EVANS'S CAMOMILE PILLS.—ABRAHAM J. CLEMER, residing at 66 Mott street, New York, was afflicted with Dyspepsia in its most aggravated form. The symptoms were violent headache, great debility, fever, costiveness, cough, heartburn, pain in the chest and stomach, a loss of or eating, impaired appetite, sensation of sinking at the stomach, furred tongue, nausea, frequent vomitings, dizziness towards night and restlessness. These had continued upwards of a twelve month, when, on consulting Dr. Wm. Evans, 100 Chatham street, and submitting to his every successful and agreeable mode of treatment, the patient was completely restored to health in the short space of one month, and grateful for the incalculable benefit received, came forward and volunteered the above statement. CROUP.—For the Cure of this terrible disease in all its stages of hoarseness, colds and coughs, where mortification was apprehended. The necessity for such a sharp practice has indeed been rare. The Medical Profession from Cherokee to Maine have found in Dr. Swayne's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry a remedy of such efficacy, power and promptitude, that no other combination could excel or attempt to equal. The operation of this wonderful compound instantly reaches the lesion caused by the wound, scald, burns or bruise it cures, and every vital organ so far to render new action easy. It has a very short course of time restore the part affected to a sound and healthy state without leaving the disease behind. This preparation is also a certain remedy for inflamed eyes, cancerous sores, sore throat, broken breast and sore nipple and all abrasions and eruptions of the skin. Its success as a cure for the piles—unparalelled and the relief it affords in consumptive are from the most respectable and enlightened sources.—Herald.

For sale at TUTTLE'S, 86 Fourth street:

PHENOMENON IN CHEMISTRY—East Indian Hair Dye—colors the hair and will not the skin This Dye is in the form of a Powder which in plain matter of fact may be applied to the hair over night, the first night turning the lightest or grey hair to dark brown, and by its reapplying a second or third night, to a jet black. Any person may, therefore, with the least possible trouble keep his hair any dark shade or a perfect black, with the positive assurance that the powder if applied to the skin will not color it. There is no coloring in this statement, as any one may easily test. These facts are warranted by the chemist who manufactures it.

LOOK AT THIS.

The attention of those who have been somewhat sceptical in reference to the numerous certificates published in favor of Dr. Swayne's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, on account of the persons being unknown in this section of the State, is respectfully directed to the following certificate, the writer of which has been a citizen of this borough for several years, and is known as a gentleman of integrity and responsibility.

To the Agent, Mr. J. Kirby.

"I have used Dr. Swayne's Comp und Syrup of Wild Cherry for a cough, with which I have been severely afflicted for about four months, and I have no hesitation in saying that it is the most effective medicine that I have been able to procure. It composes all uneasiness, and agrees well with my diet,—and maintains a regular and good appetite. I can freely recommend it to all others similarly afflicted. J. MESSICK, Borough of Chambersville. PROSPECTUS

For publishing a new Daily Paper in the City of Pittsburgh, to be entitled the DAILY MORNING POST.

THE Subscribers having made arrangements to merge the American Manufacturer and Pittsburgh Mercury into one Journal, have concluded to publish a daily paper with the title of the Daily Morning Post.

The leading object of the "Post" will be the dissemination and defence of the political principles that have heretofore been maintained by the Editors, in their respective papers, and their best efforts will still be devoted to the advancement and success of those doctrines.

Although, in politics, the paper will be thoroughly democratic, yet the Editors hope, by giving an honest, candid history of passing Political events, Foreign and Domestic Intelligence, and brief notices of all matters and occurrences that come properly within the sphere of a Public Journal, to make their paper sufficiently interesting to entitle it to the patronage of the public, irrespective of party considerations.

In addition to the political and general news that will be found in the "Morning Post," the Editors will take pains to furnish the business community with the latest and most interesting COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE from all parts of the country, and to have prepared such accounts of the Markets and the State of Trade, as will be advantageous to our Merchants and Business Men in their several callings.

Terms.—The Post will be published on a large imperial sheet of fine paper, (manufactured especially for this Journal) at the unusually low rate of FIVE DOLLARS per annum, payable in advance. It will also be sold by news boys at the low rate of TWO CENTS a copy.

Advertisements will be inserted at the lowest rates charged by the other daily papers of the city.

☞ TWENTY active lads are wanted to sell the Post, who will be engaged on the most liberal terms

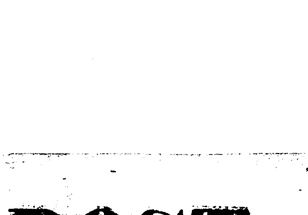
FOR SAFETY.



Travelers should select Boats provided with Evans's Safety Guards, for preventing Explosion of Steam Boilers.

IT would be well for the traveling community to bear in mind that their security depends entirely upon their own encouragement of boats that have or may be at the expense of procuring the above apparatus. And that every individual making such selection is contributing towards a general introduction of an invention admitted by all men who understand the principles of the Steam Engine, to be a sure preventative against those dreadful disasters You have certainly, in the hundreds of explosions that have already taken place, their almost daily occurrence, and the thousands of lives that have already been lost, a sufficient warning, and inducement to make inquiry for a Safety guard Boat, and in every case to give it the preference. They have went to an additional expense that your lives may be secure Ought you not therefore to meet them with a correspondent degree of liberality, and by your preference show that you appreciate their laudable endeavors to stop this awful sacrifice of human life. They do not charge more than other boats; their accommodations in other respects are equal, and in many cases superior; and as there is one leaving Pittsburgh every day, why will you run any risk, when it is so completely in your own power to avoid those disasters.

All boats marked thus [*] in the List of Arrivals and Departures, in another part of this paper, are supplied with the Safety Guard.

THE LITERARY POST.

A Thrilling Scene.

The following passage from a novel just published in London, entitled the 'Scotch Heiress,' is exceedingly spirited. The main interest of the story rests with Kenneth Clyne, a kind, generous, and noble minded young man, whose very faults spring from his ardent and sensitive nature—He is introduced to us as the son of a Scotch officer of high birth but small means, who died leaving a widow and three children. While studying law, Kenneth distinguishes himself by the zeal which he manifests in the case of Miss Helen Ruthven, (the Scottish heiress) of whose estates her uncle, Sir Edgar Ruthven, was seeking to dispossess her, on the ground that she was illegitimate. To disprove this allegation legally, it was necessary to bring forward some positive evidence.—The case had began to look desperate on the part of the young heiress, when Kenneth Clyne luckily discovered that a woman, who had witnessed the marriage, had been spirited away by Wylie, the attorney of Sir Edward Ruthven, and conveyed on board a ship on the point of sailing for Australia. To detain this witness was an object of too much importance to be lightly foregone. Kenneth obtained a judge's warrant, and, with his humble friend, (a capitally drawn character, by the way,) and an officer with a warrant, proceeded to go on board the ship. The incident of taking an old woman on an admiralty warrant is trivial enough, but we extract the author's description of the scene, to show how powerfully he can work up the interest of what in some hands would have been a very common place affair.

The ship lay about a mile distant, but the crowded deck, and the cries of the sailors, as they struck their handspikes in the clanking capstan, the busy hands aloft, and the unfurling canvass, all showed that the vessel would soon be under weigh.

'Row, men, row,' cried Kenneth, 'the ship will escape us.'

On bounded the boat with increased speed over the long waves that rose heavily around them; the boatman straining laid at the oars, assisted by Kenneth and Ben to increase their progress. But it was evident their approach was not unnoticed by those on board. Many glasses were pointed at the approaching boat, and an unusual bustle on deck seemed to presage an unfavorable reception to Kenneth and his party. It was obvious indeed that the ship was straining all hands to get under weigh before the boat arrived. The cry of the men at the capstan became louder and more cheering, the handspikes were fastened and lowered with greater alacrity, and the whole movements on board appeared to proceed with increased rapidity.

'Pull, men, pull, for God's sake,' cried Kenneth, rising and straining his eyes at the ship. Officer, show, your badge, perhaps the captain will respect it. Come, man, stand up.'

But to stand up was not quite such an easy to a man already paralyzed with fear and under the motion of a boat dipping over a swelling sea. The officer, therefore did not stand up, but he displayed his badge, a silver anchor, the best way he could, and trusted to good telescopes and the laws of optics for the rest. It was evident this was not unobserved; as mutterings loud and long were heard over the waters, increasing in clamor with the increasing progress of the boat.

'Pull—pull,' cried Kenneth, 'they will escape us yet.' 'No—no,' cried Ben, 'we have them. Hurrah! a long pull.' 'Now, officer, now—be
