Fight on Second Street -Second street was yesterday the scene of one of the most bru-tal fights that ever took place in our peaceable city. The fight came off about noon, and lasted despite the endeavors of the citizens, who made the greatest endeavors to separate the parties engaged, nearly three quarters of an hour. We have not been able to ascertain the origin of the fight, owing to the fact that the principals made their escape before the officers were informed of what was going on, and the statements of thos who were present are so contradictory that it is impossible to ascertain the exact circumstance named John Flood, who is an employee at the navy yard and hoarded on High street, got into a difficulty with some men who were determined to fight him. Yesterday the same parties met facts has been forwarded to the War Departthat the latter were desirous to avoid a fight and retired to Joe McKee's tavern on Second street They were followed by the other men, three i ber, who entered the tavern and attempted to raise a disturbance, when they were immediately turned out by Mr. McKee. Ryan and Flood then went out into the street, when the latter was attacked by one of the gang. The two men fought with the most brutal ferocity for some time, and the efforts of the citizens who soon gathered on the spot proved useless in sep arating them. Ryan, who says that he wished to see fair play, would allow no one to go nes them, and in this manner the fight continued to: a long while. Flood gave his adversary som hard blows and knocked him down several times, and the consequence was that the latte a severe cut over the right eve and his features meared with blood and hardly recognizable. Notwithstanding this the latter would not give in, but at every opportualty returned Flood's blows with interest At last the exhib tion became so diagusting that several citizens note itheranding the threats of Ryan, succeeded in separating the combatants As soon as this was cone Ryan, who was engaged in maintain ing what he called fair play, attacked the man who had already been so badly used up by Flood and who, we believe, halls from Cincinnati. While this second fight was going on the vio

tor in the preceding fight left the ground. After as exchange of blows on the part of these two ombatants some citizens who had become exasnerated at the conduct of Ryan, went boldly up and separated them and conducted Ryan to the watch-house. The other was allowed peaceably to leave the scene. Ryan was highly indignant at his being arrested, and maintains that he was the only innocent man in the party.

Soldiers' Orphans.-Schools for the education and maintenance of the children of those brave men who have failen in their country's service have already been selected in this State, and it is hoped that those poor orphans who in a special manner are committed to our care will avail themselves of the opportunity to have themselves instructed in these schools. It is as much interest to the citizens in general that they be well cared for and receive a good education as it is to the children themselves. Without this it is not at all improbable that a great many of these children at least may grow upignorant and worthless citizens, while, on the other hand, if properly instructed they may be Dixon's Aromatic come worthy citizens in themselves, and after be an honor to the community. It is the duty of school directors to see that application immediately made for every needy orphan is forming this pleasing duty they will confer lasting favor upon the surviving parent of friend of these children-generally too timid to make application—and upon the country.

One of our principal duties in relation to the soldiers' orphans is to convince them that they are not to be treated as outcasts or mere pauper orphans, but that their residence there shall be a mark of distinction to which they may re cases. fer with pride in after life. The duty devolves upon us to care for the orphans of the soldiers who died fighting the battles of their country, and of the children of those soldiers who have been so maimed that they are not in a position to have them educated in a proper manner. If we sucseed in incurcating this opinion into the minds of the widowed mothers it will be successful, otherwise it cannot and will not be so. Hon. Thos H. Burrowes was attending yesterday at Lafayette Hall for the purpose of meeting the mothers or the nearest relations and frie destitute orphans now resident within Alleghe gheny county, and of affording information in relation to the education and maintenance of said orphanes by the State. Meeting of the Firemens' Association. The Firemens' Association held a meeting last evening for the purpose of taking further action, in regard to the erection of a fire alarm telegraph in this city. The matter was discussed at considerable length, but no definite action was taken further than the appointment committee of five to push forward the enterprise and devise ways and means for facilitating the project. A report from the Cleveland com mittee in regard to the telegraph in that city was received. The report showed that the telegraph there was good as far as it went, but hat it would be advisable to erect a better one if possible, in this city, especially as it will not be a very difficult matter to raise a larger sum in this city for the erection of so durable an improvement than the sum subscribed in Oleveland for the same purpose. It being admitted that the Oleveland telegraph was an infringement on the patent of the American Fire Alar Telegraph Company, it is necessary to apply to that company to have one erected in this city. As a telegraph can be had for any sum between three and fifty thousand dollars, it is the intention of the Association to erect as perfect a telegraph as the funds subscribed to for that

On Wednesday, the 17th, demonstrations of the Federals on the Sayannah river became more determined, and they managed to get some of their infantry across the flats within sight of the river. Here we were well prepared, and our artillerist did good work. It was supposed that they would be compelled to States, but both never at the same time, abandon the attempt.

From some cause, either lack of ammunition or inability to get their can-non in position, the Yankees made very little use of artillery, and this added confidence to our troops.

At daylight on Wednesday morning, the column started south on the Jerusalen Road, and the cavalay taking the ad vance and arriving at a point nineteen miles from Petersburg, they diverged from the road about a mile to the right, where they reached the Nottoway river. The command at once commenced crossing. They bivousced on the side for the night. At half past seven o'clock on Thursday morning, the pontoons were taken up and the column started, leaving a cavalry detatchment to pick up stragglers and return with them. On reaching a point several miles beyond Sussex Court House, the cavalry were encountered and driven back to where the Weldon Railroad crosses the Nottoway river. About noon the a annall force of the enemy made a dash in between our cavalry and the advance of the infantry, but were soon routed with a slight loss on both sides Here a cavalry man was found who had evidently been murdered and stripped feven his boots. The advance then commenced the destruction of the railroad, by burning the bridge across the Nottoway river, and continued on to Jarret's, arriving at that place on Thursday night.
