PITTSBURGH. FRIDAY, DECEMBER 30, 1864.

1.792.677

This is the number of free and independent voters who cast their votes for General McClellan at the late Presidential election. That is to say, by the grace of our graceful, elegant, refined and intelligent President, we Democrats were allowed to count at the polls 1,792, 677 votes. But by managing the campaign "in his own way," through his satraps and his satellites, he counts for aggregate of 2.197,117. His majority on who voted according to his right and as he had a desire to subscribe for it.
