under his direction. Evidence accumulates that had Johnston been retained in command of the Army of the Tennessee, Atlanta would not only have been saved but Sherman's hosts destroyed.

An Army of the Potomac letter of the 9th says: Yesterday morning the two great armies confronting each other in front of Richmond were in a state of fermentation expecting an attack from each other. Our army waited, but the rebels did not come. The enemy gathered themselves into their fortifications, while their rams and gunboats in the James went higher up for fear Our Monitors would pass obstructions; chains were stretched across the river to impede their progress. There are three rams in James river; the Virginia, Richmond and Fredericksburg. Four gunboats, the Drury, Beaufort, Nansamond and Raleigh; this is their entire naval force afloat for defence of Richmond, though other vessels are being launched.

Times' special gives additional particulars of the battle of the 7th. Object of rebels was to turn right flank. Lines strengthened, putting another line of strong works outside the present exterior limits of their fortifications. To accomplish their purpose, they, under cover of night, moved Hooker's and Fields' divisions, numbering 4,500, down the Darbytown road to the position occupied by Kautz, fairly encircling his 1,700. At daybreak they attacked him fiercely, both in front and in flank. Our troopers fought bravely for more than an hour until they found the enemy not only in front and right, but also in the rear, then fell back hurriedly, not before they lost nearly 300 men, having to cross a marsh as the only line of retreat. They run the artillery into the mire, and were forced to abandon it to the enemy. The enemy then followed in a splendid line. Fields' Division being front supported by Gen. Hoke, crossing at double quick, so full of confidence, omitted all precautions. Our troops armed with repeating rifles makes destructions upon rebels, literally covering the ground with dead and wounded.

A body of Yankee cavalry appeared at Rapidan station and burned the bridge there. It is not known that they have come this side.

The Dispatch says: Several thousand Yankee prisoners were sent to Salisbury yesterday morning. Within the past week a large lot, amounting to thousands, have been sent off. Accommodations have been prepared for many thousands of Yankees expected to be captured within the next few days.

The Richmond Examiner says President Davis returned to the capital yesterday morning from his visit South, and to the army of the Southwest. He returns in good health and excellent spirits, and speaks with confidence as to the final result in Georgia.

The rebels acknowledge a loss of Gen. Gregg killed, Gen. Bratton badly wounded, and Col. Haskell and Major Haskell, of the South Carolina artillery, wounded. Gen. Gregg fell at the head of his command.

The Richmond papers apologize for the lack of editorial matter by saying that the editors and printers have been summoned to the defence of the city.

About noon reports that the State would be sure to go Republican were circulated among the speculators, which were construed as favorable to an advance, and the price rose to 201¼, having opened at 198¾. NEW YORK, October 11.—Wilmington papers contains particulars of the death of Mrs. Rose Greenhow. She visited Europe, published the book she had written in Washington on the war and her imprisonment. This she accomplished, and was just returning to the Confederacy, when she met her death. Saturday morning the steamship Condor in endeavoring to come over New Inlet Bar, got aground. A boat from her swamped, and Mrs. Greenhow was a passenger on that boat, and she was drowned.

WASHINGTON, October 11.—In accordance with the authorization by the Act of Congress the Navy Department today has telegraphed to the proper authorities in San Francisco, to arm and equip a vessel at that port for the use of Engineer Buckley and party, who are soon to proceed to Amoor river to lay telegraph wires. The expedition will probably commence operations by the 1st of March.
