THE DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION

The Daily Morning Post. THOMAS PHILLIPS, EDITOR.

PITTSBURGH, THERSDAY, MARCH 7, 1843. FOR CONGRESS.

ED. D. GAZZAM. Election, Friday, March 15th, 1844. COUNTY CONVENTION.—The Democratic Convention met yesterday, at the new Court House, and nom inated Dr. EDWARD D. GAZZAM on the first ballot; the vote steed Gazzam 44. Hawking 22.

If the party will now go to work in earnest, the election of our candidate is beyond a doubt. He has fought in many a struggle heretofore for democratic principles; has maintained the cause when there was not the slightest hope of success, and now when the prospects are bright and cheering we feel confident that the party will rally to him with all its strength.

to advance the interests of his constituents. If Judge him. He thought there are obligations which ought this district, but his appointment to a cabinet office has doned without reason, after being exposed to all the filled by a person opposed to the majority in the quence of having House, and opposed to the liberal views of the Presidont, Pittsburgh has but small ground to hope for any public favors. Mr. Clay, in a reckless speech against out city, refused to support a measure that was deemed of great importance to our interests, and giving his reasons for opposing it, declared that all our boasted advantage of being placed at the head of navigation on the Ohio was antrue, as the river at Pittsburgh was frozen over one half the year and dried up the other. If Dr. GAZZAM should not be elected he will be beaten by a friend of the man who made this false tion. and contemptuous assertion about our city, and no one of common sense will expect that a representative entertaining such sertiments or who will support the unanimously. man who would express them. can have any influence in carrying measures that would contribute to the welfare of our city and county. If the citizens of all parties desire a representative who has the will and influence to serve them, they will support the democrati: nominee His devotion to the interests of his native city, and his ability to advocate them are understood, and his political connexion with the majority in Congress will give him an influence congratulating the Union Whig and Antimasonic parthat no whig could possibly possess.
