extraordinary excitement, in consequence of the recent arrival in those parts of a celebrated magician, from the centre of Africa, somewhere in the vicinity of the Mountains of the Moon. It was universally said, and generally believed, that this character possessed and exercised the power of showing to any visitor who chose to comply with his terms, any person, dead or living, whom the said visiter pleased to name. The English travellers, after abundant inquiries and some scruples, repaired to his residence, paid their fees, and were admitted to his Sanctum. They found themselves in The presence of a handsome tion; having been for the last 12 years engaged in the husiness, he feels confident that his arrangements on young Moor, with a very long black beard, both sides the Atlantic are such as will give satisfaction. a crimson caftan, a snow white turban, The Ships comprising the above line, are all of the first eighteen inches high, blue trowsers and eighteen inches high, blue trowsers and yellow slippers, si ting cross-legged on a Turkey carpet, three feet square, with a cherry stalk in his mouth, a cup of coffee at his left elbow, a diamond-hafted dagger in his girdle, and in his right hand a large volume, clasped with brazen clasps. On hearing their errand, he arose and kindled some spices on a sort of small alter in the middle of the room. He then walked round the alter for half an hour or so, mut tered words to them unintelligible; and having at length drawn three lines of chalk about the altar, and placed himself upright beside the flame, desired them to seek a opening of the canal. It is composed (west of Columbia) of First Class Portable Boats, chartered for the all their desires. There were in old days whole schools of magicians here in Europe, who could do nothing in this line without the intervention of a pure Seer—to wit, a

This African belongs to the same fraternity-he made them understand that go out in the streets of Cairo, and fetch up any child they fancied, under ten years of age. They did so: and after walking about for half an hour, selected an Arab boy, not apparently above eight, whom they found playing at marbles. They bribed him with a few half pence, and took him with them to the studio of the African Roger Bacon. The child was much frightened at the smooke and the smell, and the chatter and the mutteringbut by-and-by he sucked his sugar candy, themselves, as he is determined to sell cheap for each or and keep his eye fixed upon the surface of the liquid - and then resuming his old
