GLAD NEWS FOR THE UNFORTUNATE!

THE LONG SOUGHT FOR

DISCOVERED AT LAST!

Cures in from one to three days.

CHEROKEE REMEDY,

AND

CHEROKEE INJECTION

Compounded from Roots, Barks and Leaves.

☞ The CHEROKEE REMEDY, the great Indian Diuretic, cures all diseases of the urinary organs; such as inflammation of the Urine, Inflammation of the Bladder, inflammation of the Kidneys, Stone in the Bladder, Stricture, Gravel, Gleet, Gonorrhœa, &c., especially recommended in those cases of Fluor albidus (or whites in females) where all the old nostrums in existence have failed.

☞ It is prepared in a highly concentrated form, the dose only being from one to two teaspoonfuls three times a day.

☞ It is diuretic, and alterative in its action, purifying and cleansing the blood, causing it to circulate in its original purity and vigor, thus removing from the system all pernicious causes which have induced disease.

☞ The CHEROKEE INJECTION is intended as an auxiliary assistant to the Cherokee Remedy, and should be used in conjunction with it. It is designed for the cure of Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Fluor albus or Whites. Its effects are healing, soothing and demulcent, removing at once the heat, and pain, instead of the burning and unendurable pain that is experienced with nearly all the cheap quack injections.

☞ By the use of the Cherokee Remedy and Cherokee Injection—the two medicines at the same time—all improper discharges are removed, and the weakened organs are speedily restored to full vigor and strength.

☞ Price Cherokee Remedy, $5 per bottle, or three bottles for $5.

☞ Price Cherokee Injection, $2 per bottle, or three bottles for $5.

☞ Sent by Express to any address on receipt of price.

☞ The Cherokee Remedy, Cherokee Injection, and Cherokee Cure, are sold by all enterprising druggists in the civilized world. Some unprincipled dealers, however, try to sell worthless compounds in place of these; those which they can purchase at a cheap price, and make more money by selling, than they can on these medicines. As you value your health, save, the health of your future offspring, do not be deceived by such unprincipled Druggists, ask for no medicines, and take no advice, if the Druggists will not get them for you, forward the money in a letter, and we will send them to you by Express, securely sealed and packed free from observation.

Ladies of Gentlemen can address us in perfect confidence, stating fully and plainly their diseases and symptoms, as we treat all diseases of a chronic nature in male or female. Patients need not hesitate because of their inability to visit us, as we have treated patients successfully in all portions of the civilized globe, by correspondence.

Patients addressing us will please state plainly all the symptoms of their complaints, and write Post Office, County, State, and name of writer, plain and inclose postage stamp for reply.

We send our 32 page Pamphlet free, to any one. Address all letters for Pamphlet or advice to the proprietors,

MEDICAL.

IMPORTANT TO LADIES.

THE PRIVATE MEDICAL ADVISER, an invaluable treatise of 64 pages, by published for the benefit of the sex.

It gives a concise description of all the diseases peculiar to females, together with means of cure; and the best of Conception, Pregnancy, Miscarriage Sterility, Sexual, Abuses, Prolapsus, Uteri, Female Weakness, Consumption, &c., and much other valuable information not published in any other work. Every lady should procure a copy without delay. Three Editions, 50,000 each, have already been published and distributed this year.

HARVEY'S CHRONO THERMAL FEMALE PILLS

the most infallible and popular remedy ever known for all diseases of the female sex. They have been used in many thousand cases with unfailing success—and may be relied on in every case for which they are recommended, and particularly in all cases arising from OBSTRUCTION OR STOPPAGE OF NATURE, no matter from what cause it arises. They are effectual in restoring to health all who are suffering from Weakness and Debility, Uterine Discharges, Nervousness, &c., &c., and they ACT LIKE A CHARM in strengthening and restoring the system. Thousands of ladies who have suffered for years and tried various other remedies in vain, owe a renewal of their health and strength wholly to the efficacy of

Dr. Harvey's Female Pills.

They are not a new discovery but a long tried remedy—the celebrated

DR. JOHN HARVEY,

one of the most eminent physicians, prescribed them for many years in his private practice, and no physician was more truly popular or widely known than him in the treatment of

FEMALE DIFFICULTIES.

All who have used DR. HARVEY'S FEMALE PILLS recommend them to others. Nurses recommend them—Druggists and Dealers recommend them in preference to other medicines, because of their merits. No lady objects to taking them for they are elegantly

Prepared by an Experienced Chemist.

Price One Dollar.

☞ Cut this notice out if you desire Dr. Harvey's Pills or Book, and if you cannot procure them of your Druggist, do not take any other, for some dealers who are unprincipled will recommend other Female Pills, they can make a larger profit on—but enclose the money and send direct to

DR. J. BRIAN, General Agent,
Box 5078. 79 Cedar Street, N. Y.

Who will take all risk if properly directed; and you will receive them post paid, securely sealed from observation, by return mail.

Sold by Druggists generally.

NOTICE TO ALL CONCERNED.—Among a certain class of self-important people there is a peculiar feeling of contempt attached to all physicians that advertise and treat the disease named in the circular, (PRIVATE DISEASES.) Now this should be, they nor no one else can tell. Are they not aware that all physicians treat diseases of every denomination, in fact some of the very diseases that are so fashionable to these very refined parties. I suppose they would not let one of their family go to a party that has detected years for their benefit, because he advertises the fact, and their family physician says he is a humbug so he can get the case. Often he has almost deprived the party of his life. Is it not a fact that the physicians that advertise—how else are they to know? Are they not aware that Sir Astley Cooper, Sir Benjamin Brodie, Sir Charles Hall and Samuel Pallmer, have said years ago, that the treatment of these diseases? These men are held up as shining lights in the medical world; I don't assert that all men are worthy that publish, still there are a great number of them that are. I have devoted myself to the study and treatment of Private Diseases upwards of 20 years, and without egotism can say I have saved hundreds from years of misery and untimely death. My treatment is confined to the vegetable altogether as I think it is the best and most certain. It is in my power to bring hundreds of certificates if I thought it necessary to certify to my general success; but my long residence in this city is sufficient proof without adding more. Spermatorrhea and all diseases arising from it are cured in a much shorter time than heretofore. It behoves every young man and woman to be careful in selecting a physician. The different advertisements that are seen in our papers are of no worth, and no benefit will arise from answers than only loss of health and money. I furnish a secured annuity by my new remedies. FANNY'S BAIT.

A Neat Love Story.

"I say, Tom I'm confoundedly sick of staying in town in this splendid August weather! What say you to taking a run in the country?"

"I should like it above all things, George. Being thus confined to the sight of bricks and mortar, is enough to make one sigh for a breath of fresh air and a glimpse of the blue sky."

"Well, then, agreed, Tom. We'll start to-morrow. I have got an uncle, a gentleman farmer, living in the pleasantest spot I ever saw—a large, rambling farmhouse, with plenty of land for shooting, and a river with lots of fish; and then he has pretty daughters besides. I'll warrant you a pleasant trip to my uncle's; and who knows but that Mr. Tom Vincent the fastidious connoisseur of female beauty, may lose his heart to one of my rosy country cousins before his return?"

"Don't fear for my heart," said Tom, drawing up his handsome form, and sweeping back the thick masses of wavy dark hair from his broad forehead; "I never saw the lady yet who could fill it; and, no doubt your fair cousins are pretty, still you know me too well to form any plans of that sort. No matrimony for me this many a year."

"Oh, well, Tom, you'll be caught some day by a witch of a thing who will tear to tatters all your fine ideas about matrimony and so forth with her spicy words and saucy airs!" laughed George, rising; "but I must be off now. Pack up your portmanteau to-night, and I'll be round early in the morning, for I've got letter to write first thing in order to get to my Uncle Randall's in time for dinner."

"Yes I'll be ready," replied Tom; and so his friend departed.

George Warner and Tom Vincent were intimate friends, having been companions at college, and graduated with equal honor from their Alma Mater. George was studying for the law, and, Tom though an heir of wealth, still sat at the mercantile desk where his deceased father had acquired a fortune.

The next morning the two friends seated themselves in a railway carriage, and were borne rapidly away from the hot, dusty city, into the pleasant open country, refreshed with the varied glimpses of green fields and sparkling waters, past which they were whirled along. About noon they arrived at their journey's end, having ridden some twelve miles in a stage coach after leaving the railway; and both tired and hungry, they presented themselves at the farm house door of Mr. Randall, where they were received with hearty welcome.

"I'm sorry, George," said his aunt, that the girls have gone over to Meadowleigh, to their cousins, on a visit. They went only this morning, and will be away a week or more. How unlucky! but you must stay till they come back—you and your friend."

"Thanks, aunt Lucy, we will place ourselves under your hospitality for a short period, for we left town for a rest and enjoyment; and, if it's to be had anywhere, we shall find it here, I know," replied her nephew.

Mr. Randall soon made his appearance from the field, and welcomed the young men with a hearty shake of the hand.

"So then, nephew, I'm glad you've not forgotten us!" he said.

"No, Uncle Randall, nor the fine trout fishing in your river, nor the capital game in your woods, my friend Vincent is a first rate shot, and he's going to try his luck here if we can manage to stay till the first of September."

"Well, we do have plenty of game here, Mr. Vincent—lots of hares and partridges, and many of your town folks come down merely for the shooting," said the farmer.

"I declare, George," said Tom, as the two wended their steps homeward at the close of a splendid day about a week after their arrival, "this is such a pleasant place one would be almost tempted to leave town, and settle in some such spot; that is during the shooting season. There is rational enjoyment to be found here. 'A farmer's life after all' is not to be despised, for he is independent, and enjoys vigorous health, which is the foundation of all happiness."

"Yes, Tom, I know it, and am very glad that your opinions have undergone a change, for you did not formerly express yourself so with regard to a country life. I think a farmer, like my uncle, who is intelligent and in easy circumstances, a very happy and independent man. But we must hasten back, for there are heavy clouds coming up in the west, and, if I'm not much mistaken, we shall get a sprinkling before we get home."

The young men quickened their steps, but they were yet full half a mile from the farmhouse when the rain began to fall in torrents, and, completely drenched, they reached the house at a full run. Tom, in advance of George, sprang into the passage, nearly upsetting a young girl who was passing from one room to another.

"Pardon me! excuse me, madam!" stammered Tom, as he glanced at the face of the girl. In his haste to escape the shower, I did not notice that any one was here."

"Certainly, sir! No harm done," she replied, smiling.

"Alice! Cousin Alice!" cried George, who just then came in, "glad you've turned; though I can't say that I'm glad to meet you in such a plight, as Tom!" he said, glancing at his dripping garments. "But you see, Alice, the rain is tremendous; and my friend here and I were unlucky enough to be caught in it. But allow me to make you acquainted with my friend, Mr. Thomas Vincent, known as one of the most fastidious gentlemen in town, who, I dare say, is deeply mortified at making his debut into the presence of a lady in this fashion; but I'm sure you must excuse it, and be glad you now live."

"Ah, George, you are the same as ever, I see," replied the young girl, and the smile deepened on her face as she looked at his wet garments amply besprinkled with mud. "Your friend and yourself have indeed had a taste of the shower. It is heavy and came up suddenly. Mother was afraid you would be caught in it."

"Yes, we have had it, as you see," said George. "But where is Fanny, and when did you come home?"

"You will see her soon. We returned this morning, shortly after you went out," replied Alice.

"Well Tom, shall we go to our rooms and make ourselves presentable; or would you prefer gazing at my fair cousin here?" said George, with a laugh.

"Deuce take you, George!" said Tom after the young man were in their room; "you talk to me ridiculously; and I won't stand it. Your cousin will take me for a simpleton."

"Pshaw, Tom! what matters it what the girls think of you? Nobody but country girls; and you can't care a fig for the good opinion of any one, you know," retorted his friend.

"Now, George, you're unmerciful! I've no doubt that the young ladies are both very intelligent, and though, as I told you before, I shan't fall in love, yet I would wish to have their good opinion."

"Oh, well, we will see, Tom, about the love and the opinion, in the future," replied George laughing.

When the two young men descended to the sitting-room, where the family had already assembled, tea was awaiting them. If Tom Vincent had been struck with the pretty face of Alice, he was much more pleased with the loveliness of her sister Fanny, for in while Alice had a form a little above the medium height, with fresh, rosy complexion, and light blue eyes, Fanny with a petite figure possessed a perfect brunette complexion with sparkling black eyes, and hair of the same hue.

"Ah, Fanny, how do you do, my fair cousin?" cried George, as the girl rose to greet him when he entered the room. "My friend Mr. Vincent, I believe he has already made the acquaintance of Alice," he added, with a smile.

"Yes, I have, and that honor," replied Tom, and begging pardon for the mishap I occasioned her, I trust that the acquaintance so inauspiciously commen
