The suit was instituted for $226,000. The first point relied upon by the counsel for Mr. Hoyt, was his private cash-book, which he had instituted to pro eet himself against any crerors made in the trer-weer's account. By this it appeared that Mr. Hoyt had misbursed $45,000 ore than he had received. Judge Thompson, in his charge to the jury, attached little importance to this, as the deposit moneys, the bonts paid under protest, and the treasury, notes were not entere t in it at all-and it could therefore offer no claims as a test-book for the eash transactions. Another principal point of defence was the deposit question. Mr. Hoyt has a claim against the rovernment of $100,000 for money deposited and charged to him by the government twice. It is a practice with merchants, when they want their e llector, estimated to be more than sufficient to

This deposit money is paid to the treasury department, and if the department had r tained the whole som, and at the same time required the collector to pay back the surplus, the claim of a double charge might be sustained by Mr. Hoyt .-But, on the contrary, the government did not make up its account with Mr. Hoyt until after the duties were a tually paid, and charged him, not for the whole sum deposited, but only the evacsum of duties paid from this fund.
