phony by The LATE ELECTION. The Duty of the Democrats,

While some of the organs of the Administration are insolent and insulting in their expressions of triumph over the late election, others and we are pleas. ed to add the most respectable of them are modest and moderate in their ju bilations. For ourselves, we are quite content to submit to the late decision of the people; but in doing so, we would adminish our conquerors to enjoy their Confederates are gradually moving The boiler of the Rumsey seemed, as well as those who saw the explosion to the wound the feelings of their vanduished opposite with brave men the similar to the one made lest record to the control of the tonly wound the feelings of their van-

"What they ought to do is plain enough. They should lay so heart the lesson that no public rolloy, in these times especially, has any change, which is not thoroughly pervaded with an international ispite. They should understand that, this appric is utterly incompatible with faction in any form or measure; and that opposition to President Lincoln's Administration; un system; without is practical end is faction; un system; without is practical end is faction; un eand simple. By the sovereign decree of the people. Mr. Lincoln will be again President Of the United States for four years from the fourth of March next. It is now impossible to put another man to his place. He has in charge the most andoons work eyer intrusted to mottal mands. He has a light to the sympathetic encouragement, the generous criticism, and the effective material and moral support of all the people; without distinction of party."

Democracy in response to an "intense eral soldiers, were taken prisoners. national spirit" forgetting all opposition to the new Administration, were smong Fruits of "Miscegenation" Teachthe first to respond to the call of their country. As a party we remained firm, until the infernal spirit of Radicalism obtained control of Mr. Lincoln's counsels: When he in pursuance of Abolition teaching, departed from the "national spirit" alluded to, and converted our struggle for national unity into one fair, and at once set about ferreting out for partizan Abolitionism, he alone was the woman referred to. Notwithstandfrom his support. As long as he dedent who because recreant to the great chief object was to secure his bright cause itself, nor can he truthfully charge the Democracy with revolt. His efforts proved to the best he could. not parizant; but they man and on riday he found the convictions, in order to adopt their prefulices. Let them now their prefulices Let them now facts, accompanied the officer to the facts, accompanied the officer to the house are ferred to, and there beheld his house referred to, and there beheld his let them fight exclusively against traitors and not entire communities, and the Democracy will sustain them. But this the Administration of Mr. Lincoln will not do: The late verdict of the people will make them more exacting in their demands upon the rebel states: and, instead of their becoming liberal and pitious, they will grow the more tyrannical and remoralless.

In this lamentable condition, of affairs the Democoacy can do nothing to soften the temper of our exultant oppo Our duty therefore is to offer no factious opposition to the Adminis tration; but in the eventiof its returning when he was a short distance from our they have undergone, and the education door, he met a military gentleman whom he did not recognize, and asked him to accompany him to our room. A Military Custom in Russia. The Temple Bar (Eng.) Magazine gives the following description of one method of recruiting the Russian army:
Marriage is warmly encouraged among the Russian soldiers, and every facility is afforded to those who desire to take unto themselves a wife. The State supplies the martial Benedict with lodgings and undertakes to feed, clothe and eduand undertakes to feed, clothe and edu-cate the young olive-branches that may chance to spring up around the happy trooper's table. All this, of course, is kindly meant, and seems benevolent, but often "things sweet to taste prove in digestion sour." A bounty that ap-pears on the first blush generous in the extreme has its drawbacks. The male children of these Muscovite sons of Mars, called Cantonist, are claimed by Mars, called Cantonist, are claimed by the State, and from infancy are reared and trained with a view of being made soldiers, or of being otherwise employed in the public service. They remain at home until they are breeched and coated, when they are summarily sent off to the military depots to be instructed in their military duties.
