The canal itself is 100 miles ing, 60 fest wide on the surface, and 6 feet deep. It has cost, hitherto, $5,000,000. and requires $1,600,000; making a total cost of $6,000,000 The geographical position of the work is as follows:

The General Government was the original proprietor of the whole territory, and directed a tract 100 miles in length, and 10 wide, to be surveyed and divided into sections of one mile square, or 640 acres. The canal runs lengthwise of this slip, dividing in the middle. The Federal Government granted, in aid of its construction, each alternate section, 5 miles, on each side of the canal; amounting to 480,000 acres. The intermediate sections were sold to individuals by the Federal Government, and are now in progress of cultivation. Of the 480,000 acres, the State has sold 250,000 acres, and there remains 230, 000 acres which is given up to the creditors under the new law. These lands are the most valuable, because no lands within FOWLER'S PATENT BED- half a mile of the canal, on either side. have been allowed to be sold. There are also lots in Chicago, one of the most thris ving cities of the West, on Lake Michigan. One of the line of the canal are the cities of Lockport, Juliet, Dupage Morris, Mcrseilles Ottawa, and La Salle-four of which are county towns. The water powers created by the canal are invaluable.-They are immediately on the canal, and a boat of 100 tons, loaded with grain, may have its freight carried out, floured, and returned to the boat, almost without delaying its passage to Chicago, where it will meet vessels from Europe with merchandize and passengers that have passed up the St. Lawrence.

Brooklyn Common Council-Grand Flare up: - The grave and reverend fathers of our sister city, have fairly split, sep. arated, divided and organized into two separate and distinct Common Councils, each laiming chartered functions and legislative prerogatives. Yesterday afternoon they met to try and adjust matters, but it tion in pronouncing them the best now in use. -coming was the old story, 9 to 9, 9 to 9, every vote. vote, and nothing could be done. It soon became evident that a storm was brewing: loud words were flying, and gestures were being made, the import of which could not
