THE LITERARY POST. [From the Calculta Quarterly Magazine and Review.]

The Song of the Forge. Clang, Clang! the massize anvils ring-Clang, clang! a hundred hammers swing; Like the thunder rattle of a tropic sky The mighty blows still multiply; Clang, clang!
Say, brothers of the dusky brow,
What are you: strong arms forging now!

Clang, clang!-we forge the coulter now-The coulter of the kindly plough: Sweet Mary mother, bless our toil; May its broad furrow still unbind To genial rains, to sun and wind; The most benignant soil.

Clang, clang-our coulter's course shall be By many a sweet and sheltered lea, By many a streamlet's silver tide, Arridst the song of morning birds. Amidst the low of sauntering herds, Amidst soft breezes, which do stray May Through woodbine hedges and sweet Along the green hill's side.

When regul automn's bounteous hand, With wide spread glory clothes the land; When to the valleys, from the brow Of each resplendent slope, is rolled A ruddy sea of living gold, ... We bless—we bless (he PLOUGH.

Clang, clang—again, my mates, what glows
Beneath the hammer's potent blows? Clink, clink-we forge the giant chain, Which bears the gallant vessel's strain, 'Midst stormy winds and adverse tides; Secured by this, the good ship braves The rocky roadstead, and the waves Which thunders on her sides.

Anxious n · more, the merchant sees The mist drive dark before the breeze, The starm-cloud on the hill; Calmly he rests, though far away. In boisterous climes his vessel lay, Reliant on our skil!.

Say, on which sands these links shall sleep, Fathoms beneath the solemn deep? By Afric's postilential shore, By many an iccberg, lone and hoar, By many a palmy western isle, Basking in Spring's perpetual smile; By stormy Labrador.

Say, shall they feel the vessel reel, When to the battery's deadly peal The crashing broadside makes reply: Or else, as at the glorious Nile, Hold grapling ships, that strive the while; For death or victory?

Hurrah—eling, clang—once more, what glows, Dark brothers of the forge, beneath The iron tempest of your blows The furnace's red breath?

Clang, clang-a burning torrent clear And brilliant, of bright sparks, is poured Around and up in the dusky air, As our hammers forge the sword

The sword!-extreme of dread; yet when Upon the freeman's thigh 'tis bound, While for his altar and his hearth, While for the land that gave him birth, The war drums roll, the trumpets sound, How sacred is it then!

Whenever for the truth and right It flashes in the van of fight, Who ther in some wild mountain pass, As that where felt Leonidas; Or on some steril plain and stern, A Marston, or a Bannockburr; Or unridst crage and burnting rills, The Switzer's Alps, grey Tyrols's hill's; Or, as when sunk the Armada's pride, It gleams above the stormy tide; Still, st il. whene'er the battle word Is Liberty, when men do stand For justice and their native land. Then Heaven bless THE SWORD!

more color to their cheeks, they can obtain some of Gourald's celebrated Liquid Rouge, which cannot be rubbed off even by a west cloth. Also may be found a good assortment of Performery, such as Cologne, Bears' Oll, Almond, Palm, Windsor; and other Soaps.

od offour months, suffering affithetime the most heart rending misery.—That, hesides his affection of his bones, he was troubled much with a disease of the lungs; some times he was troubled much with a disease of the lungs; some times he would spit a quart of phiegm in the day; hesides this affection he had a bad Diarrhora, which had not or tess attended him from the commencement of his sick ness. That at times he dreaded a shool worse than he would have dreaded death; that he can compare the feeling to nothing save that of knives passing through his howels. Aftereuffering worse than death at the Sailorian Retreat, on Staine festand, the doctor told him that medicine was of no use to him, that he must try to stirabout. At this time he was suffering the greatest misery. That his bones were so tender he could not hear the least pressure upon the chow or upon the knee, that his instee was most painful, that as the Doctor said be would give him ne more medicine he determined to procure some of Dr. Brandreth's Phils, which he did, from 241 Broadway timesincreased the dose to eight. The first week's use what he was using, said, now, Siaw, you look like a nanagain; ifyou improve in this way, you will soon he well. That he fould himself well, and also, that he wery day. He told the doctor, pot knowing and managain; thy our improve in this way, you will soon he well. That he fould himself well, and also, that he wery day. He told the doctor yester day the 11th instant, that he feet himself well, and also, that he wery day. He told the doctor yester day the 11th instant, that he feet himself well, and also, that he would have the medicine several to add the first providence, that he had taken the medicine several to add the country of the sole of the Frovidence, that he had taken the medicine several to add the first providence, that he had the medicine several to add the first providence, that he had taken the medicine several well and the providence, that he had the several that will care them.
