"My DEAR Siz :-- I have made my visit to the ommunity, as it is called, at West Roxbury, and find that it more than answers the expectation hald out in that account of it, which appeared in the Dial last January. I mean that the degree of success already attained, is greater than it was there intimated it could be, for many years to come. In a pecuniary point of view it is not fail, ing, and that is success, considering the great em-barrassments under which they began. There are seventeen associates. Had each of these been able to contribute one thousand dollars a.place they would be at this moment under no embarrase, ment at all, but instead of that, not one third of the sum was contributed. For the cost of their farm, as I understood it, they are paying interestibut by means of the farm and the school, they, are able o pay this interest and to feed themselves; although there are seventy people already there, and the number will be one hundred in the course of the winter. The joining of a few associates or even one with some money, would render them quite independent. But they feel they have gained so much morally and intellectually, by having been to poor, as to have had none join but theen to whom the accomplishment of the Idea appears DEMOVAL:—The subscribers have removed to Was confident that he can give satisfaction to all who may tree between Wood and Smithheld streets, where they will continue the Windesdie Govery and Commission business and would respectfully solicit the patron age of their friends

Every one prescribes his own hours of labor, controlled only by his conscience, and the spirit of the place, which tends to great industry, and almost to too much exertion. A drone would soon find himself desolated and neglected, and could not live there. The new comers, especially if they come from the city, have to begin gradually, but soon learn to increase the labor of one hour a day in the field, to six or seven hours, and some work all day long; but there can be no drudgery where there is no constraint.
