They are also different from other pills in composition, being purely segetable, and can be employed at all times, without any danger, and requiring no restraint from occupation or usual course of living.

Notwithstanding Dr. Leidy never pretended his Blood Pills would cure all diseases, yet it is not saying so much of them, from the innumerable cures perform ed by them in every variety and form of disease (cer-tificates of many of which have been published from persons of all denominations, physicians, clergymen, and others) that they seem to be almost universal in their effect; and persons using them for whatever sickness or disease, may rest assured that they will be found more efficacious than any other pills in existence. From the known reputation of Dr. Leidy's Blood Pill, it is necessary to remind the public where they can at all times procure the genuine, as it is attempted to impose other pills, called the 'Blood Pills' upon the public on the reputation of Dr. Leidy's. The only remaining objection is the question of avery. And have we a question which is to curtail the limits of the republication to threaten its existence to aim a deadly blow at all its great and vital interests to court alliance with foreign and with hostile powown to strike down the flag of the Union, as it adances towards our ancient boundary—to resurrender mighty territory, and invite to its occupancy the leadliest (in truth, the only) foes this government has which for beauty and durability cannot be surpassed.

Thankful to his friends and the public for so liberal a patronage heretofere bestowed, he hopes to merit a continuance of their favors.

WILLIAM DOUGLASS, Wood street, man would be feeble and impotent. The avowed object of this party is the immediate abolition of slavery. For this, they traverse sea and land; for this, they hold conventions in the capitol of England; and there they conventions in the capitol of England; and there they brood over schemes of abolition, in association with British societies: there they join in denunciations of consequences. By the returns of the last consus, the products of the slaveholding States, in 1840, amounted n value to $404,429,638. These products, then, of the South, must have alone enabled it to furnish a home the South, must have alone enabled it to furnish a home market for all the surplus manufactures of the North, as also a market for the products of its forests and fisheries; and giving a mighty impulse to all its commercial and navigating interests. Now, nearly all these agricultural products of the South which accomplishes all the great purposes, is the result of slave their and, strike down these products by the immediate shalltion of slavery, and the markets of the South, for want of the means to purchase, will be lost to the needle of the the means to purchase, will be lost to the people of the North; and North and South will be involved in one common ruin. Yes, in the harbors of the North (at Philadelphia, New York, and Boston) the vessels would rot at their whurves for want of exchangeable products to carry; the building of ships would cense, and the grass would grow on many a street now enlivened by an active and progressive industry. In the interior, the rail reads and canals would languish for want of business; and the facturies and
