I spike about Zephyrina's drawing, and in talk of bees and cider. I mean her frawings of birds and flowers, Mr. Short O-sy-yes-I understand you now. Just step to this table, Mr. Short, and we can examine them to more advantage. There ! what do you think of that, Mr. Short a now Mr. Short-ha! ha! ha! ha! wow. Why, what in the world can you be thinking of That's a robin red breast. Well, I dare say it is, since you mention it, Mrs. Long-but I really took it to be a crow. The fact is, these things should always have the name written unecision of a Dem derneath.

Thet's a beautiful crow.

So I told Zephyrina- but la ! she said that they'd speak for themselves.

Caw ! caw !-- I beg your pardon ma'am that's the note of the crow, and now I recollect you said that this was a robin red hreast.

This was one of Z-phyrina's first attempts, the next is more perfect. Look et this, Mr. Short.

What a pretty looking gosling. Dmurder! Mr. Short-I thought you was a man of more taste. I admire a young gouse, well stuffed and teasted. But 1 mean in drawing.

Did you ever see me drawing a cork, Mrs. Long.

Nonsensel Now you've got from beer and cider to corks. A gosling indeed! Why, that is a goldfinch, Mr. Short. I'm very glad you informed me, Mrs. Long, for really my taste in painted birds is so small, that I took that to be a gosling. Ah! here? A codfish, as I'm alive, and a charming one it is. O. Mr. Shart, how can you be so stupid? That's a butterfly.

Is that a butterfly, Mrs. Long? do you say upon your honor, that codfish is a but terfly?

Fiel fiel Mr. Short; I've as good a mind as ever I had to eat, not to show you anoth er living thing. You've no taste in ornitholigy. Perhaps you'll like flowers better. Isn't that beautiful?

What! that cabbage! I never could abide that cabbage. Cabbage! O, shocking! call that rose :

cabbage. Is that a rose!

Indeed it is! a damask rose. Look at this, Mr. Short.

What, that mullein? Well, that is pret ty I must coufess—it's as natural as life. That's a carnation, Mr. Short.

O! a carnation, is it? Well, I suppose. you're right-yes, it must be a carnation, now I think of it.

Don't you think, Mr. Short, Zephyina draws surpassingly well for one of her
