The city being under the command of my aid, Thos. L. Butler, a veteran corps of ancients had been raised for its protection and among them Judge Hall might have varolled himself had he thought proper. Instead of doing this, he applied for a written exemption from the rule laid down in The details of the order promulgating mar-Hal law and having obtained it from me, he, the sems night, vo'ating the confidence I had reposed on him, by it, passed my gnards and fled from the city; to which he never returned till after the battle of the 8th. His flight induced many to believe that I was unable to defend the city, and by creating despondency in them did great injury and occasioned applications from numerous individuals for permission to remove their Conflies. When the Judge returned after the 8th, he was met with great coolness by pers of his party would say a word in fa- Chronicle says that Pheasants and other the ladies and many of his old associates. The object of this confederation was by this means either to ruin my fame by opening to the enemy a safe avenue to return, or if this failed they would cry out tyrant, military despot, &c. and destroy me in that way. If unsuccessful in that way, they would punish me by finds imposed by an unjust judge, sitting on his own cause, and refusing to hear any defence, believing as they did, that the people would resist so tyrannical a course, and this elique would then attach to me the oliof instigating the resistance, and thus they would be enabled to blacken my name and would have some cause to cry out that I had destroyed all civil liberty.
