Centennial Anniversary

THE BIRTH DAY OF THOMAS JEFFERSON. This day was celebrated at the United States Hotel on the 13th inst. by a very numerous assembly of the friends of Jefferson.

The order of the ceremony in relation to presiding officers is given below. And it is due to the proprietor of the Hotel to say that every arrangement confided to him, was highly creditable to his taste and liberality.

President—HON. WM. WILKINS.

- Vice Presidents: Dr. James Power, John Anderson, Jesse Sill, Uzzah Stewart, Alex. Carnahan, Patrick Mulvany, Robt. Harer, John Andregg, Wm. Surgenon, Dr. John P. Mook, Thomas Gibson, Wm. Kerr, J. Barber, J. Patterson, John Stevenson, Thomas Neal, David Beeler, Wm. Gribben, John Johnson.

Secretaries

- Thomas Hamilton, R. H. Hartley, John Murray, Chas. Barrett, Andrew Burke, John Birmingham, J. D. Thornburgh, R. H. Kerr, H. S. Magraw, Geo. Fortune.

REGULAR TOASTS.

- 1. The Memory of Thomas Jefferson. 2. The Memory of George Washington—the Father of his Country. 3. The heroes and sages of the Revolution—they taught proud Britain what it was to fight for Freedom—American hearts have never cooled to despotism, and never will. 4. The memory of John Hancock the Declaration of Independence who pledged their lives their fortunes, and their sacred honor that we should be what we now are, great, glorious, and free. 5. The memory of John Hancock the President of that immortal band, who declared to the world that we should be free and equal—Expressed silence was his praise. 6. Andrew Jackson—In his Administration the principles of Jefferson were illustrated, the rights of the States preserved, the integrity of the Union maintained, the money power subjected to the control of the people—and in every thing the constitution was his pillar. 7. The Army and Navy of the United States—American soldiers and American sailors, unconquered and unconquerable. 8. The Governor of Pennsylvania. 9. The President of the U. States. 10. The Independent Treasury—The only mode devised for the safe keeping and disbursement of the Revenue of the Government—its re-organization at the next session of Congress is called for by the people. 11. The two Revolutions—That of '76 rescued us from the yoke of British tyranny—that of 1800 restored the free exercise of those rights, of which the alien and aristocratic laws were designed to deprive us. 12. The American ladies—'tis there a heart that never loved.'

The following toasts were received from gentlemen who were invited to participate in the celebration.

Dani. Surgenon's sentiment.—Jefferson the Statesman, the Philosopher, and the friend of man.

By the Committee.—Hon. D. Surgenon, the worthy follower of Thomas Jefferson, ever constant and true, his course in the U. S. Senate has met with the highest reward a public servant can receive—the approbation of the people.

Gen. Sipes sentiment.—Thomas Jefferson, the founder of our Liberties, may his name be sacred, and may we see a citizen take the helm of State in 1844, who will be an honor to the nation and walk in the footsteps of that great and good man.

By the Committee.—Gen. Sipes, a worthy representative of the true hearted and hardy mountaineers of Bedford county.

By the Committee.—C. J. Ingersoll, the able representative of Pennsylvania, in Congress a fearless and eloquent expounder of the principles of Jefferson, his talents reflect honor upon his native State.

By D. B. Long, Esq.—Thomas Jefferson, the great apostle of Liberty and Democracy, while his principles are cherished and inculcated, the American people will continue free, prosperous and happy. When he ceases to live in the hearts of his countrymen, the Star of Liberty will be shrouded in gloom, and our glorious our republic will sink in hopeless despotism.

By the Committee.—D. B. Long, Esq., the true and faithful representative of the Iron County.

Sentiment of the Hon James Buchanan; The memory of Thomas Jefferson.—While advancing civilization will pale the fame of the earth's great conquerors, it will continue to brighten and extend that of the author of the Declaration of Independence, until all mankind shall enjoy the blessings of equal liberty, and equal law.

By the Committee.—James Buchanan; The recent expression of the State Convention, in favor of this enlightened Statesman will be responded by the Democracy of the Union in 1844.

By the Committee.—Assa Dinock, Esq., a true Jefferson democrat, Susquehanna's faithful representative.

By Wm. Karns, Esq.—The memory of Thomas Jefferson, we will teach our children to cherish it.

By the Committee.—Wm. Karns Esq., an attentive and industrious representative, we wish him as our neighbor, health and happiness.

By Amos Kendall.—Jefferson's creed of Government, to punish rogues, and protect honest men.

By the Committee.—Hon Amos Kendall, a pure republican, a talented public officer. In 1844 the Democracy will place every (freeman) man without the limits.

By E A Penniman Esq.—Thos Jefferson, may those who profess his principles, practice his virtues.

By the Committee.—E A Penniman Esq., a democrat by profession and practice.

By Wm Wilkins.—The sentiment of Mr Jefferson—hostile to every form of tyranny over the mind of man, may it cover the land as the water covers the sea.

By John Barber.—Hon Wm Wilkins—His eminent talents and undeviating support of General Jackson's administration during the monster U S Bank struggle, endeared him to the democracy of Pennsylvania. His friends and neighbors will know him, will make the work a ring with their low and long huzzas in his favor for their next Governor.

By Hon Chas Shaler.—The Political principle of Thomas Jefferson—Time has not yet furnished us with his superior, let us adhere to them till we find better.

By Thos Hamilton (Secy)—Indulgences to the Banks of Pennsylvania: The legitimate offspring of TRAFFIC IN LUMBER.

By James D. Thornburgh, Secretary.—The present Executive of Pennsylvania—'tis not a trifling thing to be a Governor, and bring the auspicious day, when the democracy of the Keystone state will sing the funeral requiem over the

By Chas Barnett.—The Jeffersonian doctrines, the true rule and faith of every sound Democrat, but when prevented and polluted by such unprincipled corrupt, and profligate functionaries as the present Chief Magistrate of Penn, they become the scorn and scorn of mankind.

By Robt H Kerr, (Secy)—President Tyler's Veto, they possess the true spirit of Jefferson, the honesty of Washington, and the nerve of Jackson. Honor to whom honor is due.

By Geo Fortune.—True Democracy where power is in the people or their immediate representatives, no Executive Veto.

By Robt H Kerr, (Secy)—The United States, and Col. Johnson. The former the home of freedom, the latter the defender of the former, None but a traitor knave could speak evil of either.

By John Andregg.—F R Shuck, endowed with the highest order of talents which he has always employed in the support of the true Jeffersonian principles. In 1844 he will reap the reward of his fidelity to those doctrines.

By Jacob Gardner.—Corporations inimical to public liberty, whatever shape each may assume, or whatever object they may profess, no monopolies or privileged orders in the Land of the free and the home of the brave.

By David Lynch.—Memory of all the heroes who fell in our struggle for Independence, peace to their names, May the recollection of their glorious exploits, never cease to find a place in the heart of an Independent people.

By Robert M Young.—Robert H Kerr, the untiring Lion of Democracy of Old Allegheny.

By Thos Flood.—Hon Wm Wilkins his native State, proud of the services he has rendered to the Union, will ann appropriate those services to herself by his election as Governor of Pennsylvania.

Chambers McKibbin.—Hon J. M. Buchanan—The first and only choice of the Jeffersonian Democrats of the Keystone state, for the Presidency in '44.

By John Irwin (21 Ward)—James Buchanan—a whole team; Connestoga against the Union.

By Col. C. Graham.—James Findlay Esq.—Reared in the cradle of Democracy, he knows no other principles.

By James D. Thornburgh.—Chas. Fortune.—When the world properly appreciates his schemes of Industrial Association, and reduces to practice his theories of socialism, we then shall have arrived at the Millennial era.

By O. H. Browne.—Mr. Van Buren—His special Message September 1837, is his title deed to immortality. Posterity will recognize its validity. Will not the people of the present age do him justice.

By a Guest.—The seed sown by Thos Jefferson regitated and is springing up under John Tyler.

By Alexander Phillips.—Thos Jefferson—One of the brightest stars in the constellation of greatness; his name is incorporated with that dark and perilous hour of our country's history that tried man's soul, a frequent recurrence of them is the byword and a scorn, then and only then may his name be forgotten.

By Chambers McKibbin.—May the Democracy of the present day, they keeping steadily in view the principles of liberty inculcated by that illustrious statesman Thos Jefferson, guide safely through the ship of State, and rescue her from among the shoals and quick sands with which her enemies have surrounded her.

By Charles Reemelin, of Cincinnati, Ohio.—Thos Jefferson's political principles, we reverse him for his unqualified loyalty to the cause of the Democratic party from treacherous friends and open enemies.

By Thos M. Kown.—Hon. Wm. Wilkins, his talents and his services to his country at home and abroad, entitle him to the suffrage of the citizens of his native State as her next Governor.

By Samuel Hubley.—The memory of Thos Jefferson, second to the Father of our beloved Country, George Washington, both faithful, honest and just in their administration.

By John Patterson.—Our venerated fellow citizen, Samuel Hubley, Esq., No stronger evidence of the triumph of Jeffersonian principles can be adduced than to see him present at this celebration.

By Hugh McDermott.—Colo. Roly Patterson, a fearless and true Democrat, really and willing at all times to step forward in defence of democracy, for which the people of Allegheny county will honor him by electing him to the high office of Sheriff, knowing he will not be big in his selection of Jurors spirit of that Democracy.

By W. G. Hawkins.—Ex-Senator John Brown, an old faithful and well tried public servant.

By R. H. Hartley.—Thos Jefferson, the author of the declaration of Independence, he was the presiding genius of American freedom, and the spirit of that Declaration is an inspiration which has secured for the name and memory of its author, an imperishable glory.

By George Thompson.—Col. Benton for his democracy, we admire him for his love of country, we respect him for his honesty, we revere him for his unswerving loyalty, and will sustain him, come what may.

By James Burnside.—Hon. Wm. Wilkins, a public servant long tried and highly approved, he would make a Chief Magistrate of inflexible integrity, may Pennsylvania place confidence in such a man, and elect him to that office.

By Abm. Hays.—J. K. Moorhead, a plain practical man who by his own industry, energy and perseverance has acquired an enviable reputation, such men we want to manage public affairs in Pennsylvania.

By J. B. Guthrie.—Hon James Buchanan, whilst he has been exalted by the Democracy of Pennsylvania, honest John Davis and his 10 cent speech has been consigned to utter condemnation by the people of Massachusetts.

By Thos Hamilton, Esq.—Saml Hubley, Esq.—A living sample of ancient Federalism. His presence on this occasion testifies Jefferson's sentiment, 'we are all Federalists, we are all Republicans' when he is elected Commissioner, the lines of Federalism and Democracy will coincide.

By David Lynch.—Jeffersonian Democracy elected John Andregg, by 27,000 majority, and re-elected him without opposition, but when he attempted to dictate to, and transfer the free and Independent Democracy to John Q. Adams in 1828, they soon taught his Excellency, that the present was not above the Master. This president might have prevented any of his successors from falling into a similar error.

By Roly Patterson.—Pure Democracy equal and exact justice to all. No good democrat will attempt to distract the party; we will abide the convention, and battle for principles.

By John Stevenson, (Moon)—The Hon. Levi Woolbary and the Democracy of New York, a worthy representative of an untried constituency. No Hill can crush their energies, or impede their progress; for their march is onward.

By R. H. Kerr.—J S Dussile Esq. (of Philadelphia) a talented and undeviating democrat of the Old School, he has the right 'Spirit of the Times.'

By Wm Gribben.—The memory of the immortal Thos Jefferson, the illustrious author of the declaration of Independence, and the patriarch of American Democracy, his memory and his principles, may they long be remembered by a free and independent people.

By Jas Gray, (4th st)—The Democratic party should combine gratitude and equal justice, and re-elect that true American, Martin Van Buren; for truth crushed to earth by federal falsifiers in '40 arise in triumph with him in '44.

By Chas Barnett.—President Tyler and his Secretary of War, James M Porter. Prositutes to all parties, and faithful to no subject for a Political Magdalen Asylum, but unfortunately the Democratic party have none to accommodate them.

By R. Morrow, Esq.—John Tyler and his Veto.—'The geese whose cackling saved the capital, had an oration.' Manlius who threw down the Gauls, was himself hurled from Tarpeian Rock.

By Col John Watt.—J K Moorhead, Esq. a plain, common sense, unpretentious second Simon Snyder, Simon made a good Governor, why should not J K?

By Barnes Ford.—Col Thos Benton, and the Democratic party. Let them adopt the motto of the purest patriot of the age. 'Union, Harmony, Self-denial, concision, every thing for the cause notwithstanding.'

By James Boyd.—The Madisonian's Attacks on the Champion of Democracy, Col Benton, would better suit the latitude of England than this land of freedom.

By J Cupples.—The Hon. Levi Woodbury—This 'rock of democracy,' he will ever be found as firm in the support of Jeffersonian principles as the native Granite of his own New Hampshire.

By Wm Flinn.—Thos H. Benton.—An independent democrat. The high stand he has taken in the United States Senate in refusing to recognize a separate politician elevates him in the estimation of all honest minded men.

By Jacob Gardner.—Ex President Van Buren and Col. Johnson—tried patriot and true American; the people are willing to trust them again.

By John P. Glass.—Health, happiness, ease, prosperity to our absent, but esteemed fellow citizen, Hon. W. W. Irwin.

By James Burnside.—Senators Benton, Lion and the democracy of Missouri, untried, incorruptible, no federalist dare brave the geometry of that State.

By Thos O'Neil.—Hon. Wm. Wilkins—Eminent as a statesman, orthodox as a politician, accomplished and gentlemanly as a citizen, he is rarely gifted for the gubernatorial Chair of the Keystone State, which in '44, he will be called upon to fill.

By James Dickey.—Hon. J. K. Moorhead—A democrat of the Jeffersonian school. A more sound, practical and energetic republican, has not been named for the Executive Chair of the Keystone State in 1844.

By Samuel W. Black.—The late Judge Dallas—If such a man the memory can never die.

By J. H. Hague.—Gen Jackson and Col. Johnson—the Hero of New Orleans, for his reward the Presidency. Let justice be done the hero of the Thames, and he will then be equally rewarded, for both deserve alike.

By A. J. Grubb.—Hon. Levi Woodbury—his integrity, indomitable firmness and towering intellect, well befit him for Vice President. Democrats remember there is no better man.

By A. Phillips, (of Robt.)—Jackson and Tyler—If for ever defeated the Banker's party, on the latter triumphant without one. Veto, the Vice remedy to kill Whiggery.

By John P. Glass.—Saml W. Black, Esq., a noble and a safe guarantee that a citizen's case will not suffer in his hands.

By Saml Kingman.—Wm Wilkins the best friend of a poor man particularly the Irish.

By J. Irwin.—The Democratic party in '43 like the stars of the firmament, will shine in '44 they will be a triumphant or a federalist as the latter will ever monarchy.—The public good requires that the stars of the firmament should be J B Guthrie—Hon Daniel Steiger.—The perseverance of a Democrat is always an all ready remedy for any emergency by his own industry and perseverance in the principles of the constitution.

By Alex Brackeidge.—The incorruptible Democrat of Pennsylvania, Hon. Wm. Wilkins, especially with nominations of the true Jeffersonian.

By James C. Emmer.—The anniversary of Thos Jefferson in 1843: May the elevation of James Buchanan to the Presidential chair in 1845, perpetuate to another half century, the same progressive principles and measures that whose memory we commemorate, was advancing and progressing 60 years ago.

By J. K. Moorhead.—Thos Jefferson.—The sage, philosopher, and statesman. His life and history are a practical exemplification of his own motto. 'He was capable, he was honest.'

By Geo. McComb.—The Straight-out.—They were like the milk worms, after laying their last eggs they were cast aside.

By D. Feickens.—May the flag of the U States be triumphant over its enemies in every sea, and the stripes and stars of Old Glory be doubly clear and give ample protection to all that sail under them.

By A. Linnah.—The Hon Henry Clay, champion of the American System.—The truly honorable and magnanimous Senator, who denominated the Free Trade, 'the tariff of the people' Van Buren in 1844—Go it Van Buren, 'tis not a used up man.

By James B. Sawyer.—Hon Wm Wilkins—Should he be a gubernatorial candidate in 1844, let his vote in Allegheny county be attributed to the right cause—the merits of the man, not the strength of his party.

By C. Barnett.—Hon J C Calhoun, his undeviating republican principles has given him the proud appellation of the Aristotle (the just).

By Wm Flinn.—Francis K. Key, Esq.—Author of the 'Star Spangled Banner,'—'Honor to what is clearly right, and never submits to what is wrong.'

By the Company.—Our host and hostess, their beautiful supply had ample justice done it.

By W B Thompson (the bow)—Jeffersonians, like the man they celebrate, liberal in sentiment and feeling, may each enjoy health and prosperity.

By the conclusion of Mr. Shaler's address, he presented to the meeting the following correspondence, which was read by Mr. Hamilton.

Letter of Gen. Roger C. Waightman, late Mayor of Washington City to John Taylor, Esq., of this city.

Washington, April 7, 1843.

Dear Sir—Your letter of the 3d inst., postmarked the 4th, reached me this morning. The only hope I had of being able to respond to your request for a copy of the letter of Mr. Jefferson, referred to in your letter, was in the Engraver, who made a fac simile of it. Mr. Chambers had fortunately some copies, one of which he gave me with great pleasure to forward to you. It affords me great satisfaction, I assure you, sir, to comply with your request.

I learned some years after the death of Mr. Jefferson, when on a short sojourn at Charlottesville, from one of the Professors of the University of Virginia, that the letter which I now enclose was the last public letter that eminent man ever wrote, and that his last private note was addressed to Dr. Duglison of the University at about the same time.

Wishing you, and the friends who join you in the approaching celebration, every enjoyment, I am, dear sir,

Very respectfully yours, R. C. WRIGHTMAN.

JEFFERSON'S LAST LETTER. Written ten days before his death to R. C. Waightman, Mayor of the City of Washington, and chairman of a committee of arrangements who had invited him to be present at the celebration of the 4th of July 1826, being the 50th year of American Independence.

Monticello, June 26, '26. Respected Sir—The kind invitation I received from you on the part of the citizens of the city of Washington, to be present with them at the celebration of the 50th Anniversary of American Independence, as one of the surviving signers of an instrument pregnant with our own, and the fate of the world, is most flattering to myself, and heightened by the honorable accompaniment proposed for the comfort of such a journey. It adds sensibly to the sufferings of sickness, to be deprived by it of a personal participation in the rejoicings of that day, but acquiescence is a duty, under circumstances not placed among those we are permitted to control. I should indeed, with peculiar delight, have met and exchanged these congratulations personally with the small band, the remnant of that lost of worthies, who joined with us on that day, in the bold and doubtful election we were to make for our country, between submission or the sword; and to have enjoyed with them the consolatory fact that our fellow citizens, after half a century of experience and prosperity, continue to approve the choice we made. May it be to the world what I believe it will be, (to some parts sooner, to others later, but finally to all,) the signal of arousing men to burst the chains, and with monkish ignorance and superstition had persuaded them to bind themselves, and to cry in their agony for help to a despotic government. The form which we have substituted restores the free right to the unbounded exercise of reason and freedom of opinion. All eyes are opened or opening to the rights of man. The general spread of the light of science has already kindled every view, the palpable truth that the mass of mankind has not been born with saddles on their backs, nor a favored few bruted and spurred, ready to ride them legitimately, by the grace of God. These are grounds of hope for others; for ourselves, let the annual return of this day, forever refresh our recollections of these rights, and an undiminished devotion to them.

I will ask permission here to express the pleasure with which I should have met my ancient neighbors of the City of Washington and its vicinity, with whom I passed so many years of a pleasing social intercourse; an intercourse which so much relieved the anxieties of the public cares, and left impressions so deeply engraving in my affections, as never to be forgotten. With my regret, that I health forbids me the gratification of an acceptance, be pleased to receive for yourself and those for whom you write, the assurance of my highest respect and friendly attachments.

TH. JEFFERSON.

The following resolutions offered by R. H. Kerr and seconded by J. P. Glass, were unanimously adopted.

Resolved, That the thanks of this assembly be and they are hereby tendered to Genl. Shaler, for his eloquent and truly patriotic address.

Resolved, That the thanks of the company are also tendered to Genl. Waightman of Washington City, for his kindness and attention in furnishing the last letter ever written by the sage of Monticello.

Four Children Kidnapped.—Some time since a man named Rowe made application to Long Island Farms for four children, (two boys and two girls) on the pretence that he wanted to take them to Lewis county N. Y. His request was granted. It has since been ascertained that Rowe has no farm in Lewis county, and that he left the city with the children for the south. An officer was sent in search of him and discovered his place of habitation in Brandon, Miss where he was arrested and the children rescued. On his way down the Mississippi Rowe succeeded in making his escape by jumping overboard and swimming ashore.

Changes are daily being made in the Custom House of Philadelphia. A Mr. Turner of the Night Watch, has been removed and M. Schmidt appointed.

Sailor's Rights.—The brave tars of New York are going in a mass for the Democratic ticket.

The democrats of Rhode Island do not veit up. They talk of what they intend to do next year.

All right in Connecticut.—Cleveland is elected by 255 majority over all. Democratic majority in the House 25, in the Senate 11; and all the Congressmen elected. Well done for the Charter Oak.

The Theatre at Richmond, Va. is to be sold on the 8th of May next.

THEATRE.—The lovers of the Drama, the most rational and intellectual amusement of all the civilized world, will be pleased to find the Dramatic Company commences on Monday evening next—Mrs. Flynn, whose reputation in N. York and Philadelphia, stands proverbially high will appear for the first time in Pittsburgh.

Our citizens will be also glad to hear the Manager has secured the services of Miss Melton and Mr. Latham, for a limited number of nights, of whose talents we had so admirable a specimen, a few evenings since in the Concert given by them at Phil. to Hall. Added to which, a company of deserved reputation and respectability, will sustain the various novelties to be produced during the season, in a manner worthy the support of our citizens.

Steamer Sunk.—The steamers Gainesville and Norfolk, both on their upward passage from Mobile, came in collision on the night of the 31st ult, by which means the former boat was sunk. She went down with such rapidity that the passengers were unable to save their baggage.

A few converts to Millarian have been made in St. Louis; some in Cincinnati, some in a place called Wheeling, but not one in Pittsburgh, notwithstanding the indefatigable exertions of those who raised the cry.

Shipman, the missing Messenger.—The N. Y. Sun says Mr. Manly, broker in Philadelphia and several other gentlemen of the same fraternity, received an amount of money during Saturday, from Mr. Shipman. There is something about this affair which seems very singular; the presumption in Philadelphia is that Mr. Shipman is crazy.

Herring are selling at Alexandria, D. C., at two dollars per thousand.

The editor of the Richmond Enquirer has been presented with a cucumber grown under glasses. It is a great curiosity considering the lateness of the winter.

The Missouri Songsters are in Boston.

POWELL'S BALM OF ANISEED.—A preparation made in England, and used through out the whole eastern part of the United States, for the speedy and certain cure of Coughs, Colds, Asthma, &c., it stands unrivalled, the price being only 25 cents per bottle, places it within the means of any one wanting medicine for those diseases. The taste is so pleasant that children cry in their joy when taking it, and its use in families should keep it in the house, as it is an excellent article for the cure of the Whooping Cough. To be had only at Turner's 86 Fourth Street.

ATTENTION SALES. FAINE'S LOCK & Co. corner of Wood and 5th streets—on Tuesday morning next will sell at public auction, a large and general assortment of Dry Goods, comprising Cloths, Casimere, Cassimere, Brown and Bleached Shirts, Prints, Sewing Silks, Pattern Thread, Carpet Laces, Superannated, Spool Cotton, &c.
