It is not impossible that Cobb commands the rebel forces in the field, while Smith is in charge of the immediate defenses one hundred and three years on the 12th one hundred and three years on the 12th of Apiil last. Her, husband, Leonard Fite, was a solidier in the Revolutionary war, and fought throughout that strug-gle as a private, having steadily refused promotion. Mr. and Mra. Fite emigra-ted to Tennessee from North Carolina, and settled, here when this place was known as Nash's Lick. In those days Mra. Fite often assisted in moulding of the city. Such is the importance of Macon to the rebels that it will not be surprising if the strongest fortifications are found here. It is now the only grand depot for the rebel army in the Northwest, and commanding, as it does, the grand trunk or railway communication will naturally be defended to the last.

 An and a diverge of a diverge o "The scentified of the scenes cign power. They may not like it, but what are they to do? The "solidarity is used to say, of the people," as Kossuth used to say, is of little importance to the great Powers of Europe. They are eager to increase their own strength by the addition of races of men differing in lan guage, customs and religion. And when they can do so by robbing their neight bors of solid slices of territory the acquisition becomes a matter of congrature t lation among those philosophers who believe that might is right. Denmark has suffered severely, but the cause of absolute monarchy gains by the prestige accorded to Austria and Prusas. This European difficulty is settled.
