Evans' Chamomile Pills.
ABRAHAM J. CLEMER, residing at 66, Mott street, New York, was afflicted with Dyspepsia in its most aggravated form. The symptoms were violent headache, great debility, fever, costiveness, cough, heartburn, pain in the chest and stomach always after eating, impaired appetite, sensation of sinking at the stomach, furred tongue, nausea, with frequent vomitings, dizziness towards night and restlessness. These had continued upwards of a twelvemonth, when, on consulting Dr. Wm. Evans, 100 Chatham street, and submitting to his ever successful and agreeable mode of treatment, the patient was completely restored to health in the short space of one month, and grateful for the incalculable benefit derived, gladly came forward and volunteered the above statement. Better Bargains than ever, at the Three Big Doors.
THE subscriber would respectfully inform his customers and the public generally, that notwithstanding the unprecedented sales at the Three Big Doors, during the present season; he has still on hand the largest and most varied assortment of elegant CLOTHING that can be bought west of the mountains.—The public may rest assured that all articles offered at his store are manufactured from FRESH GOODS, purchased in the Eastern markets this spring and made into garments by Pittsburgh workmen.

In consequence of the multiplication of slop shops in our city, filled with pawn brokers clothes and the musty, cast off garments of former seasons, from the eastern cities, the public should be cautious to ascertain the character of the establishmnents in which they are invited to purchase, before they part with their money. The articles offered at several of the concerns in this city, are the mere offals of New York and Philadelphia slop shops, and sent out here to be palmed off on the Pittsburgh public. Purchasers should be on their guard against these impositions, and they may rely on the fact that no establishment that advertises eastern made clothing, can give as good an article or as advantageous bargains as can be had at the "Three Big Doors."

The public will please remember that all the subscriber's garments are made in this city, by competent workmen, and not gathered up like the goods now offered by the "birds of passage" from the shreds and patches of eastern slop shops. It will always be his endeavor to maintain the reputation that the "Three Big Doors" have obtained for furnishing a superior style of CLOTHING in every respect, and at prices below those of any other establishment.

He would again return his thanks to his friends and the public for the unprecedented patronage bestowed upon his establishment, and believing that they have found it to their advantage to deal with him, he would repeat his invitation to all those who wish to purchase Clothing of every description at the lowest price, to call at No. 151, LIBERTY ST. JOHN M'CLOSKEY.

Look at This.
THE attention of those who have been somewhat sceptical in reference to the numerous certificates published in favor of Dr. Swayne's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, on account of the persons being unknown in this Section of the State, is respectfully directed to the following certificate, the writer of which has been a citizen of this borough for several years, and is known as a gentleman of integrity and responsibility.

To the Agent, Mr. J. KIRBY.

I have used Dr. Swayne's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry for a Cough, with which I have been severely afflicted for about four months, and I have no hesitation in saying that it is the most effective medicine that I have been able to procure. It composes all uneasiness, and agrees well with my diet,—and maintains a regular and good appetite. I can sincerely recommend it to all others similarly afflicted. J. MINNICK, Borough of Chambersburgh.

FOR SAFETY,
Travellers should select Boats provided with Evan's Safety Guards for preventing Explosion of Steam Boilers
IT would be well for the traveling community to bear in mind that their security depends entirely upon their own encouragement of boats that have or may be at the expense of procuring the above apparatus. And that every individual making such selections is contributing toward a general introduction of an invention admitted by all men who understand the principles of the Steam Engine, to be a sure preventative against those dreadful disasters. You have certainly, in the hundreds of explosions that have already taken place, their almost daily occurrence, and the thousands of lives that have already been lost, a sufficient warning, and inducement to make inquiry for a Safety guard Boat, and in every case to give it the preference. They have went to an additional expense that your lives may be secure. Ought you not therefore to meet them with a corresponding degree of liberality, and by your preference show that you appreciate their laudable endevors to stop this awful sacrifice of human life. They do not charge more than other boats; their accommodations in other respects are equal, and in many cases superior; and as there is one leaving Pittsburgh every day, why will you run any risk, when it is so completely in your own power to avoid those disasters.

All boats marked thus [*] in the List of Arrivals and Departures, in another part of this paper, are supplied with the Safety Guard.

COON-SKIN MELODIES.—NO. 1.
BY CHAPMAN & CO.
"You're too late for Pennsylvania."
AIR—Ole Dan Tucker.

The moon was up, and bright as day,
The stars they winked in their quiet way,
But a very sick beast was 'the same old Coon,'
For the west wind whistled this bran-new tune—
Get out o' the way, you coon-skin savy,
You're too late for Pennsylvany!

The Coon had hoped that the Jersey Blues
Would tickle his nose with some wholesome news;
But his heart grew sad, and his tail fell off,
For the news it gave him a church-yard cough—
Get out o' the way, &c.

So over the river, that 'same old Coon,'
He jumped like a thief, to a 'cat dies' tune,
Stopped up his ears—put snuff in his snout—
Dull music to him was that terrible shout—
Get out o'the way, &c.,

Then he laughed ha! ha! for his Coonship said,
'The 'Keystone' sleeps, and it thinks me dead,'
'Huzza for the Dutch!' but a dismal moan
From his friends this side made his Coonship groan—
Get out o' the way, &c.

So the Coon lay down, and his voice got wheezy,
His face grew pale, and his stomach uneasy!
He heaved, he kicked, he attempted to boast,
But the winds still shrieked as he threw up the ghost—
Get out o' the way, &c.

BARCELONA, SPAIN.
The city of Barcelona, the capital of the province of Catalonia, in Spain, in which originated the movement that resulted in the banishment of Espartero, and which, at the last accounts, commanded the assent of Europe, by reason of its sturdy resistance to the Government established at Madrid upon the overthrow of the Regency, was founded by the Carthaginians under Hamilcar Barcino, about two hundred years before the Christian era, and named by them in honor of their general.

After having been conquered successively by the Romans and the Goths, it was subjugated by the Moors early in the eighth century. It remained nearly a hundred years in possession of the infidels, before it was recovered by the Catalans, with the help of Charlemagne and Ludovico Pio. Since then, it has sustained seven regular sieges.

In all ages Barcelona has been remarkable for the same spirit of turbulent and determined opposition to government, or, it may be, to misgovernment and oppression, which its recent proceedings have developed. It was ever the focus of Catalonian insurrection and revolt: from 1462 to 1472, against John II., King of Aragon: from 1641 to 1652, against Philip IV., and against Charles II., in 1689. During the war of the succession, it held out for a long period against Philip V., whose authority it refused to recognize, adhering firmly to the party of Charles, and in its desperate resistance it suffered an incredible carnage. The King in person besieged it in vain in 1706; but the siege was renewed in 1713, and the next year it succumbed to the united forces of France and Spain. It was a common saying there, fifty years ago, "that the King of Spain was not their sovereign, and had no other title to govern Catalonia but that of Count of Barcelona."

In 1715, after the seige of the preceding year, the population was reduced to 57,000; it had increased to 74,000 in 1760; in 1787 to 111,410, not including foreigners, nor the garrison consisting of between nine and ten thousand: in 1798 to 130,000; in 1820 to 140,000. In 1821 the yellow fever cut off a fifth part of the population. It contained, however, in 1826, 120,000, and in 1830, 130,000.

The accounts brought by the Great Western evince great alarm on the part of the Government of Madrid at the turn which affairs had taken at Barcelona.—The menacing attitude of some divisions of the army and insurrectionary demonstrations already manifested in several of the other provinces, led the ministry to apprehend that a movement similar to that which, commencing at Barcelona, had extended itself over all Spain, and resulted in the downfall of their predecessors, was in progress against themselves, with every prospect of a like termination. It was this apprehension that prompted the issue of the conciliatory manifesto of the 14th September, and which, subsequently, when explanations and appeals were found to be unavailing, led to a demand upon France for intervention, to uphold the government established by its own political concurrence, now become powerless to suppress republican movements The obedience of troops habituated to attach themselves to the support of successive parties, and whose discipline has thereby become lax, and the other generals who were most active in the late insurrection against the ex-Regent Espartero, are said to have forwarded the government that it must inevitably be stranded if left to its own unaided efforts against the reaction in progress; and the consciousness of its own weakness prompted the appeal to which France hesitates to respond, waiting for ulterior developements.

Narvaez himself would proceed on this errand to Paris, only that his absence might give strength to the insurrection, and would deprive the government of a support which it absolutely needed from day to day, at Madrid.

RUSSELL'S PLANETARIUM.
That splendid piece of mechanism, "Russell's Planetarium," is on its road to Boston, and will, we learn, be produced here on Monday next, under the auspices of Dr. Lardner. The doctor closed his lectures in New York on Monday evening, and was to have started for Boston by Wednesday's mail steamer. The planetarium is reported to be the most magnificent piece of illustrative mechanism ever constructed. It is not only remarkable for its scale, occupying a circle of little less than eighty feet circumference, and twelve feet high; it is in fact an accurate working model of the solar system, showing all the complicated motions of every planet and every satellite. It glitters in polished metal—silver, brass and steel—and is gorgeously adorned with emblematical embellishments. This instrument was exhibited for a short time in New York, last winter during which it was visited by 20,000 persons. A difference which arose among the parties interested in it threw it into chancery, from which it has just been extricated and placed under the superintendence of Dr. Lardner, who goes to the southern cities during the coming winter, having previously lectured upon it for a short time in Boston, where his lectures were so brilliantly attended two years ago. In addition to this, the doctor brings with him the most splendid and various and illustrative apparatus ever exhibited on this or even the other side of the Atlantic—consisting of nearly three hundred illustrative dioramas, on a vast scale of magnitude, and experimental apparatus of a very novel and instructive kind. On the whole, judging by the reports of the southern press, Dr. Lardner's lectures have been altogether remodelled and recast, besides being re-adorned and embellished, since his last visit at Boston.—*Bost.
