

FOR PRESIDENT, JAMES BUCHANAN

DAILY MORNING POST. SATURDAY, MAY 6, 1843.

See First Page.

Virginia Election.

The returns are, so far, of the most cheering character. Messrs Atkinson, Dromgoole, Hubbard, Jones, Lucas, Taylor, Hopkins and Steenrod. (S) Democrats, are elected to Congress.

Messrs Newton and Chilton are all that the Whigs have, thus far, elected.

It is probable that, owing to the fact of the last Legislature (which was strongly democratic) having levied a tax to pay the interest on the State Loans, there may be a considerable reduction of the democratic majority in the House of Delegates.

The whigs proved their devotion to practical republicanism by laboring, with tireless activity, to defeat the democratic delegates who voted for the Tax.

It is probable that, owing to the fact of the last Legislature (which was strongly democratic) having levied a tax to pay the interest on the State Loans, there may be a considerable reduction of the democratic majority in the House of Delegates.

The whigs proved their devotion to practical republicanism by laboring, with tireless activity, to defeat the democratic delegates who voted for the Tax.

It is probable that, owing to the fact of the last Legislature (which was strongly democratic) having levied a tax to pay the interest on the State Loans, there may be a considerable reduction of the democratic majority in the House of Delegates.

The whigs proved their devotion to practical republicanism by laboring, with tireless activity, to defeat the democratic delegates who voted for the Tax.

It is probable that, owing to the fact of the last Legislature (which was strongly democratic) having levied a tax to pay the interest on the State Loans, there may be a considerable reduction of the democratic majority in the House of Delegates.

The whigs proved their devotion to practical republicanism by laboring, with tireless activity, to defeat the democratic delegates who voted for the Tax.

It is probable that, owing to the fact of the last Legislature (which was strongly democratic) having levied a tax to pay the interest on the State Loans, there may be a considerable reduction of the democratic majority in the House of Delegates.

The whigs proved their devotion to practical republicanism by laboring, with tireless activity, to defeat the democratic delegates who voted for the Tax.

It is probable that, owing to the fact of the last Legislature (which was strongly democratic) having levied a tax to pay the interest on the State Loans, there may be a considerable reduction of the democratic majority in the House of Delegates.

The whigs proved their devotion to practical republicanism by laboring, with tireless activity, to defeat the democratic delegates who voted for the Tax.

It is probable that, owing to the fact of the last Legislature (which was strongly democratic) having levied a tax to pay the interest on the State Loans, there may be a considerable reduction of the democratic majority in the House of Delegates.

The whigs proved their devotion to practical republicanism by laboring, with tireless activity, to defeat the democratic delegates who voted for the Tax.

It is probable that, owing to the fact of the last Legislature (which was strongly democratic) having levied a tax to pay the interest on the State Loans, there may be a considerable reduction of the democratic majority in the House of Delegates.

The whigs proved their devotion to practical republicanism by laboring, with tireless activity, to defeat the democratic delegates who voted for the Tax.

It is probable that, owing to the fact of the last Legislature (which was strongly democratic) having levied a tax to pay the interest on the State Loans, there may be a considerable reduction of the democratic majority in the House of Delegates.

The whigs proved their devotion to practical republicanism by laboring, with tireless activity, to defeat the democratic delegates who voted for the Tax.

It is probable that, owing to the fact of the last Legislature (which was strongly democratic) having levied a tax to pay the interest on the State Loans, there may be a considerable reduction of the democratic majority in the House of Delegates.

The whigs proved their devotion to practical republicanism by laboring, with tireless activity, to defeat the democratic delegates who voted for the Tax.

It is probable that, owing to the fact of the last Legislature (which was strongly democratic) having levied a tax to pay the interest on the State Loans, there may be a considerable reduction of the democratic majority in the House of Delegates.

The whigs proved their devotion to practical republicanism by laboring, with tireless activity, to defeat the democratic delegates who voted for the Tax.

It is probable that, owing to the fact of the last Legislature (which was strongly democratic) having levied a tax to pay the interest on the State Loans, there may be a considerable reduction of the democratic majority in the House of Delegates.

The whigs proved their devotion to practical republicanism by laboring, with tireless activity, to defeat the democratic delegates who voted for the Tax.

It is probable that, owing to the fact of the last Legislature (which was strongly democratic) having levied a tax to pay the interest on the State Loans, there may be a considerable reduction of the democratic majority in the House of Delegates.

The whigs proved their devotion to practical republicanism by laboring, with tireless activity, to defeat the democratic delegates who voted for the Tax.

It is probable that, owing to the fact of the last Legislature (which was strongly democratic) having levied a tax to pay the interest on the State Loans, there may be a considerable reduction of the democratic majority in the House of Delegates.

The whigs proved their devotion to practical republicanism by laboring, with tireless activity, to defeat the democratic delegates who voted for the Tax.

It is probable that, owing to the fact of the last Legislature (which was strongly democratic) having levied a tax to pay the interest on the State Loans, there may be a considerable reduction of the democratic majority in the House of Delegates.

The whigs proved their devotion to practical republicanism by laboring, with tireless activity, to defeat the democratic delegates who voted for the Tax.

It is probable that, owing to the fact of the last Legislature (which was strongly democratic) having levied a tax to pay the interest on the State Loans, there may be a considerable reduction of the democratic majority in the House of Delegates.

The whigs proved their devotion to practical republicanism by laboring, with tireless activity, to defeat the democratic delegates who voted for the Tax.

It is probable that, owing to the fact of the last Legislature (which was strongly democratic) having levied a tax to pay the interest on the State Loans, there may be a considerable reduction of the democratic majority in the House of Delegates.

The whigs proved their devotion to practical republicanism by laboring, with tireless activity, to defeat the democratic delegates who voted for the Tax.

All Sorts of Things.

Jefferson and Jackson each ran three times for the Presidency.

The 'south clock' gives the Boston editors a great deal of anxiety. They note its every movement.

A Railroad is to be laid immediately between Hartford, Conn., and Springfield, Mass.

Mrs. Ann S. Stevens has assumed the editorial chair of the Brother Jonathan, lately vacated by N. P. Willis.

The introduction of slaves into Mississippi is to be prohibited after 1st January, 1845, even by residents and settlers in that State.

Not Yet.—The seat of government in Canada is not to be removed from Kingston for the present.

An attempt was made to rob the Farmers' Bank, in Norfolk, the other night, by breaking in at the door with a bit.

Chain cables are being manufactured in Bangor, Maine. A novel attempt in that section of the country.

A woman named Susan Jane Rattray has been arrested in New York and committed for trial, for her extravagant one in having two husbands when many worthy ladies cannot get one.

End of the World.—A man in Vermont has an old Boston paper printed in 1741, which contains a prophecy of the destruction of the world in 1843.

They have had a shower of sulphur in Tennessee, according to the National Union. A short time since they had a shower of blood in that State. Tennessee must be famous for queer shows.

The Committee for the sale of the Delaware Division of the Pennsylvania Canal, are to open books for the sale of Stock on the first Monday in June next.

The present appearance of the Wheat crop of England, is the most promising that has been witnessed at this season of the year, since 1827.

Ireland is not quite so large as New York and yet has 8,500,000 inhabitants. There are not over thirty thousand land owners in the whole island. This fact tells the story of Ireland's oppression better than volumes.

The Cincinnati Gazette has been enlarged, and is now the best looking and the best Whig paper in Cincinnati.

Upwards of $36,000, in counterfeit notes was recently discovered in the upper part of a barn, near Reading, Pa. supposed to have been placed there 15 or 20 years since.

The prices of produce of all kinds is rapidly rising in Cincinnati. The only fear is that it may become inflated, which will prove ruinous when a reaction comes, which would certainly be the case.

The remains of the lamented Melzer Gardner, who was murdered recently in Portsmouth, Va., have been disinterred and removed to Hartford.

The culture of silk is receiving much attention in Michigan. Sewing silk of an excellent quality, has already been made.

An infatuated Millerite named John Favro, committed suicide at Lowell, Mass., a few days since.

Within the last few weeks, says the Lowell Courier, we have had more than an equal quantity of murders, seductions, frauds, and other villainous transactions, which cast a gloom over the pathway of virtue, wisdom, happiness and peace.

It is said that the Millerites intend constructing a lot of Henson's Flying Machines, to take themselves out of harm's way, when the time comes.

More Hanging at the Yare-arm.—The steamboat Governor Yell, at New Orleans, reports having met with the Texan Squadron on Monday week, going down the Northeast Pass, at the Balize. On the top-gallant-forecastle of the Austin were three men—presumed to be the mutineers who were tried the week before; apparently about to be executed.

A resolution was submitted to the council of Philadelphia to lease Independence Hall, a place sacred to freedom and the rights of man—a relic of those times that city are very indignant at this Vandal attempt, and speak with becoming severity of those who thus sacrifice all patriotic sentiments and recollections at the shrine of the "Almighty dollar."

Millionism has done much injury in Cleveland. The Herald gives another case:—"One of our city physicians informed us this morning that he was called yesterday to attend an English woman who is perfectly demented on the subject of Millerism. She refuses medicine—says she has seen Christ in visions—the end of the world has been revealed to her. She had been an attendant at the Miller meetings in this city, and the deplorable result of her teaching is recorded above."

To be hung.—Andrew Walton has been sentenced by Judge Wood of Cincinnati, to be executed on the first Friday in June. Walton is a young man about 25, a quadruped, who got into the quarrel, and now well aware what he did, being greatly provoked and excited.—He thought his punishment would be too severe for the offence.

The Drama.—The Boston Post informs us that the Lecture system is fast falling into disrepute in that city, and that the public manifest a disposition to return to their first love, the Drama, as a source of rational and pleasant instruction.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

Dreadful calamity.—Loss of Life.

We cut the following from the London (W. Canada) Inquirer of 21st ult:—"On last Sunday afternoon, as the Rev. R. Flood, the worthy clergyman of Delaware, and 17 other gentlemen of the congregation, were returning from divine service, in crossing the river in a small scow adjacent to the side where the bridge has been swept away, the temporary convenience was hurried down the stream until it came in contact with a jutting out tree—when four human beings met a watery grave.

The whole party clung to the tree, and remained there for upwards of four hours; and until a canoe could be obtained from the village of Kilworth, six miles distant, four of them were chilled through and thereby unable to retain their position, perished in view of their companions and spectators on shore, who could render them no assistance. The dreadful occurrence took place about two o'clock P. M., but before the canoe arrived on the spot, and the last of the sufferers rescued, one by one from their frightful situation, the sun was sinking never more to rise upon the unhappy men who thus unfortunately perished in the prime of life."

Piracy on the Savannah river.—We learn from a slip from the Savannah Republican, that more aggressions upon British vessels have lately been committed on that river. The British ship Perthshire was attacked on the 13th inst., her mate, carpenter, and steward tied to ring-bolts, and her men got into a boat to leave the vessel, when assistance approaching from neighboring vessels, the boat was upset in a hurry. The pirates swam ashore and the sailors regained the ship.

Another Outrage in New York.—The Sun says: "On Friday night, a man who keeps a cigar store in Washington street, between Murray and Warren streets, made a most foul and desperate attack on his wife with a knife, wounding her in several places, two of which were in the breast and one in the neck. He fled, and has not been seen or heard of since. His name is Hernandez, (supposed to be a Spaniard). The cause of the inhuman act is attributed to jealousy."

It appears that the Philadelphia May Day was rather more pleasant than ours was. The Forum, a very respectable Clay paper, which had been suspended for a few days, re-appeared in good spirits, and devoted nearly a column to the first of May. A more fitting subject for the literary pen of its editor than Clay.

Cause of Hard Times.—The cause of the "hard times" from which we are just now emerging is said, by an exchange, to be "because one third of the nation have lived in idleness, on the labor of the other two-thirds, by means of credit, for the last twenty years." This is the real cause, though it may not be apparent to the superficial observers.

Hague's Horoscope for May, contains some queer things. Here's a sample: "Literary men will feel the vengeance of Mars for libelling. An actress must act clear of aged men while another will act with a statesman or minister, at the altar. Promotion may be expected by an eccentric character. The editors will have some laws to write about, before the month ends."

Com. Porter.—Why is it that this gallant officer—the very flower of the Navy—the "brave of the brave" is suffered to go to the grave unwept and unsung. We have seen no movements or manifestations of regret we should feel for the loss of so brave a man and pure a patriot as the commander of the "Essex."

Surely the loss of such a man to our Navy, may well be regarded as a national calamity, and should be a matter of universal and national sorrow. He has left but few such as he was, behind him.

Later from Mexico.—The U. S. sloop-of-war Vincennes arrived at Pensacola, recently. On board of her were Judge Hutchinson, and Messrs. Jones and Malverick, three of the San Antonio prisoners recently released to Gen. Thompson by Santa Anna.

The N. O. Pic. says:—"The news in relation to the Texan prisoners, in the main is gloomy enough, especially as regards those retaken who belonged to Col. Fisher's command. The order to decimate the rebel retaken, (165) we are fearful has been carried into effect near Matamoros. The report is that 17 were shot."

If the relations of the poor demented young woman who is daily running about our streets, have the means to provide her a fit asylum, their humanity should prompt them to set about it straight. If they have not, they should take measures to have her furnished with a refuge at the expense of the public.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

What has become of the N. Y. Aurora.

Commercial News.

10 feet water in the channel.

All Bots marked thus (*) are provided with Greatly Reduced Rates.

Reported by SHERMAN & MITCHELL, General S. B. Agents, No. 5, Market street.

ARRIVED. Little Mail, Gaskill, Brownsville, (Cleveland, Hemphill, Beaver, Mail, Sumner, New Castle, Fuller, New Castle, Columbus, Murdoch, Wheeling, Eds. Dennison, Kitanning, Michigan, Coles, Beaver, Bridgewater, Ebbett, Wheeling, O. H. Bowman, Brownsville, Mingo, Chas. Devenay, Wheeling, Falslow, Hanna, Franklin, Mayflower, Hutchinson, Louisville, Orpheus, Balley, Nashville, Alpine, Cockburn, Brownsville, Ochs, Brierley, Manhattan, King, St. Louis.

DEPARTED. (Cleveland, Hemphill, Beaver, Michigan, Bues, do Bridgewater, Ebbett, Wheeling, O. H. Bowman, Brownsville, Mingo, Chas. Devenay, Wheeling, Falslow, Hanna, Franklin, Mayflower, Hutchinson, Louisville, Orpheus, Balley, Nashville, Alpine, Cockburn, Brownsville, Ochs, Brierley, Manhattan, King, St. Louis.

Extract of a letter Birmingham & Co. dated—Campbell, May 2, 1843. "Gents:—Your canal boat, J. A. Veaz y passed the beach this day after a detention of only four hours. The breach is repaired temporarily so that no detention will occur hereafter in passing boats."

Trade in New York. The Express in its weekly review says: "The business of the week has greatly increased. The importations have been large. At the Custom House upwards of a hundred thousand dollars were received for duties in one day, and all the clerks were most actively engaged. In the business streets of the city there is a much greater activity than there has been. The arrivals at our public hotels are very great, nearly double what they were ten days ago. Merchants are here for all parts of our country, many of them laying in a very fair stock of goods. The Western rivers and the lakes are again navigable. As soon as the canal is opened, the receipts of produce must be very great. The State Legislature having adjourned and the elections being over, there is a stirring of an exciting character before the public. Every thing is now quiet and will continue so for some weeks to come. Produce of every description continues to be very low and very abundant, and with a certainty of receiving very large additions to our stock. Exchanges with every part of the country, except with Alabama, are reasonably low, but there is no getting notes at any distant point."

Trade in Boston. The Boston Herald says:—"All over the city, no matter which way you may turn, are improving their stores, externally and internally. Court street, on the north side, looks almost like a new street; so great is the change made in the appearance of several stores there, by large and splendid windows being placed in them. All these things taken together, give our business a more cheerful aspect than we have had for some time. The weather is now so good, and the water so high, that it is a great inducement to produce a change for the better in the condition of the mass, whatever gives employment to the worthy and industrious."

Trade in Baltimore. The Baltimore Patriot says:—"Our city, too evinces a re-animating in business. Every street exhibits a bustle, a liveliness, and a moving, and the citizens are strangers, unusual within the year past. Vessels in the harbor appear more actively engaged in discharging and taking in cargo, while the bay and river are more thickly studded with white sails, opened to the breeze, passing in and out of port. On every part of the wharves may be observed a pleasing animation and a business-like aspect. Our hotels and places of public entertainment also share in the general impetus tending to prosperity. The gloom and despondency once so manifest, would seem to be gradually fading from the merchant, as well as the mechanic and day laborer, leaving in its stead the more agreeable anticipations of a smiling future. The business of the rail road leading from the city is likewise on the increase, both as regards the transportation of passengers and freight."

Trade in Philadelphia. Bickel's Reporter of May 2nd, says: "The week which has just gone by, was one of unusual activity, or rather cheerfulness, in the business world, from nearly every portion of the globe we have received accounts of the revival of trade. The indications are certainly encouraging. The spirit of the country is rising once more slowly, but certainly, into activity and energy, and we think we deserve in the distance, the bright light of returning prosperity. Certain it is, that we have passed through a very order. The darkest cloud has gone by, and the sunshine once more breaks forth. Our currency is again sound, all our banks in operation pay specie, and we notice with sincere pleasure, that property has advanced slightly in price within a few weeks, and that a number of new buildings are in progress. Gradually, we say, but certainly, affairs will mend. Produce is very high in Milwaukee. Oats are selling at 50 cts, corn 75 cts, potatoes 50 cts, hay 90 per ton, flour 84 per bush. The hard winter has used up the surplus produce of the Territory."

Wheat Crop in Ohio.—Good News.—The Statesman says:—"The Wheat croakers are entirely upset.—The last few weeks presents quite a new feature, and the word is that we never had a prospect of a fine crop in Ohio. A full crop of wheat this year will bring Ohio out. Specie and specie funds, are every where offered in payment, and the people are beginning to laugh at those who talk about closing paper banks to relieve their wants. Times in Boston.—The Olive Branch says:—"In this city and neighborhood, there will be more new and valuable buildings erected than in any one year since Boston was inhabited by the Anglo Saxon race. Boston has become the centre of an immense business, reaching to the end of the earth. Her steam communications with Europe, and her iron roads to the heart of the great West, give her an enviable position, and soon, Boston will be one of the greatest cities of the world. Money is plenty. Indeed, millions on millions of money lie wholly unemployed. It will, however, find investment, and the wheels of business move on. As to exchanges, we never knew them so good. It costs scarcely anything to get funds from any part of the Union. In the best days of the United States bank, exchanges were not so good as now. We expect better times, and we are not far from it."

Wealth in Boston.—The Boston Courier in making an abstract of the tax returns of the city, gives the following items in relation to the wealth of different individuals in that city: "The highest amount of real estate taxed to one concern, is to an individual, $604,000, who is also taxed for $300,000 personal property; the second on the list is a corporation, $572,600; the third is to an individual, $487,000, who is partner in a firm whose personal estate is valued at $100,000; the fourth is an individual $475,400, and he pays tax on $400,000 personal property, besides his share of the personal and real estate of a firm of which he is partner, amounting to $65,600. On real estate there are seventy-seven individuals and companies taxed for more than $100,000. There are fifty-two individuals and companies taxed for over $100,000 personal estate, in addition to real estate, and the highest on the list is a trust, amounting to $500,000; the second is a firm of mercantile business whose property is estimated at $450,000; two brothers are taxed $260,000 each, besides for real estate; and a third brother of the same family for $220,000. The National Theatre, Cincinnati, opened on Monday last, under the Mr. Foster, with Shakespeare's play of 'As you like it.'"

Manchester Strike. For the Post. Messrs. Editors:—I have noticed an article in the Chronicle purporting to come from a disinterested person, on the late turn out in Manchester, and in truth it seems to have interested himself so much in the matter that it appears that it must be Mr. Townsend himself, or one that could use his exact language. As to the course the hands have pursued, they were neither hasty or inconsiderate, as it had been in consideration to have a strike in the establishment for better than two years; and Mr. Townsend himself said that he had expected a turn out but that he would discharge the leaders and it would all blow over. Now one of these leaders was Levi Buchfield, (a kind of an excuse for a boss in the blacksmith shop) who, with all the hands struck for what they in all honor and honesty ought to have, sold Levi back to Mr. Townsend himself, or one that could use his exact language. As to the course the hands have pursued, they were neither hasty or inconsiderate, as it had been in consideration to have a strike in the establishment for better than two years; and Mr. Townsend himself said that he had expected a turn out but that he would discharge the leaders and it would all blow over. Now one of these leaders was Levi Buchfield, (a kind of an excuse for a boss in the blacksmith shop) who, with all the hands struck for what they in all honor and honesty ought to have, sold Levi back to Mr. Townsend himself, or one that could use his exact language. As to the course the hands have pursued, they were neither hasty or inconsiderate, as it had been in consideration to have a strike in the establishment for better than two years; and Mr. Townsend himself said that he had expected a turn out but that he would discharge the leaders and it would all blow over. Now one of these leaders was Levi Buchfield, (a kind of an excuse for a boss in the blacksmith shop) who, with all the hands struck for what they in all honor and honesty ought to have, sold Levi back to Mr. Townsend himself, or one that could use his exact language. As to the course the hands have pursued, they were neither hasty or inconsiderate, as it had been in consideration to have a strike in the establishment for better than two years; and Mr. Townsend himself said that he had expected a turn out but that he would discharge the leaders and it would all blow over. Now one of these leaders was Levi Buchfield, (a kind of an excuse for a boss in the blacksmith shop) who, with all the hands struck for what they in all honor and honesty ought to have, sold Levi back to Mr. Townsend himself, or one that could use his exact language. As to the course the hands have pursued, they were neither hasty or inconsiderate, as it had been in consideration to have a strike in the establishment for better than two years; and Mr. Townsend himself said that he had expected a turn out but that he would discharge the leaders and it would all blow over. Now one of these leaders was Levi Buchfield, (a kind of an excuse for a boss in the blacksmith shop) who, with all the hands struck for what they in all honor and honesty ought to have, sold Levi back to Mr. Townsend himself, or one that could use his exact language. As to the course the hands have pursued, they were neither hasty or inconsiderate, as it had been in consideration to have a strike in the establishment for better than two years; and Mr. Townsend himself said that he had expected a turn out but that he would discharge the leaders and it would all blow over. Now one of these leaders was Levi Buchfield, (a kind of an excuse for a boss in the blacksmith shop) who, with all the hands struck for what they in all honor and honesty ought to have, sold Levi back to Mr. Townsend himself, or one that could use his exact language. As to the course the hands have pursued, they were neither hasty or inconsiderate, as it had been in consideration to have a strike in the establishment for better than two years; and Mr. Townsend himself said that he had expected a turn out but that he would discharge the leaders and it would all blow over. Now one of these leaders was Levi Buchfield, (a kind of an excuse for a boss in the blacksmith shop) who, with all the hands struck for what they in all honor and honesty ought to have, sold Levi back to Mr. Townsend himself, or one that could use his exact language. As to the course the hands have pursued, they were neither hasty or inconsiderate, as it had been in consideration to have a strike in the establishment for better than two years; and Mr. Townsend himself said that he had expected a turn out but that he would discharge the leaders and it would all blow over. Now one of these leaders was Levi Buchfield, (a kind of an excuse for a boss in the blacksmith shop) who, with all the hands struck for what they in all honor and honesty ought to have, sold Levi back to Mr. Townsend himself, or one that could use his exact language. As to the course the hands have pursued, they were neither hasty or inconsiderate, as it had been in consideration to have a strike in the establishment for better than two years; and Mr. Townsend himself said that he had expected a turn out but that he would discharge the leaders and it would all blow over. Now one of these leaders was Levi Buchfield, (a kind of an excuse for a boss in the blacksmith shop) who, with all the hands struck for what they in all honor and honesty ought to have, sold Levi back to Mr. Townsend himself, or one that could use his exact language. As to the course the hands have pursued, they were neither hasty or inconsiderate, as it had been in consideration to have a strike in the establishment for better than two years; and Mr. Townsend himself said that he had expected a turn out but that he would discharge the leaders and it would all blow over. Now one of these leaders was Levi Buchfield, (a kind of an excuse for a boss in the blacksmith shop) who, with all the hands struck for what they in all honor and honesty ought to have, sold Levi back to Mr. Townsend himself, or one that could use his exact language. As to the course the hands have pursued, they were neither hasty or inconsiderate, as it had been in consideration to have a strike in the establishment for better than two years; and Mr. Townsend himself said that he had expected a turn out but that he would discharge the leaders and it would all blow over. Now one of these leaders was Levi Buchfield, (a kind of an excuse for a boss in the blacksmith shop) who, with all the hands struck for what they in all honor and honesty ought to have, sold Levi back to Mr. Townsend himself, or one that could use his exact language. As to the course the hands have pursued, they were neither hasty or inconsiderate, as it had been in consideration to have a strike in the establishment for better than two years; and Mr. Townsend himself said that he had expected a turn out but that he would discharge the leaders and it would all blow over. Now one of these leaders was Levi Buchfield, (a kind of an excuse for a boss in the blacksmith shop) who, with all the hands struck for what they in all honor and honesty ought to have, sold Levi back to Mr. Townsend himself, or one that could use his exact language. As to the course the hands have pursued, they were neither hasty or inconsiderate, as it had been in consideration to have a strike in the establishment for better than two years; and Mr. Townsend himself said that he had expected a turn out but that he would discharge the leaders and it would all blow over. Now one of these leaders was Levi Buchfield, (a kind of an excuse for a boss in the blacksmith shop) who, with all the hands struck for what they in all honor and honesty ought to have, sold Levi back to Mr. Townsend himself, or one that could use his exact language. As to the course the hands have pursued, they were neither hasty or inconsiderate, as it had been in consideration to have a strike in the establishment for better than two years; and Mr. Townsend himself said that he had expected a turn out but that he would discharge the leaders and it would all blow over. Now one of these leaders was Levi Buchfield, (a kind of an excuse for a boss in the blacksmith shop) who, with all the hands struck for what they in all honor and honesty ought to have, sold Levi back to Mr. Townsend himself, or one that could use his exact language. As to the course the hands have pursued, they were neither hasty or inconsiderate, as it had been in consideration to have a strike in the establishment for better than two years; and Mr. Townsend himself said that he had expected a turn out but that he would discharge the leaders and it would all blow over. Now one of these leaders was Levi Buchfield, (a kind of an excuse for a boss in the blacksmith shop) who, with all the hands struck for what they in all honor and honesty ought to have, sold Levi back to Mr. Townsend himself, or one