

down, keeping its eyes steadily fixed on the musician, almost in time to the tune he was playing. Persons who have never visited British India, may doubt the fact; but those who have been in the East will bear me out in the truth of the following assertion. The cobra actually raised its head for several minutes on its tail, apparently charmed with the uncouth music the juggler was playing.

In the meantime the native boy stole round, and on a certain signal given by his master, suddenly dropped the snake jar on the snake. A strong waxed cloth was passed under it, drawn up, and tied. The fatigued musician got up, slammed to the company, and carried his captive into the house, where he had several other similarly imprisoned. In about half an hour the same thing was repeated, with precisely similar effect. Out of the four snakes said to lurk in the garden, only one escaped the presence of an evil eye amongst the snake followers. Even in these remote parts the same superstition respecting the 'evil eye' exists, that tinges the minds of half the students of the German Universities.

The next exhibition of his powers was given in the hall, when certainly he performed tricks and wonders which I shall not, however, set down. Had I not seen them I should not have believed them; I cannot, therefore, expect that my readers should do so, and will not risk my reputation for veracity by relating them.

Being desirous of seeing a combat between a snake and its inveterate enemy, the mongoose, (an animal similar to the ichneumon of Egypt,) I requested the charmer to exhibit a fight of the kind.

He instantly consented, as every one of these men carry not only snakes but mongooses with them, and led us out into the compound—the field attached to almost every house in cantonments. Having expressed our fears lest any of the party might be injured by the reptile, he proposed that the exhibition should take place under an enormous pheasant-coop worked wire, which was lying unused in the courtyard. This arrangement was acceded to, and, at our suggestion, the snake first taken in the morning was selected for the encounter.

The mouth of the vessel in which he was enclosed was placed under the edge of the coop, and the covering suddenly withdrawn. In a moment after the cobra capella darted out. The jar was then taken away, and the edges of the pheasant coop lay down. During two or three minutes the monster poked his nose all round the enclosure, evidently wishing to escape; but finding this impossible, he quietly coiled himself up, freeing, however his magnificent head from the folds, and remained in a sort of listening attitude.

Presently the man produced the mongoose and let him in to his adversary. Never was I more surprised. This was the first time I had seen one. I had expected to behold a somewhat powerful opponent. Never could I have expected that so small an animal would have dared to cope with serpents of the largest and deadliest kind; such, however, was the case. The little creature which now sniffed around the edge of the coop, was about half as large again as an English rat, of a moloch color, with small red eyes, and would have been a very ugly animal had it not been for its tail, which was long and bushy in circumference near the centre, almost as large as the little body to which it was attached.

For a time the mongoose ran about without going directly up to the snake, which, however, having perceived its presence, on its first entrance, had prepared to give him battle. Suddenly the tiny creature, swift mouthful to its adversary, saw the snake, and without hesitation ran at it. So apparently unequal a contest I never beheld. The cobra capella had reared itself, and spread out its hood—a sort of fleshy caput inflates when irritated, and which has given rise to its designation. The marks around its eyes resembles a pair of spectacles. Its marble stained scales seem all alive, as it raised itself some three feet high to meet the attack of the little savage, whose fiery eyes seemed suddenly to glow like red-hot cinders as it rushed towards its mighty enemy and bit it. The snake darted at it, squeezed it, inflicted its dreadful wound, and then threw itself back. The mongoose was evidently disabled. Faint, and almost dying it retreated. Many of us fancied the battle was over, and regretted the untimely end of the outrageous little beast. After limping about for some minutes, and even laying down with exhaustion, the mongoose began to poke its nose on the grass. What it swallowed none have ever been able to trace, though large rewards have been offered for the discovery. What the herb is which this little animal partakes of, none can tell, but certainly its effects are miraculous; for, no sooner did the creature imbibe the sought-for antidote, than it suddenly recovered its pristine strength, and again attacked the serpent. This scene was re-acted no less than seven times; each time the cobra appearing weaker and weaker, till actually fainted out. The mongoose at length succeeded in catching the monster by the throat, and destroying it, to the surprise and admiration of all present.

To those who have not seen the manner in which goats are trained to play almost every trick by these men, it is extraordinary to witness the docility and intelligence which they exhibit performing some of the most curious and difficult gymnastics I ever saw attempted.

The final triumph of the juggler consisted in his attempt (which was crowned with success) to discover a thief who had hidden behind a screen. Well might it be said:

"Fines coronas opus." In this case, certainly, it was well borne out. He left us most strangely impressed with his ability and powers, having extorted from an unsuspecting robber a full and vol-luntary confession of his guilt. The man, who performed the feat, and who is called 'the cobra charmer,' is a native of British India, and is a member of the 'Cobras' establishment, a sort of military band, which is composed of a number of men, and is given each a handful of rice, desired to chew it, informing them, in the most cool manner, that Vishnu would instantly point out the culprit by withdrawing from him the power of grinding the rice between his teeth. If he attempted to do so, she of the many arms would instantly annihilate him. He there fore called on them, one and all, to try their powers of grinding, promising that the thief should thereby be convicted, and the innocence of the others be made manifest.

We naturally smiled at the simplicity of the test, little expecting the result would prove satisfactory. How surprised were we, then, on seeing the snake charmer walk straight up to one of the bearers, and instantly challenge him to spit out into a plate the rice he had been vainly trying to chew. The man hesitated; his muscles seemed suddenly to collapse, and his sable countenance turned pale. In less than five minutes the unhappy wretch was on his knees, confessing his various deceptions and embezzlements. The rice was untouched by his teeth, and however much we chose to laugh at the superstitious, we could not help admiring the scheme which had thus extorted from the culprit a confession of his guilt.

I have since seen the same experiment tried to discover a thief, and, strange to relate, never knew it fail.

FOR PRESIDENT,
JAMES BUCHANAN,
Subject to the decision of a National Convention.

DAILY MORNING POST.

PHILIPPS & H. SMITH, EDITORS AND PROPRIETORS.
SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 26, 1842.

See First Page.

Westmoreland County.

The democrats of this sterling democratic county held a public meeting at Greensburg on the 22d inst., for the purpose of appointing delegates to the State Convention at Harrisburg, on the 8th of January. We observe that the persons who took part in the proceedings, are men who for many years have enjoyed the confidence of their fellow citizens, and whose opinions in political matters have great weight with their political brethren.

The meeting was organized by calling Samuel L. Carpenter to the chair, and J. M. Laird, Esq. of Franklin, E. A. Robinson, Esq. of Derry, and R. Robertson, Esq. of Mountpleasant, Benj. Chambers of Allegheny, Daniel Kistler, Esq. of Hempfield and John Larimer, Esq. of Franklin, were appointed Vice Presidents, Thomas Latta, Esq. and D. K. Marchand, Secretaries.

The Chairman, in a brief but pertinent speech, which we find embodied in the proceedings, explained the object of the meeting, and the propriety of the democracy of Pennsylvania urging the strong claims of the State, for the Presidency in 1844.

R. McLaughlin, Esq. offered a preamble and resolutions expressive of the sentiments of the democrats of the county, and that they are such sentiments as might be expected from the honest democrats of the "Star in the West," maugre the efforts of a few reckless individuals to misrepresent them. We make the following extract from the preamble, from which our readers can judge of the spirit that animated the meeting.

Whereas, it has been recommended, that a State Convention of Delegates should assemble at Harrisburg on the approaching anniversary of the battle of New Orleans, for the purpose of advocating the nomination of a candidate for the office of President of the United States, and believing as we do, that the claim of this state, as the Keystone of the Federal arch, are strong and well founded, we therefore take great pleasure in proposing to our democratic fellow citizens the name of the Hon. JAMES BUCHANAN, of Pennsylvania, as a person eminently qualified to discharge the duties of President of the U. S. and we do hereby earnestly and respectfully recommend to said Convention, this gentleman as the Pennsylvania candidate for President.

Col. John McFarland of Ligonier, and Joseph F. A. Rohrer of Greensburg, and Joseph Greer of North Huntingdon tp., were appointed delegates to represent the county in the state Convention.

We are pleased to learn that the Convention on the 8th of January, is likely to be attended by delegates from all the counties in the state. The efforts that have been made by the personal enemies of Mr. BUCHANAN to send the impression abroad, that he is not the choice of the democracy of his own state, has aroused those who, under other circumstances, would have remained inactive, and will be the means of calling for a more universal expression of public opinion in his favor, than if his enemies and the enemies of the rights of the Keystone, had permitted the state to present her favorite without opposition.

Steam Power in Great Britain.—A new English publication—the Tablet of Memory—estimates, from authentic data, that the steam power in constant employment in Great Britain is equal to five hundred millions of men! It is almost incredible, at the first glance, and yet on a little reflection there is nothing improbable in it.

Cincinnati Port.—The business at Cincinnati thus far falls much short of former seasons. Only two houses have yet commenced slaughtering, and all that is done by these is mostly on the owners' account. The Gazette says that all the Hogs yet killed are from Kentucky, where they are always fed and driven to Cincinnati earlier than from Ohio and Indiana. The season for active operations amongst the Pork Packers generally, seldom begins earlier than the 1st of December, and although just now the weather is cool and favorable for them, we do not expect it to commence earlier this year. Of the Hogs already slaughtered, there is some new Mees Pork put down, which is held at $6 and $6.50, but no sales.—There have been some sales of new Lard at 4 and 4½c. per lb. Of old canvassed Hams and Meas generally, our market is very bare.

Another woman burnt to death.—An aged woman residing in Third street, Philadelphia was burnt to death, by her clothes catching fire, on Tuesday last.

Mysterious—Colt supposed to be still alive.—It appears by some of the N. Y. papers that a strong suspicion exists in the minds of many, that Colt is alive, and that a plot was consummated by which he has made his escape. A report is in circulation and generally credited, that the coffin carried by two bearers struggled beneath the weight, and the infernals, says the Tattler, that it contained a dead body, arranged to look as much like Colt as possible, and that this was the corpse with a knife sticking in the breast, found by the sheriff and Dr. Anthon, when they opened the cell at four o'clock. To carry out successfully this plan, the building was fired, and the attention of the multitude was thus drawn off from the execution, Colt meanwhile being concealed beneath his bunk, till night, when he made his escape.

The same paper says: We are not disposed to encourage this unhappy state of public feeling, but merely proclaim it as an argument to hasten an inquiry into the conduct of the officers in whose hands was committed the safe keeping of Colt. An outraged people are sensible that a foul wrong has been committed, and it is right that a searching investigation should be had without delay. It is known by many that a close carriage was waiting near the prison, but for what purpose we know not; a friend, however, of the deceased informed us that it was kept in readiness to receive the body of Colt from the gallows, in order to attempt to resuscitate it with the greatest despatch. The rumor of his escaping in the disguise of a fireman, and driving off in a carriage, probably originated from this. The bribe of one thousand dollars said to have been offered to each of the deputies to suffer Colt to escape in the dress of Caroline Henshaw—the furnishing of the knife to commit suicide—the firing of the prison, the extraordinary conduct of the sheriff—if not properly and minutely investigated, justice may be said to have flown from the empire city.

A Hard Case.—The Washington Spectator says, that an opulent merchant in one of the northern cities, who died a few years ago, at an advanced age, bequeathed a considerable fortune to his wife and daughter, taking precautions, at the same time, that the investment, which was in stock of the Bank of the United States, should not be changed. He apprehended they might be tempted by higher interest or plausible inducements, to place their funds where they would not be secure. When the stock began to fall, the advice of eminent counsel was taken with regard to the practicability of selling out; but it was decided that it could not be done. Its value was thus seen to fall from day to day, until it melted away to nothing, and the unfortunate women were consigned to abject poverty.

Issue of the Boston Slave Case.—The Boston Courier of Friday states, "It will be seen by the report of proceedings yesterday afternoon in the Municipal Court, which will be found in another column, that the case of Latimer is decided for the present, at least. We understand that he was discharged from the custody of the jailor before dark last evening, with the knowledge and consent of his claimant, Mr. Gray."

"That Spoon's" Reflection.—The story of the "spoons," like many other of their malicious inventions, has become a thorn in the sides of the Whigs. Witness the following apt illustration, which we find in an exchange paper:

"Reader! did you ever see the reflection of your countenance by looking on the back of a pewter spoon? If so, you may judge of the looks of the Whigs about these diggings, since the New York election."

Scalded to Death.—A child of Mrs. Yarrington of Crawford county was scalded to death on the 7th inst.

Heavy Losses.—The London Sun says that it is estimated that the late speculations in wheat have inflicted a loss upon the speculators to the amount of two millions of pounds sterling! This enormous loss is mainly owing to the annual lottery of the sliding scale.

Rainbow at Night.—The Erie Observer says that at about 7 o'clock last Thursday evening a very brilliant Rainbow was perceptible for some minutes. The arch was perfect and the colors very distinct.

Important Discovery.—The editor of the N. O. Jeffersonian has discovered that the bustles were first invented for the purpose of being stuffed with laces and smuggled from France into England. Congress should take this into consideration and pass a law making all bustles that may come into the country subject to examination.

It is supposed that a potato weighing 9 pounds wouldn't be a "small potato."

The Attacapas editor has come to this conclusion.

A Fact.—It is well said by an exchange paper, that some people trouble themselves more about the payment of the debt of the State than they do about their own.

Florida Tigers.—One of these ferocious animals (says the St. Augustine News, of the 12th inst.) which are very numerous in our Territory, was killed a few days since, about eight miles from our city. He measured from the tip of the tail to the nose, 8 feet 6 inches.

Fire and Loss of Life.—A negro house on the plantation of Mr. Thomas Oliver, says the Hamburg (Geo) Journal, below the city, took fire on Saturday night, and burnt a negro woman and three children to death.

The Prize Fighters.—The trial of the persons indicted for the murder of Tom McCoy, at Hastings, was to have come on last Monday, before the Court of Oyer and Terminer of Westchester county, New York.

An Alabama editor apologizes for the lack of editorial by stating that his better half has the scissors, as she cannot cut out shirts with a hand saw.

A country newspaper wonders why nations generally was in warm water, and is answered thus—We don't know, unless it be because an insulted nation is anxious for summary satisfaction. It strikes us, however, that for a very savage people, the winter time offers greater opportunity for slaying to advantage!

A Dish of Wellmerit.—"Those notes enliven me," as the printer said when a remittance came for five years subscription.

"I'm a victim to an artificial state of society," as the monkey said when they put trousers on him.

"I have the honor," as the blackleg said at your.

"You're beneath me!" as the hog said when he stepped over the drunkard.

"Back out," as the bustle said to the petitioner.

"Excuse haste—yours with a steam," as the exploding boiler said to the passengers.

"After you," as the kettle said to the dog's tail.

"I feel greatly relieved," as the patient said to the doctor when he paid him his bill.

A Democratic Governor.—The Bangor Democrat thus speaks of the Chief Magistrate of Maine:

"Mr. Fairfield is what some would call a 'universal Yankee genius.' When a boy he was a sailor; afterwards he was a trader; he then practised law, and afterwards turned farmer. He now lives on a farm in plain farmer style. We infer, that he is something of a mechanic also, for when at his house several years ago, we saw a wheelbarrow that he made with his own hands, and used about his farm."

Mr. Sevier has been re-elected U. S. Senator from Arkansas.

Canada—Sir Chas. Bagot.—Rumors have been doing the rounds, that Sir Charles Bagot, Governor General, was about speedily returning to England, on account of his health. The Transcript, in view of this report, says there are many who believe that "the sooner he leaves the Province the better for its prosperity, and the better for his Excellency's reputation as a statesman."

Second Street.—A man of the name of John Palmer, second son of Benjamin Palmer, died after an illness of a few weeks, of his death, which was an attack of apoplexy. His funeral will take place on Monday morning, at 10 o'clock, and his friends and relatives are invited to attend.

ALLEGHENY FIRE COMPANY.—You are requested to meet at the Company in Fourth street, on Monday morning, to attend the funeral of J. C. GAGNER.

THE BRIG HUNTERS BRINGS NEWS FROM JAMAICA, TO THE 17th ult.
No news of importance. They complain, as usual, of the laziness of the free blacks, who cannot be induced to work until necessity compels them. They attribute the cause of this evil in part to Baptist preachers.

The mate of the Am. brig Orontes, named Robertson, was condemned to ten days imprisonment for using violent language to the captain, and threatening to shoot him and the steward.

The Huntruss brought 65 doubloons.

A large flouring mill has been erected in New Orleans which is said to be in a very flourishing condition. May the proprietors never appear with wry faces.

Late and Important!
We glean the following items of news from the Boston Post. We thank the editor for forwarding us a copy of his paper in time to enable us to lay before our readers of thrilling interest, before our readers in advance of our city cotemporaries:

A huge race of wildcats have overrun the Islands of Mowee and St. Kitts.

The summer has been unusually hot in Heilgoland.

It is the intention of the Government to Macadamize Rhodus.

It is currently reported in Paris that the doctrine of Miller cannot be true in Algiers, the French having long since deprived it of its last day.

The Spanish Government is so crazy that the capital is said to be Mad rid.

The religion of Zoroaster is spreading extensively in Turkey. It is thought that the whole number will be converted by the 24th of December next.

Colt—Is he Dead or Not—His Wife.—New York; as well as this city, is full of rumors in relation to the Colt romance. Numbers insist that Colt is not dead—that his suicide was a hoax; that he was permitted to escape—and one gentleman assured us yesterday that he saw Mr. Colt land here in the New York boat at night, and heard him make inquiries as to the most expeditious mode of reaching New Orleans via Pittsburg from this city, and via Wheeling from Baltimore.

We must confess that we think our informant was mistaken. But it seems that similar stories are narrated in New York. The N. Y. Chronicle of yesterday says—"There was a rumor in the city yesterday that John C. C. It was seen at Harlem at 12 o'clock on Saturday, and that he crossed the river to New Jersey in an open boat.

The rumor further stated, that he made his escape in female dress from the prison during the late outbreak of the fire—was passed out of the Elm street gate—entered a hackney coach prepared for his reception, and was driven off at a moderate pace, to avoid suspicion, in the direction of the upper part of the city.

And the rumor further has it that the body with the clasp-knife stuck in his heart, and which was held by the Corner inquest, was that of a man bearing some resemblance to Colt—who did the night before in the Alms House, and who was stealthily conveyed into the Prison, with the full consent and by the aid of certain of our worshipful authorities.

If this rumor be true, the person who arrived by the midnight line from New York, might have been Mr. Colt, but we cannot believe it.

The N. Y. Aurora speaking of the rumors afloat there, observes, "that notwithstanding the testimony of the large number of persons who saw him wading in his blood there are hundreds in the city who believe, or affect to believe, that the story of his suicide is all gammon, and that he is still alive and kicking."

We saw one fellow yesterday, who swore that a cabman, of the most undoubted veracity, well acquainted with Colt, was ready to make affidavit to put him on board the New Haven boat on Saturday, and left him in the enjoyment of excellent health and spirits."

Curious Things.—A lady with a four hundred dollar slawl on her back (which was bought by her husband) swearing that she will have her rights. In the meantime the husband is out at the elbows, and the good lady keeps seven servants.

A young man who has squandered an estate at the gambling house and brothel, going into the pulpit to recruit his fortune.

Young gentlemen who can't pay their board, driving a horse and gig on the swell road every Sunday.

A friend to the people drinking iced champagne and eating woodcock, while his workmen cannot receive their hard-earned gains.

Whigery with the mask off.—The New Haven Daily Herald, a Whig paper, in speaking of the defeat of its party in New York, uses the following language:

"How humiliating, we repeat, is such a state of things, when the honest and intelligent of our native growth, are bidden to stand by and bow to the supremacy of 'newly naturalized foreigners!' This comes of the foul and degrading doctrine of UNIVERSAL SUFFRAGE."

This is candid. We would honor the Whig party more, if they would generally exhibit equal frankness. That the opinions expressed in the above extract are those of the mass of the leaders and prominent men of the party, no one who possesses a tolerable share of the discernment, and has been ordinarily observant of political movements, can for a moment doubt.

A Saving.—The introduction and rapid extension of the lard oil business alone already saves $100,000 to the West annually.

DUQUESNE HOSE CO.
You are requested to meet at the Rose House in Second street, at 9 o'clock this morning, to attend the funeral of J. P. BAKER.

By order
W. HARTLEY.
