The government of England is controlled by her aristocracy, the awayed enemies of rapublican government, wherever it may exist. And never was England endeavoring to advance more rapidly to almost universal empire, on the ocean and the land. Here cteamers, commanded by naval officers, traverse nearly every coast and sea, whilst her empire extends upon the land. In the East, the great and populous empires of Scinde and Alighanistan have sbeen virtually subjected to her sway, whilst yet another province now bleeds in the claws of the British lion.

Much is now urged in many of the states in favor of securing a home market for our manufactures. Now here in Texas is a home market that may be secured forever, of incalculable and rapidly increasing valuet that is already lost to us for the present, as the table of exports demonstrates, and, all must admit, will be thrown, by the reannexation, into the possession of England; for, whether Texas does or does not become ofher markets and commerce.
