Song of the Henpecked. Oher hair is as dark as the midnight wave, And her eye is like the kindling fire; And her roice is as su cet as the spirit a yuno That chords with the scraph's lyra.

But her asile are as sharp as a toasting fork And her arms are as strong as a bear's: She pulled my bair and she gouged my eye And she kicked me down the stairs.

I've got an eye that's made of glass, And I've got me a wig that's new,—. The wig is fruzzled to corksorew curls, And the eye is a clouded blue.

She may shake her knuckles full in my faci And put the lamp to my beard, And hold the broomstick over my head-But I'm not a bit afeard-

For I've bound her over to keep the peace. And I've bought me a crab tree cane-The justice will come, and the constable too. If she moddles with me again.

My head was a week in the lines cap. And my eye a month in the patch; I never thought that the torch of love

Would light such a brimstone match?

His eve was gonged with a two quarting That cracked across his nose: And his other has taken a rainbow hue From his pot companion's blows.

He blundered against the red-hot grate. And the grate resurned the Idox And the lump that singed his grisly beard Was the Pittsburgh coal below.

I've emptied his bottles of liquor, free As the flow of Autumn rain,-And the sheriff will come, and the jailor ten, If he fils them up again.

He has lost his scale—he has lost his eyo-And his face is grim with blows-And the early light of our love has changed

To the light of a tipler's cose.
