NOMENATION FOR CONGRESS.-Every body is asking the interesting question " who will be Judge Wilkins' successor?" If the democrats nominate a good and popular man well qualified for the office—and we has been no action taken on it yet. If it passes there have many such in our ranks-there is no doubt but the vacancy will be filled by a democrat. We have the power to elect, for we beat the combined vote of the whigs and antimasons last fall; but to do so, our wholesforce must turn out to the polls.

The whigs are already organizing for the contest they will do all in their powerste carry the election for the purpose of making CLAY capital out of it for the fall compaign, and it will behoove all who are apposed to the elevation of the political trickster of Kentucky to be active in opposing and defeating their schemes. Gazette to its original friends, and that it will be able to persuade the antimasons to lend their aid to build not concern us. If we succeed it must be by our own strongth, without depending on any extraneous aid. As we said before, we have the nower to elect our candidate, if we nominate the right kind of a man and go into the contest with a determination to forget evesupplementary, for the purpose of defraying the expoints East of the Rio Grande. They have instrucmust not permit personal fends or personal dislikes to make us cold or indifferent. When the candidate i brought out let every man go to work with a patriotic determination to maintain our triumph of last fall, and There is not a doubt but we will spoil a Clay victory and send an honest democrat to fill the vacant seat of Judge Wilkins.

The Advocate mis understands or misrepresents us. We have never been and are not in favor of the impracticable doctrine of "free trade," and we are much be so construed. What we have said has been against Union 71 a Tariff imposed exclusively for Protection, -against a high protective Tariff, which operates onerously on the mass, and benefits but a few large capitalists. Wo avow ourselves the advocates of such a Tariff as Mr. Clay supports in his letter to Bronson and Meriweather, and we hold and insist that the democratic party are also friendly to such a Tariff. The government would scarcely be able to get along without imposing a duty of some kind on foreign articles.

We hold, however, shat our legislation on this subject has been too oppressive and partial, and that it has operated to the injury of the agricultural interests. This we tried to show in one or two articles: which the Advocate has very singularly construed into an adunrelives to be placed in so ridiculous a position—and one so at variance with all our opinions and interests.

The accurrences of every day in the political world make it apparent that the cunning schemes by which a few dishonest politicisus expected to transfer have totally failed in accomplishing their object. The decided stand taken by the antimasonic leaders in this county shews that notwithstanding the 'masonic whigs' enuld purchase the Gazette, the old antimasons were n ade of sterner stuff, and would not consent to be considered a portion of the 'value received' for the three thousand dollars recently subscribed by fifteen whigs, They rejected the proposed alliance with the followers of Grand Master Clay, and with drew from the Convention where the corrupt propositions were made. We find that the Clay men have had no better succos in other antimasonic districts than has attended their efforts in Allegheny. The antimasons of Lancaster county have always been a powerful party, and the whigs thought it of great importance that they should be secured for Clay. The fellowing card shews that the old antimusous of the east are every bit as troublesome as those in the west, and that they cannot be seduced
