Evans' Chancery File.

A. BRAHMIN J. CLEMER residing at 66, Main street, New York, was affected with Dyspepsia in his most aggravated form.

The symptoms were violent headache, great difficulty, fever, convulsions, cough, asthma, &c., and the patient had stomach always after eating, impeded appetite, and was compelled to lie down, fared tongue, nausea, with frequent urgings, distress towards night and restlessness. These and other symptoms of a nervous temperament, when consulting Dr. Wm. Evans, on Penn street, and submitting to my unfeigned business, and I recommend him to the patronage of my friends.
