Evans' Chamomile Pills.

ABRAHAM J. CLEMER, residing at 66, Mott street, New York, was afflicted with Dyspepsia in its most aggravated form. The symptoms were violent headache, great debility, fever, costiveness, cough, heartburn, pain in the chest and stomach always after eating, impaired appetite, sensation of sinking at the stomach, furred tongue, nausea, with frequent vomitings, dizziness towards night and restlessness. These and continued upwards of a twelvemonth, when, on consulting Dr. Wm. Evans, 100 Chatham street, and submitting to his ever successful and agreeable mode of treatment, the patient was completely restored to health in the short space of one month, and grateful for the inestimable benefit derived, gladly came forward and volunteered the above statement For sale, wholesale and retail, by R. Clothing Warehouse, Three Big Doors.

THE subscriber would respectfully inform his customers and the public generally, that, notwithstanding the unprecedented sales at the Three Big Doors, during the present season, he has still on hand the largest and most varied assortment of elegant CLOTHING that can be bought west of the mountains.—The public may rest assured that all articles offered at his store are manufactured from FRESH GOODS, purchased in the Eastern markets this spring and made into garments by Pittsburgh workmen.

In consequence of the multiplication of slop shops in our city, filled with pawn brokers clothes and the musty, cast off garments of former seasons, from the eastern cities, the public should be cautious to ascertain the character of the establishments in which they are invited to purchase, before they part with their money. The articles offered at several of the concerns in this city, are the more offals of New York and Philadelphia slop shops, and sent out here to be palmed off on the Pittsburgh public. Purchasers should be on their guard against these impositions, and they may rely on the fact that no establishment that advertises eastern made Clothing, can give as good an article or as advantageous bargains as can be had at the "Three Big Doors."

The public will please remember that all the subscriber's garments are made in this city, by competent workmen, and not gathered up like the goods now offered by the "birds of passage" from the shreds and patches of eastern slop shops. It will always be his endeavor to maintain the reputation that the "Three Big Doors" have obtained for furnishing a superior style of CLOTHING in every respect, and at prices below those of any other establishment.

He would again return his thanks to his friends and the public for the unprecedented patronage bestowed upon his establishment, and believing that they have found it to their advantage to deal with him, he would repeat his invitation to all those who wish to purchase Clothing of every description at the lowest price, to call at No. 151, LIBERTY ST. JOHN M'CLOSKEY.

Look at This.

THE attention of those who have been somewhat sceptical in reference to the numerous certificates published in favor of Dr. Swayne's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, on account of the persons being unknown in this Section of the State, is respectfully directed to the following certificate, the writer of which has been a citizen of this borough for several years, and is known as a gentleman of integrity and responsibility.

To the Agent, Mr. J. KIRBY.

I have used Dr. Swayne's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry for a Cough, with which I have been severely afflicted for about four months, and I have no hesitation in saying that it is the most effective medicine that I have been able to procure. It composes all uneasiness, and agrees well with my diet,—and maintains a regular and good appetite. I can sincerely recommend it to all others similarly afflicted. J. MINSICK, Borough of Chambersburgh, March 9, 1840.

Iron Safes.
I RESPECTFULLY inform the public that I have on hand and keep always on hand an assortment of Fire Proof Safes. The price, in consequence of the materials and labor being much lower, is reduced about thirty per cent. They are kept for sale at my shop, in Sixth street, above Smithfield, next to the church on the corner of 6th street—as also with Atwood, Jones & Co. and Dalzell & Fleming. In regard to the quality of my safes I leave it to persons who have purchased and will purchase my safes to speak the stability of them. I do not use newspaper puffs on my safes, patience and truth warrant me in informing the public that all my safes which have been in buildings burnt down for several years since I commenced have preserved all the papers, books, &c., which they contained. I have a card containing a number of certificates of the same, which are in circulation and in my hands, and the names JOHN DENNING.

AN ENCAMPMENT OF PILGRIMS.

I estimated the number of persons encamped upon the plain before Jericho, at twenty-five hundred, including a singular variety of languages and costumes.—There was scarcely a people under heaven by whom Christianity is professed, without its representatives here. There were Copts, Greeks, Armenians, Catholics, Protestants, from Abyssinia, Egypt, Asia Minor, Turkey, Greece, Malta, Italy, France, Spain, Austria, Poland, Prussia, Russia, Great Britain, America, and I believe all, or nearly all, other Christian lands.—Cossacks were very numerous, and were distinguished for their equipages and personal bearing among a motley assemblage, which could hardly claim to be less than semi-barbarous. Greeks, chiefly from Syria and Asia Minor, constituted the most numerous class.—Armenians were also very numerous, and they were by far the most respectable in their appearance of any portion of the company. Several of them were rich merchants from Constantinople and Smyrna. Here, as every where else, the Armenians are grave and decent in their deportment and general appearance, unostentatious, unobtrusive, and quiet. It is only in the performance of their religious ceremonies that they seem to be as frivolous and irreverent as the other Oriental Christians.

With a very few exceptions, the whole multitude were provided with beasts of burden, and there were nearly as many horses and asses as men and women. A good many were hired for this excursion at Jerusalem; but a great number of pilgrims make their journey to the holy city in this way from the remote parts of Turkey, and, I believe, even from some portions of the Russian dominions. It was remarkable that the pedestrians were mostly from the highly civilized portions of Europe, Italians, Germans, &c., while the wild Cossacks and savage Abyssinians were well mounted. The animals were led out upon the plain to graze in the day time; but, as darkness came on, they were all brought for safety within the area of the camp. Here they were tethered to long ropes stretched upon the ground, and secured by passing them through the perforated heads of short iron bars or pins, forced into the earth by sledge hammers. A large part of the pilgrims slept in the open air, upon carpets, mats, blankets, &c. The forest of thorns was all alive with them, and almost every clump of trees gave shade in the heat of the day, and shelter from the dews of night, to a pilgrim groupe.—This was no mean opportunity to study customs and costumes, when a flock of two or three minutes brought under your inspection the Egyptian dining upon a carpet and a cocoa cake, the Syrian with his hands full of curds, the Armenian feasting on pickled olives or preserved dates, the Cossack devouring huge pieces of boiled mutton, and the European and American seated around a box, serving the purposes of a table, covered with the usual variety of meats and drinks, demanded by the pampered appetite of civilized man.

As it grew dark, a multitude of fires were kindled throughout the camp and in the grove adjoining, which threw their strong glare upon these very characteristic, curious groups, and gave the fullest effect to the picturesque scene. The red caps, the huge turbans, the vast flaunting robes of striped silk or scarlet, the coarse shaggy jacket and bag trousers of the Cossacks, the venerable huge beards and bare feet and legs of the Orientals, all seemed part and parcel of the human beings who lay nestled together upon the ground like domestic animals, or moved about the illuminated area, thus varying and multiplying, by every possible change of light and shade, the phases of all that appears grotesque and fantastic to an eye accustomed to the graver modes of the western world.—Olin's Travels in the Holy Land.

THE ADJUTANT.

To a green, as they hieroglyphically call strangers in India, perhaps the greatest novelty in Calcutta is that, huge, grave, long-beaked bird called the adjutant, but which should rather be named Dominie Sampson; for his air is decidedly more abstracted and pedagogish than military, and his costume has nothing garish or gay about it. The young Johnny Newcomes stares with no slight wonder when he first sees this enormous bird stalking slowly, as if in deep thought, through the streets, flying round a corner within a yard of his person, with his monstrous bill projecting formidably, and threatening him with impalement, gobbling up large bones of beef, or a four-pound loaf, or any other trifle that is pitched out to him; and when he has made a satisfactory meal, standing on one leg, like a disciplined statue, on the highest pinnacle he can find to digest it. The adjutant, as is well known, is a harmless and useful bird, that performs the duty of a scavenger in India, devouring offal, and punishing snakes, of which he is very fond. His valuable services are so fully appreciated, that the company have taken him into their charge, and placed the whole fraternity under their protection, punishing with a heavy fine the murder of one of these birds. Yet such is the ingratitude of mankind, that the inoffensive adjutant is persecuted by the most annoying and cruel tricks. Shank bones of mutton are cleansed out and stuffed with gunpowder, with a slow match applied; then the meat is thrown out and swallowed, and when the poor wretch is chuckling over his savory morsel, it explodes and blows him to atoms. A more venial trick, and not unamusing, I confess, is to tie two legs of mutton together with a piece of whipcord, leaving an interval of three or four yards; the gigots are then tossed out amongst the birds. And soon find their way into the stomachs of a couple of the most active. As long as they keep together, it is all very well; but, as soon as the cord tightens both become alarmed, and take wing, mutually astonished at the phenomena no doubt.

A laughable tugging match then ensues in the air, each adjutant striving to mount higher than the other till at last they attain a great elevation. When, at length, the weaker bird is forced to disgorge his mutton, a new power comes into play—the force of gravity; and the pendulum leg of mutton, after some oscillations, brings the conqueror down to the earth faster than he wishes. These creatures have prodigious powers of deglutition and digestion. It is a very common thing for one of them to seize an impertinent crow, who is troublesome when the adjutant wants to eat his breakfast in quiet, and, turning him right about face with a skilful coup de bec, to send him cawing down his capacious throat. I recollect at Dinapore, when we shook a bag fox, and had an hour's run one morning, some silly servant brought the dead animal home, and tossed him into the barrack square amongst the adjutants, who all came flocking about the poor defunct. One ravenous fellow would seize him by the brush, another by the leg, a third by the back; still it would not do, none could manage to gulp him down. At last a wise old bird set about the business scientifically, beginning at the right end; he took the fox's head in his mouth, and bolted it after considerable struthing: then, with a great effort, he swallowed the body, till nothing remained but a bit of the tail sticking out of one side of his beak. At this the others began, rather hopelessly, to peck, till at length the gormandizer, becoming annoyed at their teasing, flew off with his delicate lunch to digest it at his leisure.—Events of a Military Life.

LYNCHING IN MISSISSIPPI.

We have a letter from Brandon, dated the 23th ult., giving an account of an outrageous act of lynching committed in that neighborhood on the 27th. A black fellow named David Gridley, had been for some weeks committing many depredations upon the property of the citizens, when he was at length caught with the assistance of d
