Evans' Chamomile Pills.

ABRAHAM J. CLEMER, residing at 66, Mott street, New York, was afflicted with Dyspepsia in its most aggravated form. The symptoms were violent headache, great debility, fever, costiveness, cough, heartburn, pain in the chest and stomach always after eating, impaired appetite, sensation of sinking at the stomach, furred tongue, nausea, with frequent vomitings, dizziness towards night and restlessness. These had continued upwards of a twelvemonth, when, on consulting Dr. Wm. Evans, 100 Chatham street, and submitting to his ever successful and agreeable mode of treatment, the patient was completely restored to health in the short space of one month, and grateful for the incalculable benefit derived, gladly came forward and volunteered the above statement. Better Bargains than ever, at the Three Big Doors.

THE subscriber would respectfully inform his customers and the public generally, that notwithstanding the unprecedented sales at the Three Big Doors, during the present season; he has still on hand the largest and most varied assortment of elegant CLOTHING that can be bought west of the mountains.—The public may rest assured that all articles offered at his store are manufactured from FRESH GOODS, purchased in the Eastern markets this spring and made into garments by Pittsburgh workmen.

In consequence of the multiplication of slop shops in our city, filled with pawn brokers clothes and the mustcast off garments of former seasons, from the eastern cities, the public should be cautious to ascertain the character of the establishments in which they are invited to purchase, before they part with their money. The articles offered at several of the concerns in this city, are the mere offals of New York and Philadelphia slop shops, and sent out here to be palmed off on the Pittsburgh public. Purchasers should be on their guard against these impositions, and they may rely on the fact that no establishment that advertises eastern made Clothing, can give as good an article or as advantageous bargains as can be had at the "Three Big Doors."

The public will please remember that all the subscriber's garments are made in this city, by competent workmen, and not gathered up like the goods now offered by the "birds of passage" from the shreds and patches of eastern slop shops. It will always be his endeavor to maintain the reputation that the "Three Big Doors" have obtained for furnishing a superior style of CLOTHING in every respect, and at prices below those of any other establishment.

He would again return his thanks to his friends and the public for the unprecedented patronage bestowed upon his establishment, and believing that they have found it to their advantage to deal with him, he would repeat his invitation to all those who wish to purchase Clothing of every description at the lowest price, to call at No. 151, LIBERTY ST. JOHN M'CLOSKEY.

THE attention of those who have been somewhat sceptical in reference to the numerous certificates published in favor of Dr. Swayne's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, on account of the persons being unknown in this Section of the State, is respectfully directed to the following certificate, the writer of which has been a citizen of this borough for several years, and is known as a gentleman of integrity and responsibility.

To the Agent, Mr. J. KIRBY.

I have used Dr. Swayne's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry for a Cough, with which I have been severely afflicted for about four months, and I have no hesitation in saying that it is the most effective medicine that I have been able to procure. It composes all uneasiness, and agrees well with my diet,—and maintains a regular and good appetite. I can sincerely recommend it to all others similarly afflicted. J. MINNICK, Borough of Chambersburgh.

FOR SAFETY,

Travellers should select Boats provided with Evan's Safety Guards for preventing Explosion of Steam Boilers

IT would be well for the traveling community to bear in mind that their security depends entirely upon their own encouragement of boats that have or may be at the expense of procuring the above apparatus. And that every individual making such selections is contributing towards a general introduction of an invention admitted by all men who understand the principles of the Steam Engine, to be a sure preventative against those dreadful disasters. You have certainly, in the hundreds of explosions that have already taken place, their almost daily occurrence, and the thousands of lives that have already been lost, a sufficient warning, and inducement to make inquiry for a Safety Guard Boat, and in every case to give it the preference. They have went to an additional expense that your lives may be secure. Ought you not therefore to meet them with a corresponding degree of liberality, and by your preference show that you appreciate their laudable endeavors to stop this awful sacrifice of human life. They do not charge more than other boats; their accommodations in other respects are equal, and in many cases superior, and as there is one leaving Pittsburgh every day, why will you run any risk, when it is so completely in your own power to avoid those disasters.

All boats marked thus [*] in the List of Arrivals and Departures, in another part of this paper, are supplied with the Safety Guard.

NIGHT SCENE IN A POOR MAN'S HOUSE.

BY MARY HOWITT.

It was in the middle of winter, on the night of the 23d of January, when the weather was miserably cold: it neither decidedly froze, nor did it thaw; but, between the two, it was cold and damp, and penetrated to the very bone, even of those who sat in carpeted rooms before large fires, and were warmly clad. It was on this evening that the seven little children of David Baird, the weaver, stood huddled together in their small room, beside a small fire which was burning comfortlessly.—The baby lay in a wooden cradle on the corner of the hearth. The fire, to be sure, gave some warmth, because it had boiled an iron pot full of potatoes, but it gave very little cheerfulness to the room. The mother had proportioned out the evening meal—a few potatoes to each; and she now sat down by the round table, lighting the farthing candle, and was preparing to eat some little piece of housewifery.

"May I stir the fire?" asked David, the eldest boy.

"No, no," replied the mother, "it burns away too fast if it is stirred."

"I wish we had a good fire!" sighed Judith, the second girl.

"Bless me," said the mother, "it is a good fire—Why, there's Dame Grumby and her grandchild gone to bed because they have no fire at all!"

"I should like some more salt to my potatoes," said little Betsy; "may I have some more, mother?"

"There is none, child," she replied, "I put the last in the pot."

"O dear!" cried out little Joey, "my feet are so hard they get no better, mother, though I did beat them with holly."

"Poor thing!" sighed the mother, "I wish you had better shoes."

"There's a pair," said Joey, briskly, "at Timmy Nixon's for fourteen pence."

"Fourteen pence!" repeated the mother; "it would take a long time to get fourteen pence."

"Mat. Willis begged a pair of nice warm boots," replied Joey, experimentally.

"We will not beg," said the mother, "if we can help it—let me see thy shoes," and Joey put one of his frost-bitten feet on his mother's knee.

"Bless thee! poor lad," said the mother, "thou shalt not go to work again till it is warmer.

"Mother," interrupted little Susan, "may I have some more?"

There is no more," said she, "but I have a whole loaf yet."

"Oh dear, oh dear, how nice!" cried the children, clapping their hands; "and give Joey the bottom crust," said one, "because of his poor feet."

"And give me a big bit," cried Susan, holding out a little fat hand.

The mother divided the loaf, setting aside a piece for her husband; and presently the husband came.

"It rains, and is very cold," said he, shivering.

"Please God," rejoined the mother, "it will be warmer after the rain."

David Baird was a tall, thin man, with an uneasy look; not that he had any fresh cause of uneasiness; his wages had not been lowered; his hours of labor had not been increased, nor had he quarrelled with his master: but the life of a poor man is a uneasy life—a life of care, weariness and never ending anxieties. What wonder, then, if his face have a joyless look?

The children made room for their father by the fire, and Susan and Neddy placed themselves between his knees, and his wife handed him the portion of supper which had been set aside for him.

Mary, the eldest girl, was sitting on a box, feeding the squirrel with the bread her mother had given her; she was very happy, and kissed the squirrel many times; Judith was sitting beside her, and David held the cup out of which the squirrel drank.

"Nobody has inquired after the squirrel," said the father, looking at them.

"No," replied Mary, "and I hope nobody will."

"They will not now," said the younger David, "for it is three months since we found it."

"We might sell it for half a crown," said the father. Mary looked frightened, and held the squirrel to her bosom.

"Josey's feet are very bad," remarked the mother.

"And that doctor's bill has never been paid," said the father—"seventeen shillings and sixpence."

"'Tis more than we can get in a week," sighed the mother.

"I go round by the back lane, to avoid passing the door," said the father; "and he asked me for it three times."

"We will get it paid in the summer," rejoined the mother, hopefully, "but coals are raised, and bread, they say, will rise before the week is out."

"Lord help us!" exclaimed the father, internally.

"Mary, fetch the other candle," cried the mother, as the farthing candle burnt low in the stick, and went out.

"There is not one," replied Mary. "We burnt out the other last night."

"Have you a farthing, David?" asked the wife.

"Not one," replied he, rather hastily.

"Nor have we one in the house," said the wife; "I paid all we had for the bread."

"Stir up the fire, then," said David.

"Nay," rejoined the wife, "coals are raised."

"Lord help us!" again sighed David, and two of the children began coughing. "Those children's coughs are no better," remarked the father, somewhat impatiently. And the baby woke—so did Betsey, who had fallen asleep on the floor unobserved, crying, "I am so cold, father! I am so cold!"

"Go to bed with her, Mary," said the mother, "for you were up betimes this morning, washing; pile up your clothes on the bed, and keep her warm."

Mary went into the little dark chamber to bed with her sister, and her mother tried to hush the crying infant.

David was distracted. He was cold, hungry, weary, and in gloom. Eight children whom he loved were about him, and he thought of them only as born to poverty and care, like himself. He felt unhappy, and grew almost angry as the baby continued to cry.

Cheer up, David, honest man! there is that coming even now—coming within three streets, length of thee—which will raise thee above want forever.—Cheer up! this is the last hour any of you shall want fire; the last hour any of you shall want for candlelight. Thou shalt keep thy squirrel, Mary! Betsey, thou shalt have blankets to warm thee! The doctor's bill shall be paid—nor Baird, shalt thou ever again skulk by back ways to work, to avoid an importunate creditor. Joey, thou shalt turn the wheel no longer—thy feet shall get well in woollen stockings, and warm shoes at five shillings a pair! You shall no more want to sell potatoes, nor shall Susan go short again of her supper! But of this—all this as yet, you know nothing about the relief—and such splendid relief, too, that even now is approaching your door! Wail, little baby, an thou wilt—nurse thy poor tingling feet, Joey, by the fire! and muse in sadness on thy poverty, David Baird, yet for a few moments longer; it can do no harm, for the good news is even now turning the corner of your street.

Knock, knock, knock! David starts from
