A. W. Loomis, Esq. - Rosterday about mosa this aldman, while in the discharge of professional dution before the District Court, was attacked by a Spilestic affection, which for a brief period enopsedo all the velocity and involuntary powers. The shock was trily electrical: the members of the bar and the persons attending court immediately communicate rankacholy fact to the Court of Common Pleas, when the entire business of both Courts was suspended Mr. Looms was taken to the house of C. S. Bradford, Esq. where medical attendance was in requisition, an at our latest accounts hopes were entertained of his recovery. But it must be confessed, his situation is very critical.

It is presumed the attack was the effectof great mer tal energy in the laborious effort of mind, necessaril connected with some pending legal question; and, it is one of the strongest evidences of the sympathy be tween mind and matter, and of the ravages of disease incident to thought and reflection, when affected by causes which in their mysterious operations may anknown to the common observer.

PHILOLOGICAL INSTITUTE.-We are pleased to know that the address of T. J. Bighan, Esq., on the Evan's Safety Guards for preventing Explosion of subject of the coal formation of Pennsylvania, will be Steam Boilers re-delivered to-night at Philo Hall, at 7 o'clock. We bope that all our readers will attend, as those who heard it at the University, speak of it as a most able upon their own encouragement of boats that have or production.
