Evans' Chamomile Pills.

ABRAHAM J. CLEMER, residing at 66, Mott street, New York, was afflicted with Dyspepsia in its most aggravated form. The symptoms were violent headache, great debility, fever, costiveness, cough, heartburn, pain in the chest and stomach always after eating, impaired appetite, sensation of sinking at the stomach, furred tongue, nausea, with frequent vomiting, dizziness towards night and restlessness. These had continued upwards of a twelvemonth, when, on consulting Dr. Wm. Evans, 100 Chatham street, and submitting to his ever successful and agreeable mode of treatment, the patient was completely restored to health in the short space of one month, and grateful for the incalculable benefit derived, gladly came forward and volunteered the above statement. Better Bargains than ever, at the Three Big Doors.

THE subscriber would respectfully inform his customers and the public generally, that notwithstanding the unprecedented sales at the Three Big Doors, during the present season, he has still on hand the largest and most varied assortment of elegant CLOTHING that can be bought west of the mountains.—The public may rest assured that all articles offered at his store are manufactured from FRESH GOODS, purchased in the Eastern markets this spring and made into garments by Pittsburgh workmen.

In consequence of the multiplication of slop shops in our city, filled with pawn brokers clothes and the minisity, cast off garments of former seasons, from the eastern cities, the public should be cautious to ascertain the character of the establishments in which they are invited to purchase, before they part with their money. The articles offered at several of the concerns in this city, are the mere offals of New York and Philadelphia slop shops, and sent out here to be palmed off on the Pittsburgh public. Purchasers should be on their guard against these impositions, and they may rely on the fact that no establishment that advertises custom made Clothing, can give as good an article or as advantageous bargains as can be had at the "Three Big Doors."

The public will please remember that all the subscriber's garments are made in this city, by competent workmen, and not gathered up like the goods now offered by the "birds of passage" from the shreds and patches of eastern slop shops. It will always be his endeavor to maintain the reputation that the "Three Big Doors" have obtained for furnishing a superior style of CLOTHING in every respect, and at prices below those of any other establishment.

He would again return his thanks to his friends and the public for the unprecedented patronage bestowed upon his establishment, and believing that they have found it to their advantage to deal with him, he would repeat his invitation to all those who wish to purchase Clothing of every description at the lowest price, to call at No. 251, LIBERTY ST. JOHN M'CLOSKEY.

THE attention of those who have been somewhat sceptical in reference to the numerous certificates published in favor of Dr. Swayne's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, on account of the persons being unknown in this Section of the State, is respectfully directed to the following certificate, the writer of which has been a citizen of this borough for several years, and is known as a gentleman of integrity and responsibility.

To the Agent, Mr. J. KIRBY.

Have used Dr. Swayne's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry for a Cough, with which I have been severely afflicted for about four months, and I have no hesitation in saying that it is the most effective medicine that I have been able to procure. It composes all uneasiness, and agrees well with my diet,—and maintains a regular and good appetite. I can sincerely recommend it to all others similarly afflicted. J. MINNICK, Borough of Chambersburgh.

FOR SAFETY,

Travellers should select Boats provided with Evan's Safety Guards for preventing Explosion of Steam Boilers

IT would be well for the traveling community to bear in mind that their security depends entirely upon their own encouragement of boats that have or may be at the expense of procuring the above apparatus. And that every individual making such selections is contributing towards a general introduction of an invention admitted by all men who understand the principles of the Steam Engine, to be a sure preventative against those dreadful disasters. You have certainly, in the hundreds of explosions that have already taken place, their almost daily occurrence, and the thousands of lives that have already been lost, a sufficient warning, and inducement to make inquiry for a Safety guard Boat, and in every case to give it the preference. They have went to an additional expense that only Boxes may be secure. Ought you not therefore to meet them with a corresponding degree of liberality, and by your preference show that you appreciate their laudable endeavors to stop this awful sacrifice of human life. They do not charge more than other boats; their accommodations in other respects are equal, and in many cases superior; and as there is one leaving Pittsburgh every day, why will you run any risk, when it is so completely in your own power to avoid those disasters.

All boats marked thus [*] in the List of Arrivals and Departures, in another part of this paper, are supplied with the Safety Guard.

THE FALLEN LEAVES.

We stand among the fallen leaves,
Young children at our play,
And laugh to see the yellow things
Go rustling on their way:
Right merrily we hunt them down,
The autumn winds and we,
Nor pause to gaze where snow-drifts lie,
Or sunbeams gild the tree,
With dancing feet we leap along
Where withered boughs are strown,
The past nor future checks our song—
The present is our own.

We stand among the fallen leaves,
In youth's enchanted spring—
When hope (who wearies at the last)
First spreads her eagle wing.
We tread with steps of conscious strength
Beneath the leafless trees,
And the color kindles on our cheek
As blows the winter breeze;
While gazing toward the cold, gray sky,
Clouded with snow and rain,
We wish the old year all past by,
And the young spring again.

We stand among the fallen leaves,
In manhood's haughty prime—
When first our pausing hearts begin
To love "the olden time"
And, as we gaze, we sigh to think
How many a year hath passed,
Since 'neath these cold and faded trees
Our footsteps wandered last;
And old companions—now, perchance,
Estranged, forgot, or dead—
Come round us, as those autumn leaves
Are crushed beneath our tread.

We stand among the fallen leaves
In our own autumn day—
And touching on with feeble steps,
Pursue our cheerless way.
We look not back—too long ago
Hath all we loved been lost;
Nor forward—for we may not live
To see our new hope crossed;
But on we go—the sun's faint beam
A feeble warmth imparts—
Childhood without its joy returns—
The present fills our heart!

TOO LATE.

BY EMILY A. MAY.

"My dear," said Mrs. Weldon to her daughter Sophia, "had you not better be getting ready for your music lesson. It is now half past nine, and you have several squares to walk."

"Oh! there's plenty of time," answered Sophia, "I can get ready in five minutes and walk to Signor Torticelli's in five minutes more."

"So you said on Monday when you were too late. Indeed I fear Sophia, that you are contracting a habit of procrastination which will be a fruitful cause of sorrow to you through life. 'Never put off till to-morrow what can be done to-day,' is an excellent proverb, but I would amend it by adding, 'and never delay a minute in doing what has to be done.' Do put down that novel, love, and go and attire yourself."

Sophia reluctantly obeyed and left the room. But when she reached her chamber, instead of donning her bonnet and shawl, she threw herself pettishly into a chair.

"I do wish ma," she said, "would not lecture one so. She is always talking about my being too late. One would think father was a bank clerk, she has such a regard for punctuality. Now for spite I'll go to Signor Torticelli's too late."

But when a few minutes had cooled her passion, Sophia felt ashamed of herself, for she was an impulsive rather than a bad girl, and began to attire herself, resolved to be at Signor Torticelli's in time. Her delay, however, had been fatal. Though she almost ran through the street, she arrived too late. And the Signor, who made a point of never waiting a minute, had gone out.

"Sophy," said her father to her a few days afterwards "there is nothing for me to do in town until Monday; so I have a notion of running into the country for the rest of the week. And luckily the steamboat is to make an excursion to Long Branch on Saturday, and on every occasion was too late. Her mother reasoned with her in vain, and at last her father spoke seriously on the subject.

"Sophy," said he, one evening, several days after he had requested her to purchase a certain scarce fabric of summer wear for him which was in the market, but which she had delayed going for till it was all sold, "your want of punctuality is intolerable. Your mother and I, and indeed the whole family are daily sufferers by it. If you do not correct the habit, it will be the cause of inculculable evil to you through life. Many a battle on which hung the fate of an empire, has been lost by some one being too late on the ground. Many a woman has lost the affections of her husband, never to recover them, by being too late. I warn you, my dear child, against the habit, for I see it growing stronger daily, and unless you rally at once against it, you will find yourself unable to conquer it."

Sophia burst into tears, for her father had never spoken thus to her before, and rising left the room, with a determination to profit by his advice. And again, for several days, she struggled to be punctual to her engagements; but now she found the effort so much harder than before, she became discouraged, and after several vain attempts to conquer, she relapsed into her old indifference, and became the slave of habit.

At eighteen Sophia was one of the most beautiful girls of her native city, and her hand was sought for by a crowd of admirers. Of these she selected one every way worthy of her. He was a young lawyer rapidly rising to eminence, for his legal attainments and eloquence were both of a superior order. He had long been the prize for which numerous of her friends had contended, and when Sophia found him at her feet a natural thrill of pride could not be avoided.

But it was from no selfish vanity that she accepted him. His estimable qualities had deepened the impression which his person at first made on her, and she soon learned to love Walter Conrad with all the intensity of woman's first affection. She anticipated his slightest wish, and regulated her conduct accordingly, and her opinions were always moulded as she thought his would be framed, for Sophia was one of those trusting beings who gave up all to the one they love, satisfied that he should be their exemplary in everything.

Conrad returned her love with equal fervency, but with more discrimination. As he became better acquainted with her he saw many faults at which he grie-
