Yes, verily did they drown reason and reaso icating the grossest misrepresentations of the private character, the political principles, and the public acts of Mr Van Buren? Who paid the whole train of seditious demagogues for traversing the country and tainting the moral atmosphere with their poisonous caluma? Many honest men were deceived by their incessant clamor and reiterated viturperations. Many pro-fessing christians caught the spirit of their impious fury. Even ministers of the gospel forgot the rightful functions of their office, and paid their devotion to the separated mankind in all ages, and in all countries, into the advocates of popular rights, and the antagonists of popular influence, equality and freedom. Rome had her Piebians and her Patricians; England her Whigs and her Tories; and America always had, and always will have her Democracy and her Aristocracy.

The Roman Ancus was the patron and herefactors of The Roman Ancus was the patron and benefactor of the Roman Plebians, and the American Jefferson was power and privilege. Rienzi spoke the sentiments of the Democracy of Rome, but the Aristocracy combine ed with its mercenary minions, lighted the funeral pyre of the Roman Tribune amid the broken columns of her Temples. Van Buren stood forth the recognized personification of Democratic principles in America, and unless the people guard their liberties with sleepless vigilance, his defeat may be followed by a revolution Hat and Cap Manufactory.
