Evans' Chamomile Pills.

ABRAHAM J. CLEMER, residing at 66, Mott street, New York, was afflicted with Dyspepsia in its most aggravated form. The symptoms were violent headache, great debility, fever, costiveness, cough, heartburn, pain in the chest and stomach always after eating, impaired appetite, sensation of sinking at the stomach, furred tongue, nausea, with frequent vomitings, dizziness towards night and restlessness. These had continued upwards of a twelvemonth, when, on consulting Dr. Wm. Evans, 100 Chatham street, and submitting to his ever successful and agreeable mode of treatment, the patient was completely restored to health in the short space of one month, and grateful for the incalculable benefit derived, gladly came forward and volunteered the above statement. Look at This.

THE attention of those who have been somewhat sceptical in reference to the numerous certificates published in favor of Dr. Swayne's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, on account of the persons being unknown in this Section of the State, is respectfully directed to the following certificate, the writer of which is a citizen of this borough for several years, and is known as a gentleman of integrity and responsibility.

To the Agent, Mr. J. KIRBY.

I have used Dr. Swayne's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry for a Cough, with which I have been severely afflicted for about four months, and I have no hesitation in saying that it is the most effective medicine that I have been able to procure. It composes all uneasiness, and agrees well with my diet,—and maintains a regular and good appetite. I can sincerely recommend it to all others similarly afflicted. J. MINNICK, Borough of Chambersburgh

New York Dyer.

OSEE HIMES, would respectfully inform his friends and the public in general, that he dyes Ladies' dresses, Habits and Mantels of every description, black; and warrants them not to smut, and to look equal to new goods. He dyes fancy colors of all descriptions of silk and carpet yarn. Also, cleans and restores the colors of gentlemen's clothing, so as to resemble new goods.

Mr. H. flatters himself that he can please the public, as he has done an extensive business in New York for twenty years. All work done on moderate terms, at his establishment in 5th st., between Wood and Smithfield near the Theatre.

CERTIFICATE.

☞ This is to certify that OSEE HIMES has done work for us, which has fully answered our expectations, and we consider him a competent dyer.

'Twas the twilight hour "Tuwhit tuwhoo!"
Said the Owl, as he peered the branches through
Of the grim old churchyard tree,
"Tuwhit tuwhoo!"—as he plumed his wing—
"They are silent now—they shall here me sing—
That will gladden their hearts," quoth he.

"I'm the king of birds, and I would ill agree
With my regal state and my dignity,
To mix with the vulgar throng;
So I wait till the shades begin to fall,
And the earth is hushed—then I charm them all
With my soft melodious song.

If I were to sing in the broad daylight,
I've not the least doubt they all will be quite
As pleased and as mute as now!
But I've been told—and I think they're right,
Tl at my voice has a grander sound by night,
And my notes a richer flow.

—Aha! there's that silly young bird again—
The nightingale with his tedious strain—
Now really it's very wrong!—
He listened to me, one summer's eve,
And ever since then without my leave,
He has tried to learn my song.

Tuwhit tuwhoo, tuw' oo, tuwhoo—
He'll be sensible soon, what a vain to do
He has made with his rivalry;
Indeed, I've a mind myself to teach
The bird how comp letely he y ond his reach
Is the tone of my minstrelsy,

So now for a stave!—"tuwhit tuw).oo!"
Said the owl, as he fluttered the branches through,
Of the grim, dark churchyard tree:
And a proud old fellow was he, that hour,
As, perched on the top of the belfry tower,
He hooted right dismally.

THE CAT INSURRECTION.

At the time it became publicly known that Napoleon, then on board the Bellerophorn off Plymouth, was to be sent to St. Helena, a respectable looking man caused a number of handbills to be distributed through Chester, in which he informed the public that a great number of genteel families had embarked at Plymouth, and would certainly proceed with the British regiments, appointed to accompany Bonaparte to St Helena. He added further, that the island being dreadfully infested with rats, his majesty's ministers had determined that it should be forthwith effectually cleared of these noxious animals. To facilitate this important purpose, he had been deputed to purchase, in the course of a week, as many cats and thriving kittens as could be procured for money in that town apiece of time, and therefore, he publicly offered in his handbills. 16 shillings for every athletic full grown tom-cat, 10 shillings for every adult female puss, and half a crown for every thriving, vigorous kitten, that could swill milk, pursue a ball of thread, or fasten its young fangs in a dying mouse. On the evening of the third day after this advertisement had been distributed, the people of Chester were astonished with an irruption of a multitude of old women, boys, and girls, into their streets every one of whom carried on their shoulders either a bag or a sack, which appeared pregnant with some restless animal, that seemed labouring into birth. Every road—every lane was thronged with this comical procession—and the wondering spectators of the scene were involuntarily compelled to remember the old riddle about St. Ives—

"As I was going to St. Ives,
I met fifty old wives,
Every wife had fifty sacks,
Every sack had fifty cats,
Every cat had fifty kittens.
Kittens, cats, sacks and wives,
How many were going to St. Ives?"

By nightfall, a congregation of nearly 3000 cats were assembled in Chester. The happy bearers of these sweet spirited creatures, proceeded all (as directed by the advertisement) towards one street with their delectable bundles. Here they become closely wedged together. A vocal concert soon ensued. The women screamed—the cats squalled—the boys and girls shrieked treble, and the dogs of the street howled base, so that it soon became difficult for the nicest ear to ascertain whether, canine, feline, or the human tones were predominant. Some of the remaining ladies, whose dispositions were not of the most placid nature, finding themselves annoyed by the proximity of their neighbors, soon cast down their bundles and began to box. A battle royal ensued. The cats sounded the war whoop with might and main. Meanwhile the boys of the town, who seemed mightily to relish the sport, were actively employed in opening the mouths of the deserted sacks, and liberating the cats from their forlorn situation.

The enraged animals bounded immediately on the shoulders and heads of the combatants, and ran spitting squalling, and clawing along the undulating sea of skulls, toward the walls of the houses of the good people of Chester. The citizens attracted by the noise, had opened their windows to gaze at the fun. Into these windows the cats instantaneously sprang, taking possession of the rooms by a novel kind of storm or escalade. The cats, in their sudden assaults on the drawing rooms, and other apartments of the Chesterites, rushed with the rapidity of lightning up the pillars, then across the ballustrades and galleries, for which the town is famous, and so slap dash through the open windows into the apartments. Never since the days of the celebrated Hugh Lupus, were the drawing rooms of Chester, filled with such a crowd of unwelcome guests. Now were heard the crash of broken chinathe howling of affrighted lap dogs—the cries of distressed damsels, who wept their torn laces and dishevelled charms—and the groans of fat old citizens rushing and tumbling forward towards the balconies, bald, bare and bleeding. All Chester was soon in arms, and dire were the deeds of vengeance on the feline race. It is not dieso to recite the various combats that took place between the cats and men. Suffice it that our correspondent counted 500 dead bodies floating next day on the river Dee, where they had been ignominously thrown by the two-legged victors. The rest of the invading host having evacuated the town, dispersed in confusion, carrying with them, however, their arms from the field of battle.

DEATH FROM VOLUNTARY STARVATION.

Considerable sensation has pervaded the neighborhood of Camden town, in consequence of a rumor obtaining circulation that Dr. George Swiney, well known from his eccentric habits, had expired on that day, from the effects of voluntary starvation. The unfortunate gentleman possessed a large fortune, but lived in the greatest seclusion, not going out of doors more than five or six times during the whole year. The only person about him was his house keeper. He had never shaved within the last two years, and his beard nearly extended to his waist. He was always most abstemious in his diet, but during the last few months, notwithstanding the entreaties of his housekeeper, he would scarcely partake of any food, and for the last month he peremptorily refused to allow the slightest nourishment to pass his lips, excepting now and then small quantities of cider. In consequence of his refusal he gradually sank. On Sunday morning last becoming nearly insensible, his housekeeper called upon Mr. Kingey, surgeon, who found him in a state of stupor, and having rallied him a little, prescribed for him, but he refused to take the medicine, and expired shortly after. Some few weeks prior to his death Dr. Swiney sent his housekeeper to a chemist's in the neighbourhood for some prussic acid, but the chemist refused to let him have it. Before death the deceased executed a will, which proves the eccentricity of his character. He desires to be interred in St Martin's burial ground, Pratt street, Camden town, and
