For publishing a new Daily Paper in the City of Pitts burgh, to be entitled the DAILY MORNING POST.

PROSPECTUS'

HE Subscribers having made arrangements to merg the American Manufacturer and Pittsburgh Mercu ry into one Journal, have concluded to publish a daily aper with the title of the Daily Morning Post, The leading object of the "Port" will be the dissemination and defence of the political principles that have bere of one been maintained by the Editors, in their respective papers, and their best efforts will still be devoted to the advancement and success of those doctrines. Although, in politics, the paper will be thoroughly lemocratic, yet the Editors hope, by giving an honest, andid history of passing Political events, Foreign and Domestic Intelligence, and brief notices of all mat ters and occurrences that come properly within the sphere of a Public Journal, to make their paper sufficiently in eresting to entitle it to the patronage of the public, pective of party considerations. In addition to the political and general news that will be found in the "Morning Post," the Editors will take pains to furnish the businesss community with the latest and must interesting Commercial Intelli-SENCE from all parts of the country, and to have prepared such accounts of the Markets and the State of Trade as will be advantageous to our Merchants and Business

Men in their several callings.

Terms.—The Post will be published on a large imper at sheet of fine paper, (manufactured expecially for this Journal) at the neusually low rate of FIVE DOLLARS per annum, pavable in advance. THE LITERARY POST. DARBY AND JOAM. A GOOR LESSON When Darby saw the setting sun, He swung his scythe and home he run, Sat down, drank off his pint, and said,

'My work is done !' retorted Joan, 'My work is done !' your constant tone; But hapless woman ne'er can say 'My work is done' till judgment day. Here Durby hemmed, and scratched his head; To answer what his Joan had said; But all in vain, her clack went on-At early dawn, ere Phobus rose, Old Joan resumed her tale of woes, When Darby said, I'll end the strifa, Be you the man and I the wife, Take you the scythe and mow, while I Will all your boasted cares supply.'
Content,' quoth Juan, 'give me my stint,' This Durby did, and out she went.

Darby rose, and seized the broom, And whirled the dirt around the room; Which having done, he scarce knew how; He hied to misk the brindle cow-The Brindle cow whisked round her tail In Darby's eye, then kicked the pail; The clown perplexed with grief and paid, Swore he'd ne'er try to milk again; When ture i g round, in sad amaze, He saw his cottage in a bluze; For as he chanced to brush the room In careless haste, he fired the broom, The fire at last subdued, he sword The broom and he should meet no more. Pressed by misfortune and perplexed, Darby prepared for breakfast next; But what to get he scarcely knew, The bread was spent the butter too; His hands bedaubed with paste and flour, Old Darby labored fu!l an hour, But hapless wight ! he could not make The bread to take form of loaf or cake

In pushed the sow in quest of food, And stumbling onward, with her enout O'erset the churn-the cream run out. As Darby turned, the sow to beat, The slippery cream betrayed his feet, He caught the bread trough in his full, And down came Darby, trough and all; The children, wakened by the clatters Start up and cry, 'La ! what's the matter ?! -Cld Jowles barked, and Tabby mewed, And hapless Darby banled aloud, Return, my Joan, as heretofure, I'll play the housewife's part no more; Since now by sat expeirence taught, Compared to thine my work is naught
