This she did, while we followed the father. We related to him the circus stances which had led us to his house, and briefly aboke of the misery which inevitably follows in the weke f intemperance.

I know it, sir, ' said he. 'I have long known it. I have not always been what you new see me. Alcohol and my appetite have brought me to this depth of degradetrou.'

Why not master that appetite? You have the power. Thousands have proved Siri'l believe it. I have seen others a far reduced as myself, restored and made happy; but you are the first who have everspoken to me upon the subject, and l had too strong a passion for liquor to think of a reformation myself.'

•Well, will you now make the effort?' I will. It has occupied my thoughts during the whole morning; and now, in the presence of Almighty God, I swear never again to touch the accursed thing which has ruined me and made beggars of my family.'

Rappy enough to hear this manly res olation, we returned to the house with him; in the time we made the fact known to the wife-and producing a pledge, the whole family signed it upon the table which held the body of their dead child! The scene was an affecting one.

Two gears had passed, when the incident was recal'ed to our mind by a shake of the hand from a gentleman who was returning west with a stock of dry goods which he had just purchased in New York. It was theman who had signed the temperance pledge by the body of the dead child! -Rochester Dem.

> See First Page. Gen. Cuss and the Presidency.

We have already announced the arrival of Gen. Cass in the Steam ship Columbia. Since his landing his friends have set themselves to work with renewed vigor, to forwerd his pretentions to the Presidency, and he seems well disposed to second their efforts. He held a sort of levee in Boston, and appears everywhere diligent in hissendeavors to attract public attention and favor. As yet it cannot be determined whether he

After such a glori-General Committee was called, and a se ous and decisive victory, though unforturies of resolutions approving of Gen, Cass' course, was offered. Some debate took place, when the resolutions were rejected by a vote of 36 to 1. We should infer from this that his cause cannot flourish in N.Y.! ring soldiery in this terrible engagement.

Of its progress and its supporters in this state, we have before spoken. The Bankrupt Law.-It seems nov highly probable that this law may be re pealed at the present session of Congress It is worthy of consideration, says the Pennsylvanian, whether it is well to go to either extreme - that of so loose and indul gent a law as the present, or that of no law at all on the subject. Would it not be well to retain the provision for involuntary bankruptcy, or, in other words, that which enables the creditors to have possession taken for their equal benefit of the property of a fraudulent iusolvent? Would it not be well to include Banks and other Corporations in the provision for involuntary bankruptcy, and thus secure, beyond the possibility of failure, a sound currency throughout the Union? Might it not be property by an insolvent, for the equal benefit of all his creditors, to give him a discharge from future liability in case a maority in number and value of his creditors

f this kind would afford an incentive to ionesty and fairnesss in mercantile transac. ions These are thoughts which occur to us at the moment, and which we deem worthy of deliberate examination in the final modification of the law.

has most friends among the Democrats or Whigs, but we incline to think his greatest force is aming the latter. The Pennsylvanian publishes a letter of his to a committee in Philadelphia, daved Paris August 19, 1841, in which he deprecates with extreme mildness the spirit of partisanship, and ap pears to rest very contentedly between the two great parties of the country, saying fraud. that he believes the Democratic party are right in their construction of the Constitution, but that the Whigs, too, are "honest," and winds up by saying that the destiny of the country does not depend upon the measures that either would adopt. It is impossible, we think, that the Democratic party will choose to advance a man who holds these views. However indifferently Gen. Case may look upon the matters in contraversy between us and the whigs; the Democrats think they have urged vital principles, which they cannot surrenders, nor trust in careless hands.
