PRAIRIE AND MOUNTAIN LIFE. 'he "Concordia Intelligencer" man-Anful effect of a Nose-The Tune the Old Cow died on-The Phantom Bear The greatest genius we had among us was a poor little fellow with an awful face. He looked like an animated embodiment, in semi-human form, of a thick fog on the Mississippi, at half part three in the morns ing to a man who has just lost his last delfar at poker. He claimed to be Irish, but we all supposed he was a Dutchman. He was about four in height, with a head like the decapitated upper part of a brazz andiron, and he wore a ha: that might have belonged once to Walter Scott this he made tight upon his little odd-look-ing caput by turning half of the rim inside, and stuff-Nano was here in New Orleans, his appearance in the Gnome Fly produced some such vague and gloomy impression upon us as this little crazy man's nose.—
He was decidedly brain-stricken, but quite amiable and to No. 34 Market street, between Second and harmless. We could never ascertain whether his Third streets, where he would be happy to see his eye-brows were cut off or driven in; but no such uniby the everlasting guping upward of his cavernous ne-trils. The sight of this nose produced dreadful notions of suicide in the minds of such as are awakened sometimes during a long continuance of drizzly weather.
"Old Cutnose," a Snake chief, had a pope, the howl of which was made of the red clay common in the noun-tains; a face had been moulded upon it, and the nose wofully disfigured in baking; it was an exact resemblace of this strange little being. And this gem of eccentricity, both in appearance and conduct, was the man of the Concordia Intelligencer, "Little Weful," as we called him. He would often say things that would set the company roaring with laughter, but he never laughed himself, on any occasion. He was a dangerous wit, too, and smoth about him sometimes with sledgehammer effect, so Woful pitied every thing in life that ever suffered pain; self down in the grass, by the head of a dying buffalo, and mournfully soliloquise upon its fate. In these au-"Well, it is too cruel," said he, "it's murder; it's worse than manslaughter; it's murder; it is murder; large, round, polished lumps of Lehigh coal that you wear in your head for eyes keep rolling? Don't look at me and fancy me your murderer. Thou canst not say I did it, poor old cow! "Have you any partiality for music!—That's a nost corrowful air you are singing just now. O I know the words very well. They commence-

"Twore vain to tell thee all I feel, Or say for thee I die!

Or say for thee I die!" A very pathetic ballad indeed, and the air shall ive in my memory as the one the old cow died on?"
Poor little Woful had a dreadful adventure one ment (which is the old oyster depot) shall maintain night. The camp was thrown into consternation some where about midnight, away off upon the "Siskcedes Alige," by a succession of wild and terrific screams There had been a number of alarming bear stories told that night at one of the camp fives, and little Woful had gone to bed with his susteptible bosom brim full of feur. We soon recognized his voice, roaring out, 'help !--help !--bear !-- O lord preserve me !--help

The cries came from a climiter of trees on the edge. of the stream, a bushy undergrowth beneath them Every attention will be paid to furnishing COFFINS, as it turned out, Jack Cromwell, Sublette's head man and factotum, while making his way down to water, mbled head-foremost into the tenement. Jack was a heavy fellow, with a beard that looked as if he had a grenadier's cap strapped upside down to his chin; and exclusively, merchants or other persons wanting can be supplied by him with a better article than the foreign, and at lower prices. Intending to use only the best quality of File Speel, manufactured by the Messrs. with the big beard almost smothering him, and thought at once that his time had come. Jack, who was no doubt father boozily blue, was nearly as much alarmed himself, not knowing what sort of a beast might be in the bushes, and the consequence was, that the two unanimously resolved "to quit" and get out of each other's way with all possible expedition.

Woful put his bandy legs round a tree and ascended screaming "bear! bear!" in blood freezing tones of terror, while Jack crawled away silently and got into

"Where is the bear ?" inquired Col. Sublette, clapping a cap on his rifle. "I'll bet a horse there's no bear about the camp, and

"It may look so to a man up a tree," said David

A thorough search was made and no bear was found. Woful passed the night in the tree, afraid to come down and we dispersed to bed again. It's a Phantom Bear "A Eughear!" said another

"Well, a fool is un-bear-able any how you can fix "mildly ejaculated the Lamb. "Jack told unthe next day how the fright was caus-, but we never disclosed the secret to Woful, who emains now half convened that he was the victim of THE MURDER OF MR. SPRAGUE AT PROVE

Some further evidence has been elicited tanding is connect the Gordons new in custody with the rase der. It will be recollected that a coat belonging to one of them was found not far from the spot where the crime was perpetraired. The Providence Chronicles of Friday, says that a member of the family arrested the day previous, declares that one of the brothers change d his coat for this very coat found in the swamp, as s return from Church on Sunday, and came home. again just at night with the coar of Michael O' Brien in place of the one work when he went out, and found afterwards covered with blood in the swamp The Evening Chimicie of Friday also says:-- "The

KIRBY. I have used Dr. Swayne's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry for a Cough, with which I have been severely afflicted for about four months, and I have no hesitati in saying that it is the most effective medicine that I have been able to procure. It composes all uneasiness and agrees well with my diet, -and maintains a regular and good appetite. I can since sely recommend it to all athers similarly afflicred. J. MIRRICE, Borough of 0. Chambersburgh. For sale by WILLIAM THORN,
