> The whole thing has been kept a secret in Texas-and in this the editors of that country have pursued the wiser policy .---The calamities which befel the Santa Fe expedition were in part caused by too great publicity given of its movements.

> The route taken by the present expediion is to the south of Red river, only crossing that stream when the road rendered it necessary. Military operations were to be exclusively confined to the territory of Texas and of Mexico. The St Louis road will be entered 150 miles from Santa Fo; within the territory of that department. Col Snively is a prudent, brave, and meritorious officer; and if he is in command of the expedition, we may look for the most favorable results. The Civilian says that "the city of Santa Fe will be en-
