Oil! Oil!! Oil!!!—Next to Sheridan's victories, oil and oil stocks now form the great topics of the day. To whatever part of Pittsburgh you direct your footsteps you will hear somebody talking about investments, somebody buying stock or disposing of the same at a good bargain. Oil strikes, although numerous, are hailed with delight by every member of the community, and the companies on whose land the fortunate event took place are not tardy in having it published, as by that means they are certain to secure a greater demand for their stocks. Everybody is investing: the wealthy capitalist as well as the clerk with a few hundred dollars. In the East as well as the West the oil fever prevails, and companies are being formed in New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and other cities for the purpose of buying large tracts of land, bore wells and share the profits on the vast mineral resources of Western Pennsylvania.

The New York Herald sent a special correspondent to the oil region a short time since, in order to give a full and accurate report of the state of the country, its scenery, &c., and likewise give an estimate of its prospective wealth. Whether the New York Herald's special correspondent did any of these things, our readers who may have perused his account can judge better than we can. Any man acquainted with the oil regions would think that this correspondent should have prolonged his stay a little longer in order to be able to give a full and truthful report thereof, and the many inaccuracies found in the report can be either attributed to the writer's want of experience in the country or a want of sincerity on his part. As the former is the more charitable supposition we will take it for granted, more especially as it does not matter much to us how a reporter of the New York Herald may write on topics with which we are familiarly acquainted and cannot therefore be deceived, whatever misstatement he may have made in his report. In the opinion of a great many other papers, the Herald's correspondence descriptive of the oil regions is distinguished only for its exaggeration and untruthful statements.

We say this much for the benefit of those who may have a desire to invest in oil stock speculation, and who would be sadly deceived if they credited what was written in our contemporary. But to return to our subject, the petroleum trade during the last year has vastly increased, and from all appearances this year the amount of trade done in this line will surpass all precedent. Last year it was larger by five million dollars than the iron and coal trade, and the two latter rank among the first in the country. The petroleum produced in this State was sold at the wells for $56,000,000 during the last twelve months, and the iron and coal only produced $51,000,000. In Philadelphia the daily sale of petroleum stocks at the regular Stock Exchange Board are over $300,000. Thus it may be seen that the petroleum trade is in the most flourishing condition, and consequently men can be excused when they invest in it large sums of money, with a desire for speculation bounding on recklessness and the most sanguine hopes of prospective wealth. In this manner fabulous sums of money are used to carry on the trade on an unprecedented scale, and develope the immense resources of this part of the State. From the Venango and West Virginia oil regions capitalists are at present directing their attention to the various districts in other counties where it is said the strongest indications of oil are to be found.

It is expected that large quantities of petroleum will yet be drawn from Fayette county, where it is said several producing wells have already been struck, and others are going down with all possible dispatch. Everywhere, where the geological formation of the country indicates that the precious fluid flows beneath the soil, companies have been formed to develope its resources, and they all entertain the most sanguine hopes of ultimate success. No doubt success will attend them in their efforts—at least we hope so—as by that means the general wealth of the community is increased. It is certain that if we do not seize these lands ourselves and turn their immense mineral resources to our own account, the wealthy speculator of the East will not fail to do so, in which case the riches which are hidden beneath our own soil would be transferred from this to other States in such a manner that it would be effectually taken away from us, and others would enjoy the benefits of that which by nature seems reserved exclusively for us.

We understand that even in the vicinity of Connellsville a company of Pittsburghers are now boring for oil. The many improvements in transportation which have been made of late will no doubt render the trade both safe and less expensive. It is difficult to determine how far this trade will extend, but as yet we see no bounds to its development. It appears that its consumption will spread all over the world, and that consumers will be found for every drop of petroleum that can be produced. On the other hand it appears that the veins of oil are inexhaustible, and although it frequently occurs that a well discontinues to yield its former quantity of oil, by boring another well this can be easily remedied. Thus it is that this trade is likely to remain one of the most important, as well as the most extensive, in the world. Some of our readers will likely wish to know which is the more profitable investment—whether it be safer and more lucrative to invest their capital in the dividend paying or the non-dividend paying stocks. On this head we would advise them to consult their own judgment. The former is, beyond controversy, the safer investment, but we doubt wether it be the more profitable. On the one hand the speculator incurs a considerable risk of losing part of his money, while on the other he might realize double the amount he formerly invested. The facts show us that the latter has nearly always been the case, and were it not for this fact business would have met far more obstacles than it has, while it would never have reached the enormous developement which it now has and of which we are eye witnesses.

Beware of Pickpockets.—The Catholic of this week has the following: "Pickpockets of late have resumed operations in some of the churches around here, and several persons have suffered in consequence. Many supposing that professional thieves, unencumbered by any amount of piety or honesty can have no inducement to appear in churches, presume that while there a man's pockets are safe. This is a mistake, for rogues will practice their vocation wherever it is possible, and no more favorable occasion can present itself for relieving any unsuspecting person of his surplus funds than when he is struggling through a dense crowd to reach the church door. Under such circumstances an unusual pressure on his pockets which in any other place would cause alarm, excites no suspicion, and the light fingers of the expert will give less attention than the rough elbows of the honest people by whom the victim is jostled. The only security, then, against the stealthy attacks of pickpockets, whose field of operations includes even the house of God, is to carry no more money than you need, or to keep your hand close on your purse while surrounded by the crowd at the door."

The Union Fanning Mill.—Marchant & Co., of Richmond, Ind., are exhibiting the above on Liberty street, next door to the well known agricultural house of Beckham & Long. The Union mill has been extensively introduced throughout the West, and has displaced every invention for the purpose ever introduced. It is the only mill that will clean wheat and other cereals of rot dirt, chess-cockle and smutt sufficient for sowing or grinding. It will also separate timothy seed at the same time sufficiently clean for use. This mill also separates timothy seed from clover or red tops or sorrel. It is the only mill ever invented that will take oats from wheat. It is not presented to the public, as there is nothing claimed for it that it will not perform, as has been abundantly attested by thousands who have used it. The proprietors will dispose of either individual or county rights and await the sale of machines for pay.

The Weather.—Yesterday the weather was dull and rainy, in direct contrast with what it was during the previous few weeks. During that period the weather was delightful, in fact far more so than we could have expected at this season of the year. We may expect a change in the weather soon, as it will probably become both cold and uncomfortable after the rain.

Severely Injured.—An old lady named Hutton was run over by the horse cars on a horse railway engaged in hauling coal near the borough of Elizabeth, on Wednesday evening, producing injuries which it is thought will prove fatal.

El Dorado Saloon, corner of Fifth and Smithfield streets, J. B. Dickey, Propietor; open day and night. Every luxury of the season served at all hours, Sundays excepted.

Specialities.—While quacks treat people's livers, I promise to cure their bad lights. O'Brien, painter and glazier, 130 Third street.

MR. EDITOR: In this morning's issue of your paper we noticed an article seriously reflecting on the "Teachers" of the First ward Public School, Pittsburgh, for introducing politics into their departments.

Allow us most emphatically to deny the charge, and assure the editor that whatever our feelings in regard to politics may be, we have never made them a subject of conversation in the school room.

With reference to the scurrilous remarks in the latter part of the article alluded to, we think it beneath our dignity to reply to them.

FROM OUR FIRST EDITION.

Reports from Rebel Papers.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Richmond papers of Monday last have the following: It is said that Yankee deserters state that sixty vessels of all classes, intended for an early attack on Wilmington, are rendezvousing in the harbor at Beaufort, N. C.

Yankee raids in the towns of Woodwell, Gibson, Osika and Skipwith Landing in Mississippi, are mentioned, in which large numbers of beef cattle were secured. These are but a few of the series of successful expeditions from Vicksburg and vicinity, which General Dana has been for some time sending out.

The extensive rebel Government wagon shops in Lynchburg were destroyed by fire on the night of Saturday last.

Sheridan's magnificent victory of the 19th inst., was such a crusher to the rebels that the Richmond editors are making desperate endeavors to belittle it. The Enquirer, alluding to the turning point of the battle, says: "One of the most brilliant victories of the war had been gained by our troops, but in an evil hour, when a portion of our men were plundering the property they had captured, a small force of the Yankee cavalry appeared on our left flank. The plunderers took flight, and thus the whole army was thrown into a panic and fled in a demoralized condition."

Still it argues "this defeat is only a temporary disaster, and no solid result is attained by it for Sheridan, disgraceful though it was for us." The rebel cavalry, especially, are abused in strong terms for their conduct on the occasion.

Ten thousand is given as the whole number of Early's army in the battle, and 30,000 as Sheridan's. These Richmond papers claim as their captures 1,900 Union soldiers.

Firing on the Rebel Gunboats.

NEW YORK, October 27.—The Richmond Dispatch of the 24 says: Early on Saturday morning our gunboats lying at anchor in Graveyard Bend, below Chapin's Bluff, were opened upon by a Yankee battery, newly erected on Signal Hill, on the north bank, a mile distant further down the river. One of the first of the enemy's shells exploded on the deck of the little steamer Drury, near her forward gun, wounding two men severely. The Drury weighed anchor and got out of range as quickly as possible.

The iron ram Fredericksburg, was struck several times, but suffered little injury. The greatest damage done aboard of her was by one of the Yankee shells, which exploded immediately over her grating, wounding six men, four of them very slightly and two severely. It is said that the Richmond came in for her share of the fire, and had her smoke-stack knocked into a cocked hat. The enemy kept up the fire for an hour.

Strength of the Rebel Army.

NEW YORK, October 27th.—The Tribune's correspondent with Butler of the 24th, says: In connection with the action of the rebel Governors plainly indicating their intention to call their slaves to aid them in their desperate straits, it may not be inopportune to state this important fact, namely, that their army confronting us before Richmond and Petersburg is now known to be reduced to not exceeding 33,000 men all told.

Jeff Davis, Longstreet, and other distinguished rebels, yesterday rode along the lines in our front, and then went back to Richmond, deserters say, sadder if not wiser men. The rebel rams crept down the river last night, under cover of darkness, to their late position, but hurried away again at dawn this morning.

Report of Another Draft Denied.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—A Heralds Washington special says: The report that the enrollment law is a failure, and that the sub clause is to be repealed, and drafted men are obliged to go into service, and that there will be a draft for 300,000 men on the first of January, is pronounced by Gen. Fry as utterly unfounded. The Chesapeake and Ohio canal is again opened its entire length. Gen. Ricketts is rapidly recovering from his wound.

Latest from Europe.

HALIFAX, October 27.—The steamer Canada, from Liverpool on the 15th via Queenstown on the 16th, has arrived. It is denied that the pirate Semmes left Liverpool. It is thought that peace will be concluded at the Vienna conference.

LIVERPOOL, October 15.—Cotton closed quiet. Breadstuffs quiet. Provisions dull. Petroleum quiet at 1s 10d@1s 11d crude.

A New Line of Defense.

NEW YORK, October 27.—A Times special from Washington, of the 27th, says: It appears to be the rebel aim to take up a front in Northern or Central Alabama, covering Montgomery, Mobile, etc. This practically opens up Sherman's line of conquest clear to the gulf.

Captures in the Late Fight.

Movements of Admiral Porter.

The 20-Inch Gun Tested.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—A correspondent with Sheridan says there were 57 guns captured in the late fight, 25 of which were our own retaken. Five thousand prisoners in round numbers were taken. The movement of the rebels was planned by General Gordon, and when our camps had been captured he advised Early to fall back with his troops, but that officer disregarded the advice. General Ramseur said before dying, that there was 28,000 in the attacking party. Two divisions passed Massanutte mountain in single file, marching all night so as to come on our left flank, and the remaining 11,000 attacked in front and along the right. After the first shock had been felt on the left, a considerable body of cavalry came over the mountain and pushed rapidly up the pike after our works had been carried to capture our wagon trains. It was here that a man in our uniform came up unsuspected to Colonel Thoburn and remarked that is a fine horse you are riding, Colonel; you had better give him to me, and immediately shot him with his revolver.

A Commercial special says: It is understood that Admiral Porter will sail for the rendezvous of his fleet at Beaufort, North Carolina, as soon as soon as the Montauh arrives at Fortress Monroe, which will be this week. The other vessels of the squadron are all ready and have either arrived or are on their way, and the attack may be expected next week. It is believed that the arrangements are so perfect that the reduction of the batteries at the mouth of Cape Fear river will be accomplished in a few hours.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—The twenty-inch Rodman gun was tested yesterday at Fort Hamilton. It was first fired with a blank cartridge of 100 pounds of powder, then with 50 pounds and a solid shot of 1,080 pounds, and finally with 100 pounds and a solid shot at an angle of twenty-five degrees. This shot was thrown four miles. The full range of the gun is thought to be between four and five miles. The experiments were entirely successful.

Important from the Treasury Department.

The Payment of Duties.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—The following correspondence has been had concerning the question of the old 7-30 notes being leg l tender for custom duties:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, Oct. 26.—Sir: It having been represented to the Secretary that there is an impression obtaining that a decision is about to be promulgated by this Department to the effect that the old 7-30 notes will be received in payment of duties, he directs me to transmit the enclosed copy of a letter addressed to Elliott F. Shepard, and to add that that decision is penal.

Very respectfully,

GEO. HARRINGTON,

Asst. Sec'y. of the Treasury.

To John A. Stewart, Assistant Treasurer, New York.

[Copy.]

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, Sept. 24, 1864.—Elliott F. Shepard, esq., No. 16 Wall street, New York: I am in receipt of your letter of Sept. 21st, in which you suggest, on behalf of yourself and clients, that the question whether the notes of the issue of 1861, known as 7-30's, are receivable for duties, and be referred for decision either to the Judge of the District Court or to the Attorney General. In the discharge of my official duties I have already found it necessary to examine and consider fully the subject here presented, and have formed and repeatedly expressed the opinion that these notes are not so receivable. The question being therefore decided in so far as its decision rests with this Department, I must decline giving my assent to the proposed reference. Respectfully,

W. P. FESSENDEN,

Secretary of the Treasury.

CAIRO, Oct. 27.—The steamer May Duke, from Duvall's Bluff, arrived at Memphis on the 25th with a large number of refugees.

The steamer Masmora was fired into at Prairie Landing, on White river, and was followed five or six miles. One of her officers and fifteen negro soldiers were killed and a number wounded.

St. Charles, Arkansas, is being evacuated.
