As pas ion happens to move, or devils dictate.

A gleam of light came flickering from the em bers, Like the last glars of an unfounded hope, Of his reform, which none could how expect. The little light displayed her shuttered frame, Oe'r which fell grief had like a simoon passed; Till her once lovely form did now convey A tale that well might harrow up the soul. Ah! tender we man levely in distress, The poorest child of Adam's ruined race, is doubly blessed above a drunkards wite. But she was poor besider; but one dry crust Was all their breadstuff, all their bill of fare.

class and are commanded by careful and skillful masters. That made him mad and sunk him in disgrate. But hush! a staggering noise is heard approach; The door flies open, and he tumbles in. Imagination must here do the rest,

My soul grew sick, I could not write it down. Again I saw him on a 'sabbath morn But O! how chang'd was that same drunken man His clothing neat and clean, his eye adorned The human face divine, which glowed with joy; His hand was steady, and his step was firm.
