

uncoining, after the fashion of wealthier professors, who exult in laying in a stock and securing the "cheapest in the end."

To pay double, however, is not the exclusive affliction of the poor, nor is the attainment of cheapness the easy privilege of the rich. The man of wealth, like the man of need, must almost necessarily pay double.

His wide-necked trousers may distend against his will; but he must generally choose his servants, and change his trades; but there is invariably two to one against him; and the continual consequence is, the admirable double payment.

He pays the highest premium for confidence and security, who plunders him cum prius, and who gives the best wages, that his trusty servants may be beyond the reach of temptation; and they sell his wax-lights to his own chandler before they have burnt the wick.

The only choice he has, is not whether he will pay too much or enough, but whether the sum to be paid from him shall be extracted from the right-hand pocket or the left.

He may reduce his establishment, and keep but a single servant; yet a single servant is quite sufficient to make a man pay double.

at a "marginally cheap" price by the expenditure of sixty years of their lives, or at the total cost of their domestic happiness and quiet. But when they have but fame and glory, they find themselves imperatively obliged to expand whatever may remain of liver or intellect, for worldly ease or moral energy in protecting their purchases from the libeller, the detractor, the assasin. What a painful, what a sickening exhibition have we here, of the common lot—to pay double!

Self-love, no less than envy, often enforces the double payment. The irascible and the obstinate, for example, inflict the evil upon themselves. The hasty, unjust expression, at once recalled, seldom reacts with fearful echoes in the breast of the utterer. But he has spoken it, and pride forbids him to retract; the summons to unsay consciousness that his wrong galls him into a resolution to make bad worse; a little word, the honorable admission, which frankly offered at first, would have been received as an atonement, and have purified a jury's verdict against a slanderer, or the dying groan of a delinquent.

To obviate a gloomy ending, (which our little essay needs not), we shall offer a simple suggestion. The surest way to protect ourselves for a just and necessary reparation of injuries, is to cultivate a faith in kindliness. There is at least one situation in life—and it is by no means rare or obscure to any man—in which, with immense advantage to ourselves, we may liquidate a debt, as it were, by double on every side.

FROM BUENOS AYRES. The N. Y. Post has received intelligence that Gov Rosas has expelled the clergy of the order of Jesuits from Buenos Ayres, in consequence of their having refused to hang up his portrait over the altar of the church, as has been done by all other friars in the city.

Another outrage in the streets of New York.—On last Friday a man named Reynolds, was committed to prison in N. York, charged with stabbing his wife Mary with a knife, under the following circumstances.

It appeared that the parties have been living separately for some time, in consequence of the jealous disposition of the husband. The wife, who has been living as servant with Mr John P. Stagg, in Broad street, came down town in the evening to visit an acquaintance in City Hall Place. While she was there, her husband, who had gained a knowledge of the fact, came and called her outside, and on her coming he stabbed her near the region of the heart and also in the right arm. She was conveyed to the City hospital, where she lies dangerously ill, although hopes were entertained of her recovery on Saturday evening.

Subject of the decision of a National Convention. DAILY MORNING POST. SATURDAY, JUNE 16, 1863.

The proprietors of the Philadelphia Ledger have lately been sentenced to pay a fine of twenty dollars for publishing a libel on the editors of the Phila. Chronicle. The system adopted by some printers and editors of applying to Courts to patch up their damaged reputations, we think should be abandoned by the fraternity, and leave the decision of all such questions to public opinion.

Boyer in Jamaica.—A Kingston, Jamaica, paper of the 19th, says:—"Mr Boyer, Ex-President of Hayti, accompanied by the Hon. Dowell O'Reilly, her Majesty's Attorney General, arrived in Spanish Town yesterday, and was to dine with his Excellency the Governor, last evening. We learn that the President of the Council, the Speaker of the Assembly, and other distinguished characters, were invited to meet Mr Boyer on the occasion."

The messenger who visited the President in such haste a day or two ago, was merely an office hunter. John Holden, a resident, has been tried at Waynesboro, Ga., for the murder of George Harben, on the 2d April, found guilty, and sentenced to be hung on the 3d July, proximo.

An Oregonian.—The company forming in Pittsburgh for Oregon, have published a list of the articles which each person must furnish. They amount in the aggregate to $85. Among the articles deemed indispensable, is a SIZEL. Under such a rule, there will be no barbarian degenerate.—Phila Chron.

We think the above is a mistake. No Oregonian who once talked of it having all turned Foursieris. Association is all the agony now.

In Lancaster county antismasonry is becoming an "obsolete idea." The Examiner and Herald, at one time foremost among the advocates for a distinct antismasonic organization, now goes for "union and harmony," and to show its sincerity, it has hoisted the name of HENRY CLAY as the antismasonic candidate for the Presidency. The party in that county approve of the course pursued by the Examiner, as a late convention of the pure blue noses, which was called to organize on distinct antismasonic grounds, they would scarcely muster a corporal's guard.

The St. Louis Organ says: "Our Missouri farmers have turned their attention entirely to the cultivation of Tobacco. The immense quantities which are daily arriving in the city.
